MILLIONS WILL 'ATTEND' CONVENTIONS BY T-V

'Magic Carpet' of Airwaves to Give Nation Ringside Seats at GOP, Demo Deliberations

Some seventy million Americans will travel to Chicago during July aboard the magic carpet of television.

By a mere flick of a switch they will be on their way to tour the Loop, visit the top hotels and meet the next President of the United States face to face.

To most laymen, the plans for television coverage of the political conventions are right out of the Arabian Nights.

Fair networks will transport the residents of hundreds of American cities into the International Amphitheatre where the Republicans and Democrats will assemble.

Historic Audience

The cameras will give them a bird's-eye view of the entire gathering, then when there sleep enough to a single delegate in the convention hall to spot the soup stains, if any,

As Sig Mickelson, CBS Television executive in command at Chicago, says:

"The effects of television on this convention may change the destiny of the nation."

A battery of seven cameras will record history as it unfolds within the walls of the huge Amphitheatre, located in the heart of the famous in his Rockies. Stockyards district.

Democracy at work will be viewed. Two will cover the main entrances by more people than any other event in the building, catching notables in the history of the world.

TV CHIEF—Sig Mickelson, CBS executive, will be in charge of the live and network operation at the convention. Only 39, he typifies the youth of top personnel in the television industry. A native of Minnesota, Mickelson is a former newspaperman and college instructor.

Five will be set up on special platforms in the arena, at locations from which they can peer into every inch of the convention hall.

TV viewers also will visit convention side-shows, such as press conferences and parades, and travel to Chicago's municipal airport and railroad stations to see the arrival of prominent politicians.

CBS, for instance, has assigned two mobile units, complete with cameras and equipment, to cover the entire Chicago area.

SHRINE OF POLITICS — AND POLITICIANS

HISTORY'S STAGE—The eyes of the nation will be focused on the International Amphitheatre, pictured above, as far political parties meet here to select their candidates for the White House. Television cameras will cover every inch of the convention floor. Special radio and television studios have been installed in this building. A new air-conditioning system has just been installed for the comfort of the delegates.

television audience will see more of the conventions than even the delegates or the individual television reporters in the hall.

Betty Furness, who will give the commercials for Westinghouse Electric Corporation on the CBS network, has jokingly said:

"I'll have to go home to find out who's been nominated."

Miss Furness will be a "captive" within the special CBS studios at the Amphitheatre.

Since commercials will be presented only during dull moments in the convention proceedings, she will be compelled to stand by during every session awaiting a lull. The instant a bell rings, sounding a cue, she will be fifteen being recorded by cameras and filtered through a staff of five directors.

Here is the operation as it will unfold:

Don Hewitt, veteran CBS newsman, resides at the network master control room in the Amphitheatre.

In constant communication with four other directors stationed at key news points, one covering the actual convention program, one directing the mobile units, one assigned to the CBS studios in the convention hall, and the fourth located in the special CBS studios at the Conrad Hilton Hotel.

Each field director monitors the cameras of his news spot and selects the picture to be fed to the CBS master control room.

Final Choice

Hewitt sits before a panel of four screens and selects the one to be transmitted to the vast audience across the nation.

The arrangement is unprecedented in television history, and contrasts with the usual studio situation with one director in the control room monitoring four or four cameras from which he makes his selection.

CBS studios in the Amphitheatre will be located on the upper level of the North Wing, less than fifty feet from the convention stage.

Persons to be interviewed can leave the convention floor, walk up a few steps and be before the camera in a matter of seconds.

Hotel Studios

18 special studios at the Hilton Hotel will be in the very thick of the "smoke-filled room" atmosphere, since both political parties are establishing their convention headquarters there.

Most of the leading candidates also have set up campaign offices at the Hilton, so that press conferences and interviews all will be within range of the CBS cameras.

In charge of this vast network operation is Sig Mickelson, Director of News and Public Affairs for CBS Television.

Only 39, Mickelson is a former teacher and newspaperman who served as a member of the TV corps that covered the Japanese Peace Treaty conference in San Francisco.

At Chicago he will direct the activities of 300 men and women that will include everyone from page boys to such famous broadcasters as Edward R. Murrow, Lowell Thomas, Robert Trout, Eric Sevareid and David Schoenbrun.

Railroad Caravan

Mickelson's "caravan" will comprise eleven special cars on the Twentieth Century Limited that will transport broadcasters, cameramen, engineers, maintenance men, secretaries and office employees from New York to Chicago.

The network also is assembling political specialists from various parts of the country to analyze convention developments from their local point of view.

CBS gear, including cameras, microphones, dollies, boom, cable and miniature lights, is being shipped to Chicago in three large trucks.

Although the Philadelphia conventions of 1948 were telecast to the public for the first time, the job done there amounted only to a test run for the coming operations in Chicago.

Cameras Improved

Cameras have been greatly improved since then, with the notable addition of the Zoomer lens, which can "zoom in" from long range on a subject for an intimate closeup.

The walkie-talkie, which was used at Philadelphia, has been perfected so that CBS reporters may roam the convention floor, unencumbered by cables.

On the arrival of a Presidential aspirant, a party spokesman or a newsworthy delegate, the walkie-

Fiftieth Birthday Dance By Temple Emmanuel

July 13, the Cavalier Beach and Casino Club will be the scene of a great dance. The $5.00 admission price not only includes the music of Russ Morris and his well known orchestra, but also the music of one of the best local groups, Lou Sacks and his orchestra, so that there will be continuous dancing from 9 p.m.

The first Birthday Dance is being sponsored by Temple Emmanuel to which all the money from the program book will go to its founder, Mr. N. P. Folin.

The dance committee for this affair is as follows: Chairman, Dr. H. D. Kuhn; Treasurer, G. Tolstoi; Mr. and Mrs. A. Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. M. Clark; Mr. and Mrs. M. Richter; Mrs. Kuhn; Mr. W. Shum, S. Lipkin, and J. Schlesin.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Franz Hershey and their three children of Richmond, are returning. Mrs. Saunders Wright's colleague on Postmaster Drive for the month of July. They had as their guests last week Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Barrett, of Richmond.

Mrs. Lockwood Entertains Society

The Princess Anne African Violet Society held its June meeting with Mrs. Lawrence Lockwood of Cavalier Park. The meeting featured a穿刺表演 by the members of Mrs. Lockwood. It was voted to continue meeting through the summer months. Blue ribbons were awarded to Mrs. J. R. Tiffet and Mrs. H. F. Ames for their displays. The July meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Parker of Princess Anne.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Knowles and two sons, of Richmond, are visiting Mrs. Knowles' mother, Mrs. George William Truitt Jr., and Mrs. Truitt, at their home on 59th Street.

Mrs. Robert Peters and Robert Peters, Jr., arrived Monday from DeWitt, Iowa, to spend a month with Mrs. Peters' mother, Mrs. George G. Lee, at her home in Cavalier Park. Mrs. Lee also has as a guest her sister, Mrs. Patrick Hill, of Woodstock, New Hampshire. Mrs. Hill has been visiting her niece, Mrs. Peters, and accompanied them to the Beach.

South American Guests Honored

Dr. and Mrs. Luis Echevarria y Poreyda, of Medellin, Colombia, South America, who have been visiting their niece, Mrs. G. C. T. Simonson, at her home in Graydon Park, were guests of honor at a buffet luncheon given Saturday by Capt. and Mrs. Nels Larson at their Virginia Beach home. The guests numbered 25.

Sunday, Dr. and Mrs. Echevarria and Mrs. Simonson were guests of honor at a cocktail party and buffet dinner given by a group of the Latin-American officers in this area. The guests numbered 30.

Dr. and Mrs. Echevarria, accompanied by their niece, will leave this week for South America after visiting friends at the Colombian Embassy in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Alberit Entertain at Cocktails

Mr. and Mrs. H. Alberti, of Washington and Virginia Beach, entertained Friday evening at a cocktail party at their summer home at the beach and later at a dinner at The Marshall's, in celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary.

Among the out-of-town guests were the Rev. Michael A. Lee, of Los Angeles, Calif.; the Rev. Eugene Burke, D. D., and the Rev. Edmund A. Bernard, D. D., members of the faculty of the Catholic University of America; the Rev. Frank Sampson, chaplain major, U. S. A.; Miss Carolyn Smith, of Washington; Mr. and Mrs. John C. Burgess, of Phoenixville, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. William J. Bailey, of Philadelphia and Washington; H. Walter Boenig, of South Africa, and Trygve Gotaas, of Norway.

Miss Patricia Lucas Engaged to Marry

Mrs. Matthew Haywood Denning of Oceanside announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Patricia Anne Lucas, to George William Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth A. Myers, of Waterloo, Iowa. The wedding will take place on August 2.

Wick-Norfleet Vows Exchanged At Calilee Episcopal Church

Married Here Friday

BOB STUDIO

Calilee Episcopal Church was the scene of the wedding ceremony of Miss Carrick Buff Norfleet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Buff Norfleet of Virginia Beach, and Lieut. Curtis Robert Wick, USN, last Friday at high noon. The Rev. Edmund Berkeley, rector, officiated.

Debutantes Are Honored

Misses Mary Gara and Jane Dallas entertained Saturday at a luncheon at 1 o'clock at the Cavalier Beach and Cabana Club, in honor of five debutantes of the season. The guests of honor were Misses Sally Abbes, Edith Alberti, Mary Martha Lea, Virginia Mayo and Frances Smith.

The invited guests were Mrs. Thomas Chandler, Jr., Misses Jane Black, Susan Tyler Wilson, Constance Diane Cushing Wey, Ann Lamar Switzer, Bruce Flournoy, Martha Pender Thomson, Eleanor Randolph Ruffin, Ann May, Mary Doyle Driver, Patricia Rodman, Jim Smith, Nancy Lu Gatling, Rebecca McCoy, Peggy McRoberts, Sue Speppard, Evelyn Nichols, Nancy Beaman, Barbara Dix, Anna Bolling Alfriend, Elizabeth Cara, Betsy Matzumura, Page Hitch, Patricia Beale, Emily Hunter, Kay Oldfield, Deborah Westcott, Russell Bradford, Betsy Pereese, Ann McDonough, Sandra Walton, Mary Neale Joyce, Janie Monroe, Nancy Winn, Joyce Caldwell, Dixie Howe, Florence Blake, Connie Moore, Virginia Anne Allen, Helen and Helen Addington.

Mr. Russell Dawson Taylor, sister of the bride, was her matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a dress of pink embroidered Swiss organdie over pink taffeta, made with off the shoulder neckline, and full bustle skirt. She carried a miniature semi-cascade bouquet of fleur d'Amour and pink sweetheart roses. Her only ornament was a bracelet of amethyst set in gold, which belonged to her paternal grandmother.

Mrs. Russell Dawson Taylor, of the bride, was her matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a dress of pink embroidered Swiss organdie over pink taffeta, made with off the shoulder neckline, and full bustle skirt. She carried a miniature semi-cascade bouquet of fleur d'Amour and pink sweetheart roses. Her only ornament was a bracelet of amethyst set in gold, which belonged to her paternal grandmother.

After the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents, on Ocean Avenue, for members of the immediate family. Later, Lieutenant and Mrs. Wick left for a northern wedding trip, after which they will reside at Newport, R. I., where Lieutenant Wick has been ordered for duty. The bride wore for traveling an original Del Mar cord suit, styled with short fitted chartruese and white jacket and chartruese skirt. Her white hat was swathed in veiling, and she wore white accessories and a corsage of lime green cymbidium orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Scott Wick of Hutchinson, Kansas, parents of the bridegroom, were among the guests at the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baldwin have returned to their home on 27th Street after a vacation trip to visit relatives in Kentucky and Ohio. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Meredith E. Bradford and small sons, Michael and Craig Bradford, of the Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Page and small daughter, Molly Page, of Norfolk, are spending some time with Mr. Page's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vivian Page.

Mr. and Mrs. William Venable and two sons, of Grinnell, Iowa, are spending several days with Mrs. Venable's mother, Mrs. Constance Moore, at her home in Cavalier Shores. They will leave tomorrow, accompanied by Mrs. Moore, for their home in Grinnell, Iowa. En route they will visit Mrs. Moore's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Temple Moore, in Roanoke, Va.

Mr. Robert Webb spent last weekend in Washington, D. C. visiting relatives. She was accompanied to Washington by her son, Dr. Robert Webb, Jr., who will be on duty at the Walter Reed Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tanner Ross and children, Tanner and Keithley, will arrive today from Richmond to spend the Fourth of July holidays with Mrs. Ross's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Taylor at their home in Linkhorn Park.

Misses Katrine and Elizabeth De Witt are spending some time in Charlottesville, Va.

Practicing Conservation

We Americans were born in a land of beauty and plenty, and it is difficult for us to realize the urgent necessity for our conserving our natural wealth. The pioneers who settled the United States were like spendthrifts who came into a large fortune and spent their money recklessly. They felt that the natural resources were boundless, so they took what they wanted and destroyed what stood in their way. Thus they acquired very wasteful habits and it has been a very rude awakening for us to realize that no longer should we squander nature's gifts, but rather check this waste and aid in any way we can to restore what has been lost and preserve our natural heritage. Certainly the day has arrived when our great America is awakened to the fact that we must be more "conservation-minded" for we Americans are outdoor-loving people, and whenever possible, turn to natural beauty for relaxation and enjoyment, and we know we should use wisely and well the resources we have, getting full value from everything we use, and replace it and not destroying the supply for later generations.

All of this we realize, on a national scale is fine. We are ready and eager to protect our waterways and forests, our hollies, dogwood, birds, and other wildlife and wild flowers. But, we ask ourselves, what can we do as individuals to practice conservation. With little effort each of us can promote the conservation movement in our own gardens. First of all, don't burn those leaves! In doing so you are burning money, for they are much more valuable to you than the peat moss and fertilizers which you rush out to buy. Pile your leaves, grass cuttings, weeds pulled from your flower beds, small shrubs and sunflowers for our birds to feed on. The mulberry tree makes a marvelous fence which can be enjoyed by both the owner, as well as the wildlife which it attracts and feeds. In Cuba the British fence is used throughout the island as a means of outwitting the termites which infest and eat the usual fence posts. A lesson can be quickly gleaned from this practice.

"Best Steak"
Says Patron of
The Colony

"The best steak we have ever eaten, Service very good," wrote Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Schools, Jr., of Richmond, Virginia, after dining at the Colony Restaurant on Atlantic Avenue. Mr. and Mrs. E. F. White, 8600 W. 41st Ave., Denver, Colorado, expressed their enjoyment in the following note to the Colony Restaurant: "One of the most wonderful meals of sea food we have ever eaten." The Colony Restaurant is proud of the fine reputation it enjoys with people from every place.—Adv.

Now, as we realize that in our meeting living beauty we are helping to create permanence. The sight of a living fence in bloom is truly a thing of beauty, to be held and a joy to own, back to you until your needs.

Take a spot in your garden and have a small wild flower bed. Continued on page 20

Straight From the SHOULDER Fashion, That Is!

By Alice Brower White

(Fashion and Woman's Director, WYAR)

Listen to the "Woman's World," 9:20 A.M., WYAR, June 23-28, for Mrs. White's full fashion news and interviews with famous American designers via direct wire from the NBC Studios, Radio City.

Nightgowns will be worn next winter!

But before you conjure up pictures of featherbeds and flannel, I am speaking of Lily Dache's nightgown; the evening star of her Fall 1952 millinery collection which is obviously never meant to touch a pillow. It's a twirling confection of jewels and colored velvet, or gilt flowers, attached to a whiff of veiling. It's a wee upstanding diadem, influenced by the coronation theme noticed in so many collections of hats, jewelry, fabrics, furs and fashions in the Fall '52 collections on this merry-and-trip to New York, attending the 19th semi-annual New York Dress Institute's Fashion Press Week.

"Hats with height but not high hats with bulk but not bulkiness" is the cryptic formula for the vivacious Lily describes her current collection. Satin, suede and downy fur are folded and puffed into shapes that cover the head here; there noticeable "shape" yet sit lightly and are definitely on the youthful-looking side.

Pointed interest is shown with crowns slightly pointed, brims that are cut in a point at one side or in several points that shoot up in a decorative profile.

Lily Dache gives us the turban and fed, souvenirs from the North African trip she made last Christmas. Shallow draped turbans in silk sheets often rise to a point and are usually draped over the ears. The fed shapes are worn jauntily sideways or away on the back of the head and are in rich velvets and felt.

"Watch your waistline (of the hat, that is)" says Lily. The "waistline" of the hat, where the brim and crown meet will be interesting, whimsical, and mean a lot in its becomingness to the face. Many hats in the Dache collection have unevenly curved "waistlines" that follow an up and down movement around the head, taking the shape of the brim along. Some "waistlines" are high and wide, giving a bonnet look to the brim, others drop low to give an eye shading effect.

The Dache favorite colors of the moment are a wonderful palette of reds and pinks, brilliant emerald and grass greens, pure white or ivory satin touched with rhinestones or jet.

The evening hat will reach the fashion heights this year, to be sure, with dandie and seduction in every model. Little toques and pillboxes solidly encrusted with ruby, sapphire, emerald or diamond embroidery, pink satin drooping with big lush flowers touched with rhinestones "dew," white satin tailored shapes elegantly traced with jeweled vines and leaves — all signify that gain "influence" will be strong in millinery as it is in evening clothes generally."

Closets of outstanding fall trends: The slim draped waists; new dress lengths for evening; the sweater look; loose waist, high hugging suit jackets — high collars, cardigan cowl and stand-away necklines; style interest concentrated in the back.

Big news: Velvet, deep textured wools, clinging crepes and jerseys.

Terms of fashion heard this Fall: Zibeline (zib-e-een), wool with long silky top hair; old (obe) wide eash effect like Japanese mesh; farthingale, hoop padding at the side only of a skirt; cir (see-ray), fabric with a thick shiny finish like patent leather; Empire (ahm-peer), slim high bosomed silhouette inspired by the Napoleonic period.

You are going to hear plenty about the tube and the fan pleatedes the next few months. The tube is the famous sheath of years back, slightly more narrow — usually with a double kick pleat at the back, placed just above the hem — and a little longer than usual. The fan is also fully, often pleated but sometimes straight at the hem as is a fan when opened.

People, Places, Stuff and Things

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

By LUCILLE CLARK

See "Let's Cook" every Monday through Friday at 1 P.M. on WYAR-TV

1-2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

1 teaspoon Herbs mustard sauce

Mix all ingredients thoroughly but lightly. Make small burgers, 1-3 inch thick. Put on wax paper in shallow pan and store in refrigerator until ready to saute quickly in hot pan — then dash with "Dash."

Make your party burger rolls about size of biscuit, and they too can be baked at last minute before serving if you wish, while burgers are cooking.

Now for that lively mayonnaise:

2 cups mayonnaise
3 tablespoons House of Herbs mustard sauce
1 teaspoon drained horseradish

Blend ingredients, and it's ready to mix with the diced, cooked salted potatoes, celery, grated onion, pickle, etc.

When making potato salad, after cooking potatoes until tender, drain and let cool—not until cold, but just before—then, when you mix potatoes will absorb seasonings a great deal better.

Cucumbers in Sour Cream

3 cucumbers

1-8 teaspoon cayenne

1-8 teaspoon paprika

1-2 teaspoon Basil wine vinegar

1-4 teaspoon C Blend (House of Herbs)

1-2 cup sour cream

1-2 teaspoon salt

Peeled cucumbers, leaving a little of the green end on. Slice, cover with salted water. Let stand for one hour. Lift out and drain well. Add the seasoned sour cream and Dash to taste.

Au Gratin Sauce

4 tablespoons butter or margarine

4 tablespoons flour

2 cups milk

1-3 teaspoon salt

1-8 teaspoon pepper

1 cup grated cheddar cheese

Melt butter or margarine in top of double boiler. Blend in flour, salt and pepper, add milk and stir. Cook until thick and smooth. Add cheese, stir until blended. Cover until ready to use (prevents film from forming). Makes 3 cups.

Cook spinach in salted water until tender. One teaspoon oil 'n' Spice vinegar to each pound of spinach used will add flavor delight. Drain well, put in baking dish, pour over au gratin sauce, sprinkle with paprika and bake 20 minutes in moderate oven.

For your dessert, nothing could be finer than iced watermelon.

Have a nice weekend, and I'll be seeing you next Thursday.

LUCILLE.

For an easy picnic party, I suggest that you serve buffet style and have:

Party - burgers, potato salad with lively mayonnaise, cucumber in sour cream, shrimp to dunk in a delicious concoction of 1-2 mayonnaise, 1 cup chili sauce 1-2 teaspoon horseradish, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Of course, you'll serve this in a bowl.

Even meat sandwiches include one hot dish, even in summer, so let's have a great spinach.

You see, want you to be able to serve your guests and everything that I have suggested can be prepared in advance, then with very little last minute "fixin" you can have a "big ole time" too. For your party:

2 lbs ground beef

3-4 teaspoon salt

1-2 teaspoon pepper

1 cup bread crumbs (moistened)

1 egg

1 teaspoon garlic wine vinegar

THE GOVERNOR'S PALACE

The Palace is an authentic reconstruction of the residence for royal governors soon after Williamsburg became the capital. The construction for this haven of "idle" royalty began in 1705 under Henry Cary and was completed by Governor Sir Francis North in 1726. The Palace was the home of Virginia's first life and death of royal governors until 1775. The building burned in 1781 while in use as a hospital for American soldiers wounded at Yorktown. The entire establishment and gardens have been reconstructed since 1936.

Ways leading to them are Virginia's beautiful green forests. A prime invitation from the past—stately hardwoods, pines and other varieties are ours to protect. You can go the 15 million acres of forests, approximately 60 per cent represent an important travel attraction, they also are the raw material source for one of the state's largest industries. More than 3,000 manufacturing plants employing over 60,000 workers are dependent on forest products.

Forest fires can be prevented. Your help in following these safety rules will aid your own safety and will also protect this valuable timberland.

(3) Be sure your match is out.

Break it in two before you throw it away.

(2) Be sure that pipe ashes and cigar or cigarette stubs are dead before throwing them away. Use ash trays and other containers — don't throw a burning "smoke" out the window.

(3) If you're building a campfire or burning brush, clear away a wide bare spot before lighting the fire — and have some water handy to put out a fire if it gets out of hand.

(4) Avoid building open fires on dry, windy days and never leave the fire unattended.

(5) On leaving, your camp after brush piles, be sure the fire is out. Put water on it and cover it over with damp soil.

Following these and other similar common-sense precautions will assure you of a safer vacation and at the same time you will be doing your part in preserving the beauty of our great Commonwealth.

It looks as though the July 4th week-end will be a busy one, and if past driving trends continue the busiest people of all will be the motorists.

Outdoor Activities Benefits Body, Mind

"Outdoor activities and changes from workshop routine can be beneficial to both mind and body. It is important, however, to consider accident prevention and health protection along with vacation plans," stated Dr. Mack E. Shanholz, State Health Commissioner.

Dr. Shanholz urged Virginians who are planning Fourth of July trips to exercise particular care in driving, especially where traffic is heavy. "Please and eagerness to get to a vacation destination should never tempt holiday drivers to take chances!" he said.

"For raw nerves, restoring energy and generally building up physical fitness, nothing is better than outdoor living," he advised, always the proper and selected protection being taken against the potential health hazards incident to such living. Check your camp site for a safe water supply, a sanitary sewage disposal system and the absence of poison oak and poison ivy. Try to find out beforehand if the area is infested with ticks or other dangerous insects. Make arrangements for preparing your food in a safe manner or eat in health department approved restaurants.

"Swimming has always been a favorite summer sport," Dr. Shanholz continued. "It can be healthful, stimulating and enjoyable. Swimmers should wait an hour or two after meals before entering the water and should remain near the shore or another swimmer. It is sheer folly to dive into water of an unknown depth or to continue swimming after you have become tired."

"Your vacation should be a change for you. Rest if you are a hard worker. Take mild exercise if you are a

SCOUT NEWS

Cub Scouts of Den 5, Pack 48 recently attended a hot-dog round in their home town by the scouts of Brownie Troop 206 of the U. S. Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek, Va.

A wooded lot near the base chapel provided the place for the hot-dog roast and the boys came through with enthusiastic appetites.

Group games were played by all the children before the hot-dogs were served.

Mrs. R. L. Shotts and Mrs. E. F. Redman have charge of the Brownie Scouts; Mrs. A. J. Klimkovich in the Cub Scout Den Mother. The leaders of these two Scouting groups are wives of personnel attached to the base.

Chaplain E. F. Redman, senior chaplain of the base, and Lt. Jr. Or. R. L. Shotts, assistant special services officer on the base, were on hand to roast the hot-dogs and to take care of the work.

The following troops from Princess Anne District are going to Camp Darden for the period of June 29 to July 4:

Troop 62, Jamestown, Leader Richard and Olenski; Raymond Morris, Cullen Davis, Glenn McKaughan, William Spate, Billy Brown, Gardner Skinner, Mike Stillman, Gene Wilson, Columbus Cartwright, Donald Etheridge.

Troop 66, Wade Aycock, Walker Howren, Billy Hudings, Frank Hudings, Richard Mears, Bill Mitchell, Charles Synder.

The Princess Anne Court of Honor was held Thursday night, June 26, at Scott Memorial Methodist Church, Oceanside.

Troop 65 won the advancement award for the second consecutive time. If they win it next year, the trophy is theirs to keep.

Troop 62 of Oceanus won the attendance award with an excellent showing of parents and boys.

There was a total of about 150 in attendance.

Advanced to second class from Troop 62 were Charles Nixon, Raymond Mims, William Speight, Lee Pentress, Max Lemon, Fuller Moore. From Troop 64 were Richard Feran, Robert Bias, Raymond Bias. These were presented by P. N. Oglesby.

Advanced to first class from Troop 64 were Jimmy Faden, sister. Relax, cultivate a vacation attitude of mind, and take time to enjoy every minute and everything you do," concluded Dr. Shantz.

Later, relax, cultivate a vacation attitude of mind, and take time to enjoy every minute and everything you do," concluded Dr. Shantz.

Pete Barberette will be leaving for Camp Darden July 5, to stay three weeks.

Princess Anne's cavalcade is under way. The five boys from Princess Anne ought to be coming back when they return.

EROSION COMMISSION HAS PERPETUAL SAND SOURCE

DREDGE WORKS ROUND-THE-CLOCK; BOULEVARD NOT TO BE CUT NOW

The Virginia Beach Erosion Commission and the Croatan Beach Corporation have reached a satisfactory agreement over the purchase of dredging rights owned by the latter in the Lake Wesley area, south of Virginia Beach, which the commission has designated as a dredging site for the beach restoration project.

The Croatan Beach Corporation, represented by George T. McLean, of Portsmouth, and the commission reached agreement after a series of conferences that resulted in the commission purchasing perpetual dredging rights to the corporation's property for a consideration of $23,460.

The amount agreed to is the exact figure of the commission's original order and affords the project a wealth of sand. At the same time it precludes a condemnation suit which had been initiated against the property. The area intended for dredging contains 19 acres against the original tract of less than 17 acres.

One of the significant facts in the change of areas is that the change will affect the Croatan Beach group's waterfront property at the rear of the property facing the ocean and on a peninsula between the two arms of the lake.

Specifically, the changes in the area designations involve a number of lots on the southeastern side of Lake Wesley. These will be extended along the southeastern arm of the lake all the way to Croatan Road, which is the main entrance to the development. The designation will also be changed for the dredging area in the main body of the lake so that it will be extended southward westward into the headwaters as far as is economically feasible. The dredging line will then cross in a northward direction to the northwest of the lake flats where it will follow the original designation back to Rudee Inlet.

Meanwhile, pumping operations to restore the sand beach continue on a 24-hour basis and within the past two weeks a wide beach has been established for several blocks at the south end of the beachfront.

It was at first planned to cut through the boulevard in Rudee Heights, but with the dredging rights to the new property acquired this will not be necessary at this time since dredging will be done in the Lake Wesley area first.

The commission was not unanimous in its agreement with the Croatan Beach Corporation. One member, R. B. Taylor, dissented because he stated "the commission was morally obligated to dredge in Rudee first."

Waitresses Here Fined $100 Each

Three Virginia Beach waitresses, arrested June 20 in two of the resort night spots, and charged with illegal sale of whisky, have been fined $100 each and given 30-day suspended jail sentences.

Irene Martin Penick, of 309 16th street, and Ida Vida Barnett, of Helm street, Portsmouth, were arrested in the 3 o'clock Club on Atlantic avenue between 15th and 16th streets.

1. OPS Reduces 2 Per Cent Used Car Price Reduction July 1

The Office of Price Stabilization reminds used car dealers and the general buying public that on July 1 ceiling prices of used passenger automobiles must be reduced 2 per cent on 1951 and earlier model cars. This quarterly 2 per cent reduction, says OPS, is based on standard trade practices and is required under the used passenger car pricing regulation. The next reduction will be effective October 1.

Cities and banking institutions will observe a long holiday this week-end. It has been decided.

The holiday begins on July 4 and the following day will also find the offices closed. All offices will reopen for business Monday morning, July 7.

Long Holiday

The City of Virginia Beach began a new fiscal year on July 1, having changed over from its previous date of September 1 in accordance with state practices and in keeping with other municipalities.

In making the change on Tuesday, a complete new bookkeeping system was instituted with the aid of State auditing officials. The city's year will now coincide with the state's fiscal year.

The new system will also afford a complete picture of the city's finances each day with posting done at the close of each business day just as banks and other financial institutions operate.

The new system is termed more efficient and eliminates many unnecessary steps found in the old system.

Safety Of Highway Depends On Driver

If Virginia drivers observe the new speed and traffic laws which have just gone into effect, highways on the Fourth of July and in the future will be much safer, G. Wiss Wescott, general manager of the Automobile Club of Virginia, declared.

The Virginia speed limits were changed on January 1 from 55 miles per hour to 45 miles per hour for automobiles on all highways. Previously only divided highways carried the 55 miles limit. At the same time the maximum speed for trucks will drop from 55 to 45 miles per hour.

Changes in the regulation for violation of the speed limits are what may be overlooked, Wescott said. He pointed out that the new law requires the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles to suspend driving licenses of any person convicted twice in a period of twelve months of violating the speed limits. The mandatory suspension must not be less than 60 days or more than one year.

Moreover, a mandatory jail sentence is prescribed for any person convicted of driving after his license has been revoked. The law

Request Free Tickets For 'Education Day'

Over 16,000 students from 63 Virginia public schools have requested free admission tickets to the Atlantic Rural Exposition's "Education Day" on Monday, September 22. Other requests are being received daily and the total is expected to exceed 25,000, J. A. Mitchell, the Exposition's general manager, said this week.

All public school children, school officials, teachers and bus drivers are to be admitted free to the grounds of the 1952 State Fair in Richmond on this "Education Day." Sufficient tickets to accommodate the school children are sent upon application of the principal to the Atlantic Rural Exposition, Mr. Mitchell added.

Special ceremonies and events are planned for the school children on this day.

AN ORDINANCE PROPOSING TAX RATE FOR THE GENERAL TAXES OF THE CITY OF VIRGINIA BEACH, VIRGINIA.

That it is proposed that a unit levy of $4.75 per hundred of assessed value on real estate, tangible personal property and public service corporations, as of January 1st, 1952, be laid for general purposes for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1953. That it is further proposed that the collection of all "distinction" taxes, after June 30, 1952, be paid into the General Fund, since the amounts of appropriations in the proposed budget to the School Operating Fund and the Mosquito Control Commission are based on the requirements from local taxation and provide an amount equal to that which is estimated would be realized under a separate levy during the fiscal period from collection of current and delinquent taxes. That appropriations from the General Fund to the School Operating Fund, the School Debt Fund and the Mosquito Control Commission are contained in the proposed budget in amounts which would require levies of $1.00, .75c, and .15c, respectively, if separate levies were made.

AMENDMENT to Zoning Ordinance Applicable to Areas Known as North Linkhorn Park, Cavalier Park and Bay Colony.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Supervisors of Princess Anne County, Va. will meet on Monday, July 28th, 1952 at 10 a.m. (D.S.T.) at the Clerk's Office of said County at which time and place citizens will be heard for or against the following proposed amendment:

WHEREAS, in view of the inflationary trend in building costs, the Board of Supervisors of Princess Anne County, is desirous of amending the present Zoning Ordinance applicable to those areas known as North Linkhorn Park, Cavalier Park, and Bay Colony, until such time as the newly created Planning Commission can submit recommendations concerning the zoning of these areas, NOW THEREFORE, the said Zoning Ordinance is hereby amended to include the following additional provisions:

(1) No residence shall be constructed which contains an inside, finished floor area of less than Fifteen Hundred (1500) square feet, exclusive of porches, utility rooms and garages, on any of the following lots:

(a) All lots or building sites located to the southward of Sunset Shores Parkway (also known as Bay Colony Drive and 47th Street, Extended).

(b) All lots or building sites fronting on or adjoining Sunset Shores Parkway on the north.

(c) All lots or building sites located on the water side (Rainey's Gut and Crystal Lake side) of Lake Shore Drive.

(d) All lots or building sites fronting on or adjoining Lake Shore Drive on the land side (Opposite from the water side), east of Roife Lane.

No residence shall be constructed which contains an inside, finished floor area of less than Two Hundred (1200) square feet, exclusive of porches, utility rooms and garages, on the remaining lots located in blocks (A), (B), (C), (D) and (E) and lots numbered (64) through (68), (58) through (63) and (25) through (26), together with those lots and building sites located on the land side of Lake Shore Drive to the westward of Roife Lane.

On all other lots or building sites in these areas, no residence shall be constructed which contains an inside, finished floor area of less than Eleven Hundred (1100) square feet, exclusive of porches, utility rooms and garages.

AN ORDINANCE Relating to the Collection of Garbage in Princess Anne County, Virginia.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Supervisors of Princess Anne County, Va. will meet on Monday, July 28th, 1952 at 10 a.m. (D.S.T.) at the Clerk's Office of said County at which time and place citizens will be heard for or against the following proposed ordinance:

BE IT ORDAINED by the Board of Supervisors of Princess Anne County:

Section 1. To secure and promote the health, safety and general welfare of the inhabitants of Princess Anne County the following shall be observed in connection with the removal of garbage in said County:

(1) For the purpose of the collection of garbage, the County shall be divided into such districts as the Board of Supervisors shall determine.

(2) The occupant of every house or other premises, including all places of business, hotels and restaurants, shall cause all garbage which is to be removed from said house or other premises by the County to be placed in tight, durable receptacles as hereinafter described, and shall have said receptacles placed inside the curb line for such days and at such hours as shall be designated by the Board of Supervisors of Princess Anne County.

(3) Garbage shall be deposited in metallic receptacles of not more than twenty gallons capacity each. Such receptacles shall have a tight fitting cover. Garbage may be wrapped in paper before being deposited in the receptacle. The cover shall be kept on the receptacle while containing garbage.

(4) All receptacles must be kept in good physical condition by the occupant or owner of the premises to prevent waste and leakage. Leaky, flimsy or defective receptacles will be reported to the occupant by such person as is authorized by the Board of Supervisors of Princess Anne County, and if, after such notice, such receptacles shall be again used without proper repairs the occupant shall be subject to the penalty hereinafter provided.

(5) All receptacles shall be removed by the occupant into the premises as soon as practicable after they have been rejected.

(6) No garbage or offensive or disease-producing material shall be dumped in any lot or space within the County for the purpose of filling or for any other purpose without the consent of the Board of Supervisors of Princess Anne County.

Section 2. The term "garbage" as used in this ordinance shall be construed to mean house and kitchen offal, and all refuse matter composed of animal or vegetable substance.

Section 3. After this ordinance shall become effective, it shall be unlawful for the occupant of any such premises to have, maintain, or keep any garbage on any premises except in such garbage containers as provided in this ordinance.

Meeting for the first time since the passing of W. P. Crockett, recently elected President Emeritus of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, the Board of Directors of the commercial organization passed a formal resolution of regret at the loss of their former President.

WHEREAS, the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce has lost in the passing of W. P. Crockett one of its most loved, respected and faithful charter members and past presidents, and

WHEREAS, the citizens of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County have been greatly benefited by his outstanding example of integrity and unselfishness in the conduct of his business, and provided for in this ordinance. Said occupants shall also keep clean and free from rubbish and similar loose materials all premises, as well as all open lots adjacent to such premises and under his control.

Section 3A. Industrial waste and refuse will not be collected by the sanitation department.

Section 3B. Brush, tree limbs, and grass, stumps, rocks, bricks and scrap lumber or iron shall not be considered garbage and the sanitation department will not remove same.

Section 4. Any person violating any provision of this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not more than twenty dollars for each offense; each violation of any provision of this ordinance shall constitute a separate offense.

Section 5. All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed.

Section 6. This ordinance shall be enforceable against both the owner as well as the occupant of the premises for any violation of this ordinance, but the owner shall not be liable for any violations of this ordinance until said owner shall have been notified in writing by registered mail at least 10 days to cease said violations.

Section 7. After this ordinance shall have been adopted, such person as the Board of Supervisors may designate shall cause to be delivered to each of the premises in the County where garbage is collected a printed copy of the same, together with such suggestions as the sanitation office believes will be helpful toward reducing the cost of collecting such garbage.

Theatre-Go-Round Tent Hit By Storm

Mother nature dealt a telling blow to members of the cast of the Theatre-Go-Round Company last Sunday night when the sudden high winds forced the group to lower their tent theatre, only to have it ripped. The result was that it had to be repaired and could not be mended in time for Monday night's opening performance of "Peg o' My Heart."

Damage to the tent was slight, but damage to the trouper's morale was irreparable since it forced them to violate the theatre rule that "the show must go on."

Makeup equipment also suffered from the rains that followed the high winds. However, all was in readiness Tuesday night and nightly performances are back on schedule in the popular tent theatre on 31st Street.

Mrs. G. R. Anthony Dies In Local Hospital

Mrs. Mabel Violet Anthony, 54, of 500 Lake Drive, Virginia Beach, the wife of Garold R. Anthony, died at a Virginia Beach Hospital Monday, June 30, at 2:15 p.m.

During her ten years residence at the Beach, Mrs. Anthony was most actively engaged in the work of the Women of the Church, First Presbyterian, of which she was a member. She faithfully held and efficiently executed several offices of great responsibility, and was president-elect for the year just past.

Mrs. Anthony was also intensely interested in the state and national health programs, being a charter member of the Norfolk Princess Anne chapter of the Mental Hygiene Society of Virginia, and at the time of her death was on the advisory board of the chapter.

Oscar Berry Dies; Former Resident

Oscar Leo Berry, 26, a native of Norfolk, died unexpectedly in Cincinnati, Ohio, Sunday. The husband of Joane Mosley Berry, he resided at Virginia Beach for 14 years before moving to Cincinnati recently.

He was the son of the late Ernest and Lucy Dew Berry.

Surviving are his wife, three sisters, Mrs. Mattie Shipp, of Virginia Beach; Mrs. Nina Cutrell and Mrs. Kathleen Scripture, of London Bridge; three brothers, Alfred Berry, of Fayetteville, N.C.; Master Sgt. Willie C. Berry, of Fort Lawton, Wash., and Percy Berry, of Cambridge, Mass., and five nieces and nephews.

The body will be forwarded from Cincinnati to the Maeser Funeral Home, Virginia Beach. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Rescue Squad Dance Most Successful

The following clubs endorse the Virginia Beach - Princess Anne Rescue Squad and participated in last Saturday's parade down Atlantic Avenue, in addition to the ones mentioned in last week's Sun-News: Kempville Woman's Club, Ocean Pines Woman's Club and Woman's Club of Chesapeake Bay Inc.; Kempville Rotarian Club, Virginia Beach Lions Club, Virginia Beach Rotary Club, Virginia Beach Civitan Club, Princess Anne Jaycees, Virginia Beach Jaycees, Creeds Ruritan Club.

Chairman for the Junior Woman's Club of Princess Anne County of the Rescue Squad dance and parade, Miss Jean Kersey, and the co-chairman, Mrs. Fred G. Trummer, expressed their thanks and appreciation to all the many people who helped make the parade and dance a success.

The Cavalier Beach and Cabane Club was "packed," and an evening of fine entertainment was enjoyed by all who attended.

A memorial service for Mrs. Anthony was held at the First Presbyterian Church Wednesday, July 2, at 2:30 p.m. The Rev. Robert P. Davis, minister officiated.

Pallbearers were C. H. Hitchings, A. S. Holloman, C. Wade Kornegay, E. H. Whitehurst, R. B. Webb, Sr., and F. A. Jenkins.

Mrs. Anthony is survived by her husband; two sisters, two brothers, and several nieces and nephews.

Navy Man Killed As Car Overtakes

Tuesday's heavy rains added to bringing death to our Captain sailor and injury to two sailors when the Navy men who were driving went out of control on a rate-scaled shoulder of the road 1.5 miles south of Kempsville, in Princess Anne County.

The dead man was identified as George Maynard Sollie, 19, a corporal attached to the Ocean Naval Air Station. The Navy had his hometown as Indianapolis, Indiana. He was a passenger in the car.

State Trooper W. A. Sprague, who investigated the accident, said that the vehicle, a 1951 Chevrolet station wagon, turned over "at least two and one-half times." He set the time of the accident at approximately 1:45 p. m., day-light saving time.

An eye witness to the accident estimated that the dead man was buried more than 30 feet, or as high as the telephone poles.

Driver of the vehicle was listed as Julian Liller, 26, who is married at Ocean View, and the other passenger as Robert Eugene Will, 26, an enlisted man at Ocean.

Liller received minor injuries. Will received a broken collar bone, cuts and bruises.

Chester A. Ford, returning from a political rally at Princess Anne, was the first to reach the accident scene. He took the two injured men to the Ocean dispensary.

Sollie's death was attributed to a broken neck as he landed on the shoulder of the highway. A cloth, apparently taken from a duffel bag in the naval vehicle, was spread over Sollie's body as police from Kempsville helped Trooper Sprague with the traffic bottleneck that resulted.

The body of the dead sailor was turned over to Navy authorities.

High Temperatures Kill Many Pond Fish

During the past few days a number of reports have come to the office of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries regarding high mortality of fish in some of the private ponds of the state, I. T. Quinn, executive director of the Commission, announces.

Dr. Dean A. Roseberry, assistant chief of the Commission's fish division, has inspected some of these ponds and is of the opinion that the recent extreme high temperatures, coupled with the formation of certain algae in the water, have reduced the free oxygen of the water and that this has been responsible.

On inspecting the die-offs at Lake Joyce, one of Norfolk City's water supply lakes, Roseberry revealed that 95 per cent of the die-offs were white perch, ranging from 6 to 8 inches, and the other 5 per cent made up of gizzard shad, large bunks, and a few miscellaneous species. With the high percentage of white perch killed, Roseberry said, Lake Joyce fish may now grow to an interesting size because of the increased food supply.

Fish die-offs are not at all uncommon during the summer each year and this condition occurs especially on small ponds where wave action is insufficient to take free oxygen from the air into the water.

Richard A. Jones, city treasurer, returned to his Virginia Beach home Wednesday from Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, where he underwent major surgery several weeks ago.

Jones will remain at home for several weeks before returning to his office in the city hall.

Cochlodinium Turns Bay Waters Crimson

The sudden appearance of large areas of red or brown water in autumnal months is one of the mysteries of the sea. The occurrence of the phenomenon, called "red tide," is not unusual. It has been reported many times in the past in the Pacific, Atlantic, and Gulf coasts of the United States, and becomes great interest because of its spectacular appearance, and because of its possible effects on other marine life.

The appearance of large areas of discolored water in the lower Potomac and York Rivers recently

Dredge Moves to Lake Wesley As Work Progresses

Dredging in Lake Wesley began this week and officials were pleased by the quantity of material found in the area which is being used to restore the sand beach in Virginia Beach's erosion project.

Meanwhile, the pumping operation has extended the sand beach several hundred more yards downstream from the original starting point at the jetty of Stevens Street.

East week the dredge "Washington" moved from Lake Rudee and began cutting into Lake Wesley. On Tuesday the dredge entered Lake Wesley, which is expected to yield enough sand to complete the first phase of the project.

The first phase of the erosion control project which is under the supervision of the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission, will fill the strand from Seventh Street to 22nd Street.

The commission met Wednesday afternoon and awarded a contract to the Haynes Company for repairs to the seawall and rehabilitation of the boardwalk between 17th Street and 22nd Street. The contract was let for a sum of $25,798. The work will consist of replacing all washed out concrete slabs on the seawall and building two sets of steps within the five blocks of access to the beach.

Work on the repairs and rehabilitation are expected to begin very soon.

Cochlodinium Turns Bay Waters Crimson

The sudden appearance of large areas of red or brown water in autumnal months is one of the mysteries of the sea. The occurrence of the phenomenon, called "red tide," is not unusual. It has been reported many times in the past in the Pacific, Atlantic, and Gulf coasts of the United States, and becomes great interest because of its spectacular appearance, and because of its possible effects on other marine life.

17,000 HEAR SEN. BYRD AT PRINCESS ANNE

Don't Forget the Date Has Been Changed

By H. C. Miller - Richmond Times-Dispatch

Voting Hours

Virginia Beach's two voting places will open at 6:30 a.m., earlier standard time, and close at 7:30 p.m., eastern standard time, on next Tuesday, July 15. Voters will cast their ballots in the primary election for the United States Senate from Virginia.

The polls will open at 6:30 a.m., daylight saving time, and close at 6:30 p.m., daylight saving time.

Place No. 1 is located at the Virginia Beach fire station at 26th Street and Argyle Avenue, and Place No. 2 at 310 Pacific Avenue.

RAIN FAILS TO DIM CROWD'S ENTHUSIASM; LAWMAKER BLASTS HIGH TAXES, SPENDING

Senator Harry F. Byrd placed his record of 37 years of public service before an enthusiastic audience of more than 1,700 supporters of a barbecue rally held in his honor on the lawn of his home in Princess Anne County Courthouse on Tuesday, and asked that they vote for him next Tuesday

The senior United States Senator from Virginia asked his supporters to vote for him on his record, and not on the failures or misgivings of his opponent, Francis Pickens Miller.

The speech, which lasted more than an hour and was interrupted by a downpour, he reviewed some of the accusations hurled at him by his opponent in next Tuesday's primary.

"My opponent has accused me of being responsible for everything that happens in Virginia and Washington," Senator Byrd said. "It's bad enough to be blamed for all that happens in Virginia, but it's worse when that is extended to Washington," the senator said.

"That's one blame I'm not going to stand for."

After Senator Byrd spoke for about a half hour the rains came and the senator moved inside the court room to complete his speech.

The independent senator stated that Mr. Miller and his cohorts had found where he had voted "wrong" 18 times while serving in Congress. Byrd said, "That gives me one mistake per year since I have represented the good people of Virginia in Congress for the past 10 years."

In further reference to his congressional voting record, Byrd said that he had voted a Washington statistician to figure out how many times he had voted in the Senate. The result showed that he had cast 28,000 votes. At this point Senator Byrd said,

"That gives me a percentage of 99.92 per cent, which is better than Ivory soap. It claims 99.44 per cent pure, so I am purer than Ivory soap."

Throughout his talk, the audience applauded his remarks.

Byrd hit upon one of his favorite subjects in attacking the wasteful extravagance of the national government in Washington. He referred to himself as "not being a rubber-stamp man and that he would continue to oppose any legislation that violated the fundamental principles on which this country was founded." He recalled that President Truman said, "There are too many many men in the Senate." At that point someone in the audience shouted, "Say, Harry, there aren't enough of you."

Byrd predicted that the recklessly spending and high taxation by the federal government will continue unless "we get down and die in order to stop it before we go over the brink of financial disaster."

At one point in his speech, Byrd indicated that he had given some thought to retiring from public life.

"I was not anxious to return to Washington, but never to return to my home has been faced with such dire perils at home and abroad."

He said, "We must remain strong at home, prepared for any eventuality from without."

In returning to the tactics of his opponent, Byrd said, "If I come out for the Ten Commandments, he (Miller) would have some complaint about it."

After the senator's speech, his supporters enjoyed a barbecue that also was interrupted by rain. Some 1,400 persons had been served when the second of a series of downpours fell on the crowd.

Byrd was introduced by S. Kellam, head of Princess Anne County, head of the State Department of Conservation and Development. Kellam is a former treasurer of Princess Anne County.

After visiting Princess Anne, the senator was joined by two other candidates in this area, Senator John D. Edwards and Senator James E. Webb, in their campaign for the Senate.

Byrd predicted that the recklessly spending and high taxation by the federal government will continue unless "we get down and die in order to stop it before we go over the brink of financial

C&P Moving To 31st Street Soon

Effective with the close of business at 1:00 p. m., July 12, the business office of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company will be farewelled to their quarters which it has occupied for 43 years at 12111 Atlantic Avenue. During the course of the weekend, furniture, fixtures and other operating equipment will be moved to the west office, 200 31st street, just west of Pacific Avenue, where all future transactions will be handled, beginning at 8:30 a. m., Monday, July 14.

Since the business office was first established at its present location, the number of telephones served by the C. & P. in the Virginia Beach exchange has increased approximately four and one-half times. In like manner, the volume of customer contact and administrative records has also increased to a point where the office is now literally bursting at the seams with subscriber population and paraphernalia.

This move is not "long" made suddenly. It comes rather as a result of considerable study and is designed to achieve the following primary objectives:

(1) More space and thereby more comfort and privacy to the public for placing their individual orders, inquiries and requests.

(2) A more central location which is equally accessible to subscribers at the North and South ends of the Beach.

(3) Better parking facilities plus elimination of the necessity for combatting the unavoidable congestion on Atlantic Avenue.

Police Assn. Has Meeting In City

Girls' Day Camp Personnel Trained

Finishing touches were put on the organization of the annual Girls' Day Camp at the American Legion clubhouse on Leckie Street today at 1 p. m. It has been announced by a spokesman for the Girls' Day Camp Committee.

The group will hold a luncheon meeting and Lt. William Walter, of Norfolk, president of the chapter, will preside.

Speaker for the meeting will be Inspector J. S. Rogers, of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who is in charge of training at the National Police Academy. He will be introduced by Virginia Beach Police Chief Reeves E. Johnson, a past president of the chapter.

Rogers' subject will be "Police Training."

The chapter has 300 members located in Norfolk, South Norfolk, Norfolk County, Portsmouth, Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County.

The chapter is the first in a series of two meetings that will train the staff members in the various phases of camp duties.

Camp Seaford Camping Standards are stressed throughout these training courses.

The camp is divided into two groups. One group of girls will attend the camp from July 7 until July 17. The second group will invade the camp on July 21 and will cease their activities there on July 31.

21 Licenses Revoked From 10 to 60 Days

In its drive to curb speed violators and reckless drivers since the new law giving power to revoke automobile driver's license went into effect, the City of Virginia Beach police court has revoked 21 licenses for periods of from 10 to 60 days for speeding and reckless driving.

While on the cruise the vessel will visit Scotland, France, and Germany.

The Wisconsin was recently reactivated after her duties in the Korean area by the battleship U.S.S. Iowa.

Atlantic Waterfowl Council Meets July 24

The Atlantic Waterfowl Council will meet in Wilmington, Delaware, on July 24, I. T. Quinn, member of the Council and executive director of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries.

The Council will meet to take up all questions relative to waterfowl and will discuss the Atlantic coast states' activity and the establishment of refuges and sanctuaries feeding grounds for waterfowl.

Quinn, who plans to attend the meeting, reports that information will be canvassed from all the Atlantic coast states and that based upon the information gathered, the Council may make certain recommendations to federal authorities regarding the coming waterfowl season.

The entire Police Department is complimented by Mayor Murray for answering his call on them to enforce all traffic laws. The Mayor has also thanked Judge Graham for his persistence and care shown in handling the case of each offender brought before him.

Doris W. Current, chairman of the Citizen Club, Charles Peacock Fund drive, today released figures showing results of the drive. Current, while admitting the drive did not achieve results anticipated, stated that he was well pleased.

Counting funds already in the Citizen Club's hands, and remaining monies to be turned over to her for the week, the total will be $2,240.00.

The fund chairman desired to give special thanks to the men at Fort Story, who turned over to Citizen Club $792.00 as a result of a drive of their own to assist in this most worthy cause.

Thanks are also due the following contributors, as well as the many anonymous ones who made contributions from Hampton, Portsmouth, and Norfolk, as well as from Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach.

One Cause X Disease In Cattle Has Been Found By Experiment

At least one cause of the mysterious X disease of cattle has been found.

The Sinclair Refining Company, Inc., and the VPI Agricultural Experiment Station have announced jointly that a highly chlorinated naphthalene will produce bovine hyperkeratosis, or X disease. The discovery follows a year of intensive work by Dr. William B. Bell, veterinarian at VPI.

The malady appeared in this country about 10 years ago and scientists have been looking for the cause ever since. Although not too widespread, X disease has caused considerable concern to livestock producers. Affected animals lost their appetites, their eyes water, they sober constantly, their skin becomes rough and hard, and the animals always sway.

Materials that have been used to produce the disease experimentally include a certain kind of processed alfalfa, feed concentrate, a wood preservative, and a lubricant. It is possible, says Dr. Bell, that a highly chlorinated naphthalene in some way has gained entrance into the feed materials or is present in the wood preservative. It is also possible, he believes, that other chemicals may be found that will cause the disease.

Old Articles Find New Uses

There may be a new use for discarded articles in your home.

Extension Service specialists at VPI say articles such as copper kettles, old picture frames, dasher churns, and even milking stools, can be restored and used as attractive accessories.

An old copper kettle should first be cleaned with water and cleansing powder or soda, then polished, using salt and vinegar, or oxalic acid solution. Polish with whiting. A brass shellac will prevent tarnishing again though the shellac takes something away from the mellowness of the old copper.

A footstool can be made from an walnut picture frame, planed and covered with a durable upholstery or needlepoint. Use four door stops for legs. A wooden milk stool, when finished with oil and linseed oil, will pleasantly stay any living room.

Wood candy, sugar and mince-meat buckets make excellent trash baskets. Clean the mince-

A complete report of Dr. Bell's work is being published in the July issue of the Virginia Journal of Science.

Edgar Metrick Now in Korea

With the 24th Infantry Division in Japan—Pfc. Edgar C. Metrick, Jr., Fort Story, Va., recently volunteered to go to Korea from Japan, where he is serving with the 24th Infantry Division.

The 24th became part of the security force of the Japanese homeland last February.

Metrick is a member of Company B, 21st Infantry Regiment, 24th Division. He entered the Army in June, 1951, and arrived in Japan last January.

POTATO PRICES EXPECTED TO RISE, THEN GO DOWN

An immediate rise in potato prices as a result of OPS action in removing price ceilings, then a drop within 10 days to two weeks as heavy digging gets underway, is forecast by Dr. J. L. Maxton, agricultural economist at VPI.

Dr. Maxton says the removal of price ceilings last week will induce heavy digging on the part of potato farmers, and that supplies should soon catch up with demands.

The temporary shortage in potatoes should be further helped when the production of the intermediate group of potato states reaches the market in value, about June 20-25. This group includes the states of Arizona, Delaware, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, and New Mexico. In addition to Virginia, an expected production of 16,000,000 bushels in these states somewhat overlaps the marketings of the 12 early potato states. Dr. Maxton says it is possible that potatoes may be selling below the recent ceiling prices by the last week in June.

Growers are advised to dig their potatoes when they begin to show maturity. Dig in the late evening after 4 p.m., to avoid exposure to the sun. Pick up potatoes in field crates before 9 a.m., after the night air has cooled and dried the tuber and set the skin. Grade carefully and sell in containers which will protect the potatoes and assure a high quality product.

If you have to wrap linens or white clothing to put away, wrap in dark blue paper so they won't turn yellow. If the paper is unavailable, dip an old sheet in strong bluing water, let dry and use that.

If collars, cuffs, or other parts of woolen apparel develop shiny spots, especially from being pressed with too hot an iron, saturate a cloth in hot vinegar and ring out, then while still damp, sponge the material with this. Press on wrong side.

REC'D OF THE WEEK Chicken and Mushrooms

Serves 6
3-pound frying chicken, cut in pieces
1/2 cup shortening
6 ounces can mushrooms, drained
1/2 cup thin cream and mushroom liquid
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon salt

1 egg white

Roll pieces of chicken in seasoned flour and fry in hot shortening in skillet until golden-brown on both sides. Add mushrooms and cook until lightly browned. Pour off all but 2 tablespoons of fat. Heat cream and mushroom liquid, add paprika and salt and pour over chicken. Cover and simmer for an hour or until tender. Remove chicken and mushrooms to platter. Add milk to skillet and blend with fat. Mix 2 tablespoons flour and the same amount of water and add to liquid in skillet. Let boil up once, then serve over chicken.

AN ELEPHANT NEVER FORGETS

DALE CARNEGIE

Accepting Fate Helps You Relax

Henry Gottlieb, St. Albans, Long Island, got out of bed one morning and he seemed to catch the lowest ebb. Weakness had overtaken him for such a long time that he began to think end was near. Worry had brought him to this condition, fear not believing what had happened, he tried to get up again. This time he fell back for sure, his whole body trembling, the furniture in the room spinning in front of him. What he didn't know at the time was that the previous several years of business worry and strain had suddenly climaxed itself, and that morning he recovered in spite of all the pills and doctors.

He thanks God that he is now back to normal again. He doesn't have to tell old not to worry, for as you can see he has plenty of evidence to show the tragic effects worry can cause.

Today he has a good business, his own home, is married and has a fine young son, and it is difficult to realize that he ever indulged in his former mental attitude.

The difference in living standards between the United States and Russia was pointed out in a recent editorial in the Lincoln Times, Lincoln, N. C. The editorial was entitled "Some Difference".

"Many newspapers recently carried an article by William L. Ryan of the Associated Press which dealt with conditions in Moscow. It was based on information gained from a man who had recently left the Soviet capital. According to him, the Kremlin makes a point of raising living standards a trifle each year. Even so, they are far below the level in the United States and many other nations. A constant barrage of propaganda is employed to convince the Russian masses that 'nobody else in the world even had it so good.'

"Mr. Ryan dealt briefly with the situation in Russia's retail stores. One leading department store, he wrote, 'opens at about 11 a.m. At 9 a.m. there is already a queue running far back from the entrance. The store is invariably crowded, as are the food stores. There are some attractive displays in the windows, but usually the purchases fail to find them items on the shelves.'

"Contrast this with the average American store—whether it be large or small, a chain or an independent. Long waiting lines are unknown, except in the case of some terrific bargain sale. There is plenty of goods for all who want to buy—and a very wide selection of styles, colors, qualities and so on. There are no phony window dressings—whatever is displayed there is on sale inside. If the consumer doesn't like one store, he is free to go to a competitor's shop. He could not do that in Russia, where everything is a state monopoly."

"Next time you shop, whether for such daily necessities as food or for season's wardrobe, think of the vast differences between freedom and communism. It should make you mighty glad you live here—not in the 'workers' paradise' of the Kremlin bosses."

VOTE NEXT TUESDAY

On next Tuesday the voters of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County along with fellow Virginians from all parts of the State will have an opportunity to exercise their right to vote in electing a man to represent them in the United States Senate for the next six years.

It is the duty of every qualified voter to cast his ballot on Tuesday next for the man of his choice. Do not be content to let your neighbor exercise that right. Too many persons, who are qualified, invariably fail to vote at election time.

It is not only the right, but the duty of every qualified voter to visit the polls on next Tuesday. A large turnout of voters will insure that the wishes of the majority will be taken in the election of the United States Senator to represent the Commonwealth of Virginia in the Congress for the next six-year term. CAST YOUR VOTE NEXT TUESDAY!

From Ely Record, Ely, Nev.—The Record believes that all of us must realize that free enterprise made our country strong. We should battle against creeping socialism. Idea from other editor.

If a person in Russia is even vaguely suspected of entertaining any but a feeling of hatred for the United States, he or she is immediately shot or sent to the slave camps for life. The Reds even like to boast of this. But here in our country, our deadly enemies can roam at will and plot almost freely. Can we hope to win under this handicap?

Contrast this with the average American store—whether it be large or small, a chain or an independent. Long waiting lines are unknown, except in the case of some terrific bargain sale. "Where you goin?" Emmy asked when she recovered her composure.

"We're moving to Colorado. There are buffalo, Indians, and practically no women. Father says so."

Emmy was speechless and George pushed his advantages.

"Well, I guess that's why I'm making this bow and arrow to fight injuns."

"Pooh! It's injuns that use bow and arrows. White men use guns."

Emmy had recovered her composure.

The Woman Hater
A SHORT STORY

Georgia was swinging on the gate near the creek and looking wistfully across the low prairie. It was hard to be only five and have no part in the preparations his parents were making.

When he saw a chubby figure in pantaloons coming toward the road, he dashed into the brush, and taking out his jackknife, cut a willow switch from the nearby thicket. He noticed the stick of each end and went to the burn in search of a thumb. The one he found was worn and greasy but when Emmy found him, he was attaching it to the willow stick.

"Whatcha doin?" she asked. "Somethin' girls wouldn't understand."

"Look like a bow to me. Get any arrows?"

"Not yet. Just startin' to make 'em." With his knife in hand, he left for the willows.

"I'll get the feathers," Emmy called after him.

As he cut his sticks, George could hear the chickens squawking. When he returned to the burn, an excited call ran between his legs, her tail feathers missed him. Emmy displayed a fistful of feathers.

"Come with me. I'll show you something." George led the way to the granary. There stood a large wagon with three great history books arching above the wagon bed. "It's goin' to be a covered wagon!" George did not restrain his pride and Emmy caught her breath.

"Mebby. We're goin' too," she mumbled but he did not sound convincing.

"You are not! Mother is going to be the only woman in the whole wagon train."

George swallowed, "a disappointment when Emmy failed to see him off."

As the wagon train jolted over the prairie, George was in the thick of things—a man among men. But the men grew tired and cross. They often screamed at George.

Then Father would say, "Go to your ma." George would hang his head.

It rained and Father made him stay inside. Nothing to do. Tear beds rolled down his face.

"Wished I could see old Emmy," he gulped.

Mother's mouth twitched.

George saw and struggled with his pride. "I wished I could see old Emmy so I could knock her head off."

How Harry Can a "Tender" Get?

"Harry the Horse" dropped in to see Judge Cunningham the other day and started complaining about the dilapidated house he lived in over near Greenleaf Lake.

"Who's my landlord?" Harry wanted to know. "Wherever you pay rent to," says the Judge. "Don't pay any rent," says Harry. "Moved into that house twelve years ago and nobody ever came to collect."

"Well," says the Judge, looking mystified, "what do you have to complain about?" "Plenty," replies Harry. "Hain't youing in my living room and if someone doesn't for that roof, I'm moving out!"

Now Harry was only having a little joke, but from where I sit I've seen people act just about as Harry did—sometimes—of course. Like those who today at the right moment have worked for, and yet would take every cent of their freedom from others—for example, our right to enjoy a friendly glass of beer. I say those "tender landlords" have no place in the "state of Harry."

Hardwood Adjustment Deadline Extended
Until August 1

OPS reports that it has extended until August 1, 1952, the deadline for restaurants and other eating and drinking establishments to adjust their ceiling prices, if they can qualify for the products covered.

The restaurant Ceiling Price Regulation 154, which became effective April 7, fixes prices at the level prevailing during the week, February 3-8, 1952, but allowed adjustments by operators who were charging prices that were lower than were permitted under the old Ceiling Price Regulation 11.

The Price Agency points out that restaurants had been given until June 1 to make their adjustments and post new ceiling prices.

Hardwood Lumber Manufacturers Given Dollars-and-Cents Ceiling Dollars-and-cents ceiling prices effective June 30, 1952.

One of the more important changes, says OPS, permits the inclusion in the base price, from which the ceiling price is computed, of the freight charges from the factory where the machine originally was manufactured to its location at the time of the sale. Previously, this cost was not included in the base price.

instantly frustrated by inability to park legally.

Allowance has also been made for the continued growth which is expected in the Virginia Beach Telephone Exchange. Although it is further away from the established business section of the city, the new telephone office is a part of a considerable business development which has recently been under way on Thirty-first Street.

Quite a few people have already expressed their approval of the approaching transfer. Since the purpose is to provide more pleasant and effective business office service to the public, it goes without saying that it is hoped the early returns forecast a final action which will be 99 per cent distribution.

There will be no change in the location of the Virginia Beach central office, which remains at 302 Twenty-second street.

The telephone number of the Virginia Beach telephone office remains at 12000. Office hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., from Monday through Friday and from 8:30 to 1:00 p.m., through Saturday.

While it is inevitable that the new location will be less convenient to a few subscribers who have been accustomed to walking to the business section of the city, the new telephone office is a part of a considerable business development which has recently been under way on Thirty-first Street.

The action, effective June 30, 1952, is in accordance with a decision by Acting Defense Mobilizer John R. Stelman, says price officials, and is designed to insure that adequate supplies of oil will be available on the eastern seaboard during the coming heating season.

The eight-tenths of a cent increase is the maximum impact on the consumer of a supplementary

Annual Summer Festival Will be Feature of Fund Raising Campaign

For our dear summer festival will be held on Saturday, July 19, on the community playground at Chesapeake Beach. The proceeds of this great community fund raising project will go towards the completion of the new modern Beach Community Center Building, which is being built by the Volunteer Fire Department, the Boy's Club and the Women's Club.

The Women's Club is sponsoring a Festival Queen to be elected by popular vote and crowned on the day of the festival. The queen and her attendants will all receive gifts and presents. There are six contestants for the title of queen. Each one has placed a coin box in the local quality stores, where the citizens can place their votes at a penny a vote. The contestant whose coin box has the most money by festival time will be declared the queen. Contestants for the title of queen are Betty Fahey, Rose Marie Hampton, Iris Tark-

Jones, Marilyn Currie, Julie Meyer-Jeffreys, Beverly Gibson.

Entertainment of all kinds will be provided, including bumper riding, a country store, a white elephant booth, grab bag, a flower and garden plant booth, miniature dolls and handwork booth, a food booth and a booth for sale for a choice of hot dogs, steak sandwiches, homemade ice cream and cake, potato salad and soft drinks. Committee chairmen in charge of these activities are Mrs. W. B. Martin, Mrs. E. Hudson, Mrs. L. L. Dillon, Mrs. R. J. Velines, Mrs. E. M. George, Mrs. C. G. Fahey, Mrs. Meyerhofer, and Mrs. T. J. Treatment of Cement And Mildew Stains

An ounce of prevention is worth more than a pound of cure in the treatment of cement and mildew stains. Or so say the textile technicians at the American Institute of Laundering, research and educational center for the laundry and textile industry, who caution housewives against piling soiled linens on damp floors or dropping damp washables in the laundry bag or clothes hamper in warm weather without first drying them out.

Leaving laundry means for the laundry on cement floors is common practice with some housewives, according to a report recently made by one of the Institute's commercial laundry roundtene. Contact of laundry with a cement surface, claims the A.I.L., results in a gray stain that is most difficult to remove.

A similar stain, usually gray in color and often accompanied by a musty odor, develops under certain conditions—dampness, warmth and the lack of fresh air. It is caused by the parasitic fungus, mildew, whose mold spores are always in the air.

Mildew thrives in a warm, humid atmosphere and germinates when dampness is present. If not killed immediately, it can eventually destroy household linens and wearing apparel. Fresh mildew growth will disappear, but are not actually injurious to the fiber. These fresh stains can usually be removed by commercial laundries, although they may be resistant to ordinary home washing. If the mildew is allowed to set for any length of time, it not only attacks the fabric but becomes difficult or impossible to remove.

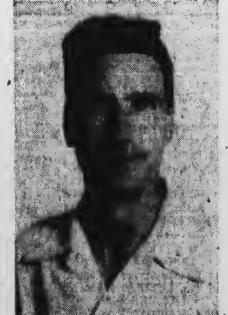

The fisherman had poor luck during the past ten days. I. T. Quinn, executive director of the Commission, reports. Their failure to catch fish may be attributed to extreme high water temperatures which drove the game fish to the deep pockets where the water is cool and where probably there is more adequate supply of oxygen than is found near the surface of the water.

Already the rains during the past few days in the Richmond area and other sections of the state have lowered the temperatures of the waters and again brought the fish back near the surface and normal catches are already being taken.

Halley's comet will reappear in 1988.

National Farm Safety Week To Be Observed This Month

Last year in rural Virginia, 520 people died—accidentally.

They were caught beneath over-turned tractors, they were caught in crop shredders, they fell into power saws, they were attacked by animals.

Their close-in-home figures, compiled by the Bureau of Vital Statistics, were released by the State Council on Rural Safety in observing National Farm Safety Week, which has been set for July 20-26.

The Council asks Virginia farms to participate in the observance. General theme for the week is "Think Safety—and Act Safely."

The Council backs up its advice with some specific stories of accidents which have happened in Virginia—and which can happen again.

Takes a look at one Virginia county—Accomack. In Accomack last year 17 people died—accidentally. A 13-year-old pulled a gun wire against a live wire of school. A 54-year-old was inflating a truck tire, and the rim blew off hitting him in the head. A four-year-old was caught in the drag pulled by a farm tractor.

Pittsylvania county was luckier. There only nine people died—accidentally. One 65-year-old was strangled when her scarf caught in a wringer. One farmer fell from a ladder. A tree fell on another farmer. A 27-year-old lit a cigarette after working on a gas lamp.

A breakdown of the state total of 530 shows:

Other deaths in water cisterns, bathed themselves with boiling water; and Others who touched live electric wires.

Of the total, 54 farmers died. The others died accidentally in public places and "unspecified" places—but all in "rural" Virginia.

The picture shown by these figures is limited. The Bureau defines rural areas as those which "exclude cities or other incorporated places of 2,500 or more inhabitants and Arlington County, which is considered urban by the Census Bureau."

Neither do the figures include those people who were lucky—who had accidents, but who survived.

TEEN-TIMERS' WEEKLY BULLETIN

(Demos to Teens in Princess Anne-Virginia Beach area:

This is to be your column, appearing in each issue of The Virginia Beach Sun-News. Here we would like to have teen interesting stories of hobbies, events, ideas, philosophy and things of interest to you teenagers. It is our plan to have a Guest Editor each week. If you would like to be a Guest Editor, mail in your qualifications (and tell us what you will write about) to this newspaper. Have you any news items you'd like to see in print? If so, we'll make sure the Women's Page Editor's desk not later than midnight, July 14—that's next Monday. Let's start from you and help to build a teen age feature that will be read by many teens in the Princess Anne-Virginia Beach community. (A. B. W.)

Today's story of teenagers and hobbies is about the unusual young Michelangelo who were using gadgets, feathers and yarns if you please, in the exhibit "Painting and Playtime" which I saw at the Workshop of Greenwich House on Washington Square in New York last month.

When two of the young students were painting a five-legged cat and impressions of women pushing baby buggies or sitting on Washington Square benches they used several supplies besides paint. They needed spangles for feathers, glue to make feet, feathers and ribbons to stick to the paper and bright yarn for trimming or for the sprawling branches branches of trees.

Some of these children—there are 65 youngsters, ages between 6 and 15, who spend their playtime at the workshop—have applied their shiny beads, feathers, tassels, gold cords, silk fringe, and yarns to their original sketches.

Well, there's a bit of a story for Princess Anne-Virginia Beach teenagers. How about it, teens? Let's hear from you and let's make it a new feature. Teenagers' Weekly Bulletin from here on in!

Egg Price Situation Given By Economist

Virginia egg prices strengthened only slightly from mid-June to mid-June, and prices of all chickens were down by 3½¢ a pound.

R. J. Krueger, poultry marketing specialist at VPI, said "all chickens" include broilers, fryers, heavy hens, light hens, etc. The average mid-June price of broilers and fryers in the Roanoke area was 1.3¢ a pound less than the average in May. In the Winchester area the price was .7¢ a pound more, in the Richmond area, .9¢, and in the Shenandoah area 1.3¢ a pound more than in May.

Heavy hen prices in each of these four areas were below the May prices, ranging from a drop of 1.1¢ a pound in the Roanoke area to 3.5¢ in the Richmond area. Leghorn hen prices were also down in each of these areas. The price drop ranged from .2¢ to 1.4¢. Eggs were up only .5¢ from May.

These approvals bring the total authorized for new telephone construction in Virginia thus far this year to $17,722,000. Phone and equipment used in furnishing telephone service in Virginia has been increased at the rate of $67,000 each working day during the first six months of 1952, approximately twice the rate plant was added during the year 1951.

The major portion of the total approved at today's meeting was $3,462,000 which will be allocated to a large number of projects involving expenditures for the construction and replacement of telephone plants at numerous locations in Virginia.

The largest single appropriation is $1,907,000 for the conversion of Petersburg to dial operation.

Installation of dial equipment is part of a $2,087,000 expansion and improvement program in Petersburg involving the acquisition of land, erection of a building and the installation and rearrangement of outside plant.

Upon completion of the project, present Petersburg subscribers will have dial service and facilities will be provided to take care of waiting applicants.

An expenditure of $543,000 was authorized to provide 40 additional outward fold switchboard positions in the company's suburban Arlington dial center adjacent to Washington.

In Norfolk, an expenditure of $317,000 was approved for the installation of cable facilities in the east section of Chestnut View. The project involves the laying of 288 cables, 18 1/2 miles of aerial, 6 1/2 miles of underground, 1 1/2 miles of cable, and one mile of buried cable.

In Danville, an expenditure of $256,000 was authorized for expansion and improvement. $185,000

MICHAEL BOSWICK

VOWS EXCHANGED IN NEWPORT NEWS

The marriage of Miss Marjorie M. Boswick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Weston Boswick, of Newport News, to William Hermon Michael, Jr., of Hampton, formerly of Richmond, and grandson of Mrs. Myrtle Webber of Virginia Beach and Coral Gables, Fla., took place Saturday afternoon, June 26, at 4:30 o'clock in the Second Presbyterian Church, Newport News. The Rev. Leeland Edwards performed the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding gown was an original model of white chintz with lace over satin, long lace sleeves ending in ruffles over the hands, and a lace bodice. Her fingertip veil was of imported silk and edged with appliqued lace. She carried a bridal bouquet of lilies of the valley centered with white orchids.

Miss Dorothy Boswick was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a gown of white embroidered organza over lime green taffeta.

She carried an arm bouquet of mixed summer flowers in shades of pink and were mace colored chalice in her hair. The bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Tuttle of Norfolk and Mrs. Howard E. Stearns of Linthicum Heights, Md., sisters of the bridegroom. They wore gowns of white embroidered organza over orchid taffeta, made like that of the honor attendant, with sachets of orchid ribbon.

George W. Michel, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man.

foliage will be a source of much pleasure to you. Just remember the simple rule: 1. A little heavy soil, not too rich. 2. Fertilizer containing lime. 3. Pot-holed roots. 4. Little water. 5. Soil humus.

Flowers See the Identification Project underway on Thirty-first Street, between Atlantic Avenue and the ocean? The Council of Garden Clubs initiated this program and is still at work on it. Planting was held up for a while, due to extremely hot and dry weather, but we hope to finish soon. Mr. Phillip Ansell and Mr. Charles Riley have our sincere thanks for their approval, enthusiasm, encouragement and help with this project.

Dr. Dudley Cooper gets our verbal thanks for his part in this undertaken. Dr. Cooper had this area selected and built the very nice brick wall which encloses the planting project.

You cannot expect geraniums to bloom both summer and winter. All plants must have a periodic rest to build up strength for another blooming season. We have some that bloom abundantly in summer and some in winter, but none of them bloom both seasons. In the Fall we put our geraniums that have bloomed all summer, keep them in a cool, dry place (but not too cold) and put them out in the yard again in the summer. We know several Garden Club members who just pulled their plants up by the roots in the Fall, stored them dry during the winter, and planted them in the yard the next spring. They looked like dead stalks, but soon they were beautiful, healthy, green plants that bloomed profusely all summer.

Our house geraniums that have bloomed all winter must have rest in the summer, so we cut them back severely and set them in the pot under a tree or shrub so they get full shade. We leave them there all summer, then in the Fall we put them in new pots and bring them in the house to bloom all winter.

Watering or feeding geraniums during their rest period will only make them rot and die. They must have this complete rest period in order to build up after bloom.

Geraniums are easily rooted. We cut slips from the plant and put them in a glass of water in a sunny window. They soon form many roots and are ready to be potted.

If you have not tried to grow geraniums before, do get a few now. Their colorful blooms and their green leaves are a delight to look at.

Prune them back in the Spring.

HARRELL'S PHARMACY presents great opportunity for low ANNUAL DECORATING SHOW on Labor Day! It's a clever example of what is innovative, distinctive and clever women could do in the old Wagon Wheel Building. Be sure to make an early visit to this unique store where you'll find gifts of all types, Venetian blinds with mirrors, crystal chandeliers, and many other items with originality in carpeting and wall paper. It's quite a place! HARRELL'S PHARMACY pharmaceutical service is five years guarantee for the successful business woman's bracket at the Beach. A hobby, a diversion, relaxing course at Williams and Mary Extension School, a small busy shop at new WILLIS RICHARDSON'S School, or a profession of having found a big-time shop, consider you might try!

HARRELL'S PHARMACY has two locations which give "service for all" in one place. Visitors are most welcome. One is the HARRELL MAYFLOWER PHARMACY, in the new Mayflower Shopping Center, and the other is located in the Jefferson Hotel, corner of Main and 19th Street. WILLY C. HARRELL, owner, is especially proud of his pharmaceutical services with the original and old-fashioned idea that a drug store is a drug store for a' that! His registered pharmacists at all times to give aid to the sick—old and even vacationers like to know where to get prescription service is given. Of course, if you're in need of oils, lotion, perfume, cosmetics, etc., give a call to WILLIS RICHARDSON'S and surely, because of our service, they're at HARRELL'S . . . You'll find all the things you expect to find in an A-1 modern drugstore at both HARRELL STORES.

THE VIRGINIA BEACH FISHING PIER, open day and night, 24 hours for fishing on the 912 foot pier. Beaches all along the pier seaward. Local and visiting "Isaac Walton" have been pulling in trout, spot, flounders, roundnose, croakers and so on . . . with one fisherman hauling in 400 fish in one day's sitting! You may rent rods and reels, also purchase bait at the entrance to the VIRGINIA BEACH FISHING PIER. Snack bar close by. E. Lachman, manager.

TOBIN'S has long been a name at the Beach that means nationally advertised brands . . . complete lines of fashions in women's apparel, children's and infant's tops. MARY TOBIN takes personal interest in selling to mothers and their tots together. It's fun to buy the TOBIN line of clothing. TOBIN'S is located in the new shopping center, three heat-e-lifted stores 7-15, including Guy Gibson designs. Here, in air-conditioned comfort, they will help you select baby gifts, shower gifts and birthday remembrances, gift wrap them, too. If you have a Girl Scout in the family, MARY TOBIN stocks the official Camp Uniforms for $3.75. Girl Scout shorts, T-shirts, and crew hats along with the Brownie Uniforms. TOBIN'S is the official girl SCOUT UNIFORM AND ACCESSORIES HEADQUARTERS at the Beach . . . 2106 Atlantic Avenue, phone 180, Virginia Beach.

Hats designed especially for you is LOUISE MILBY'S special talent. Hats designed for your own individual hair-styling, hats made to match your suit (using your own material), last year's hats still good made over and hats just freshened up, all in the MILBY manner. The MILBY HAT SHOP is on the 5th floor of the New Monroe Building, 254 Granby Street, Norfolk. At the present time LOUISE MILBY's smart shop is closed for the month of July while she busies herself selecting fall hats for the feminine appeal. The shop will reopen in August with the latest creations of the hat world. Prices at this shop are surprisingly reasonable! Drop in and meet LOUISE MILBY. Her phone number is 55631.

COLONIAL READY-TO-WEAR, 304 17th Street, DOT MILLAN's shop for women, featuring women's sizes as well as those for the junior sizes and misses. Attractive summer cottons and sheets, beach tog, blouses and skirts, dressey summer sheets, throw-on light-weight sweaters in summer colors and bathing suits and shorts. Sportswear at the COLONIAL READY-TO-WEAR has always been a fashion specialty. Summer visitors who have "left behind" lingerie articles or towels, find them all here. HEC and WILLIE WHO LIKES KOSHER FOOD will want to know about HARRY'S, which is a "Carry Out" food operation also. The best of dairy products, meats and cheeses, especially fine potato salad and fresh slaw daily, made as only HARRY makes such mouth-watering good things . . . The best-possible sandwiches you could dream up! The DELICATESSEN is air-conditioned with tables for friendly visiting for a snack between swims or after the movies. Since it's "Carry Out" day at HARRY'S . . . so when uninvited guests arrive just call on HARRY . . . Everyone's wild about HARRY'S!

As clever as the name—RAGGED ROBIN BOOKSHOP—you'll find this bookshop just as cleverly stocked with the best and newest in books, the most unusual gifts plus an up-to-the-minute rental library. Owner, MARIA COLBY, is a native Virginian and a constant visitor to the summer visitors to the beach. To browse about the shelves and books, do make use of her rental library; it's located at 316 1/2 Street. Good books are wonderful summer pals and knowing the location of a tip-top rental library is a boon to "the stranger in town." Whether it's a new mystery, historical, biography, sign-of-the-times or "how to" do book you're after, you can bet the RAGGED ROBIN has it! Newly packed and gay books of all kinds. Hop on down to the RAGGED ROBIN, phone 7234, and see for yourself what fun you'll have in MARIA'S book and gift shop!

Visitors may come and go but HARRY'S corned beef and salami sandwiches go on forever! His succulent pastrami has been nation-famous for years—remembered by folks who make a business of seeking out good eating. HARRY ROSENBAUM'S DELICATESSEN is located on the South End of the Beach, 1608 Atlantic Avenue, next door to the DELICATESSEN where WILLIE WHO LIKES KOSHER FOOD will want to know about HARRY'S, which is a "Carry Out" food operation also. The best of dairy products, meats and cheeses, especially fine potato salad and fresh slaw daily, made as only HARRY makes such mouth-watering good things . . . The best-possible sandwiches you could dream up! The DELICATESSEN is air-conditioned with tables for friendly visiting for a snack between swims or after the movies. Since it's "Carry Out" day at HARRY'S . . . so when uninvited guests arrive just call on HARRY . . . Everyone's wild about HARRY'S!

Need we remind you to be sure your winter blankets, drapes and winter rugs are safely cleaned and stored away for the summer in COMPECO'S STORAGE VAULTS? How about your family's clothes? Don't you have a trunk full of old linens, suits, sweaters, fur and trimmings garments? If you have neglected to call COMPECO DRY CLEANERS, 1608 Atlantic Avenue—phone 6—please do so at once for their pick-up service. COMPECO is Virginia's largest cleaners and when your garments are in their storage vaults every article is thoroughly protected and insured against fire, theft, or moisture damage. COMPECO has an enviable reputation for many years of satisfactory dry cleaning with a professionally trained staff. When your summer garments return from these cleaners, you can be sure they will be clean, sweet-smelling and looking almost like new!

SUMMER VISITORS: There is a safely conducted merry-go-round at the NEW CASINO PARK, 15th and Atlantic Avenue, catering to families and children. Hobby horses go 'round from two o'clock, each afternoon till closing. Benches are provided for mothers and misses who bring the tiniest tots. A real treat for the baby. Also, a the newly-opened MINIATURE GOLF COURSE. The prettiest course, with flower plants and petunias giving garden touches to the oceanside course. An excellent BATH HOUSE with rental of suits, all sizes, is on the ocean front. Courteous attendants in charge. MRS. Straight From the SHOULDER . . . Fashion, That Is!

By Alice Brewer White
(Fashion and Woman's Director, WTAR)

Listen to the "Woman's World" 9-30 A.M., WTAR, June 23-28, for Mrs. White's fall fashion forecast and interviews with famous American designers via direct wire from the NBC Studios, Radio City.

With that second cup of coffee, listen to the "Woman's World," 9-30 A.M., Monday through Saturday for Mrs. White's chat about the latest fashions, home-making tips, club and civic events and especially transcribed interviews with New York personalities.

The New York designers are sponsoring the bloomed back, slim skirts, a new half way between the calf and hem line for formal wear, the wide-waisted look with wide, softly wrapped cummerbunds and Japanese obi-like sashes, ascot necklines with the fullness yoke bosom line, the belt-belt, a new accent below the waistline, and one designer's innovation prime popular in Youth Avenue stores already is the slip-it-front top, which is presented, by the way, and revolutionary in that it makes the "static" fronts of dresses, coats and suits variable at the wearer's will.

As you readers know, I am just back from New York after my 12th semi-annual reporting trip representing WTAR, NBC's affiliate in this area, during the 19th National Fashion Press Week sponsored by the Couture Group of the New York Dress Institute under the directorship of Eleanor Lambert, famous fashion authority and publisher. I have so many exciting fashion stories to tell that I am hoping you won't miss one of my "Woman's World" WTAR programs (see above for time) and be sure to read your new "Feminine Whirl" page of your Virginia Beach Sun News and follow along with me into the fall and winter fashion seasons.

Gorgeous Arlene Dahl, one of the movie firmament, is making a real fashion splash in the lingerie fashion with her entry into the designers' field. While attending Mr. Fred's hat show and after-that, she was interviewed.

Dr. and Mrs. Edward Bartley's daughter, Regina, is interested in an idea for Virginia Beach which should gain momentum from Beachites. Regina's idea is to establish a small cultural center at Virginia Beach with facilities for exhibitions and other artistic activities. Certainly with the many artists who live at the Beach and others who visit here during the year, with the younger matrons and youngsters who are dabbling at art endeavors at a hobby, the amateur theatricals of the Virginia Beach Little Theatre, the summer's programs of the Theatre-Go-Round group and Regina Bartley's own talent and enthusiasm in the art field, we have a running-jump start for just such a culture center. Regina is quite a gal.

GREEN THUMB Jottings . . .

In her newest book, "Successful Entertaining at Home," Carolyn Cogrin tells about Ing, the Chinese housewife of a friend of hers in Canada, who had a green thumb touch for making flowers last longer. It seems Ing, as part of his daily routine, would place bowls of flowers under the faucet, where he would leave them with the cold water turned on, running into the bowl, forcing air bubbles merrily into the water. This might continue for twenty minutes or half an hour. The (Continued on page five)

Discriminating women of fashion for thirty-three years have confidently looked to FLORENCE WILSON for fashion-rightness as each season changes. FLORENCE WILSON's smart fashions have been modeled in many charity benefit fashion shows presented by club women at the Beach. She enjoys the patronage of many fashionably smart Princess Anne-Virginia Beach women. Although MISS WILSON is now a resident of Virginia Beach, her shop is still located at 300 West Freemason Street, Norfolk, where free parking space is available to her customers. You'll find daily arrivals of new summer cottons, sheers and silk shantung . . . stunning mid-summer hats with brims. (To wear one of FLORENCE WILSON's hats is a true mark of fashion distinction!) You'll find wonderful gift suggestions for your summertime wedding hostess in Hobé jewelry and Henri Bendel cosmetics as well as divine lingerie and delicately lovely blouses, the ultimate in loveliness. Hours at this shop are 9:30 to 5 daily. Phone: 25226, Norfolk.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

By LUCILE CLARK

If a gathering of people was asked to name one food or drink that has an especially romantic history—one person might say honey, another person might say wine. Someone else, perhaps, would name an exotic fruit. The chances are that not one would think of cheese. Did you know that cheese has a long, very romantic history? In fact at one time or another during the past three thousand years poets, philosophers, lovers, gourmets and even athletes have lived on cheese alone.

Probably the first person to prove that man could live on cheese alone was the great Persian philosopher named Zaraster. This wise man ate nothing but cheese during his twenty most productive years. The ancient Greeks credited the invention of cheese to the son of Apollo. They always associated cheese with beauty and strength.

As for romance in the popular sense of the word there's many a proverb to tell us that bread, cheese and kisses are the food of poets and lovers. Homer himself told of a strange, mysterious concoction by the arch-enemy, Circe. "Red wine is in it" wrote the poet. "Barley meal, cheese and honey, of which if a man drank, he forgot all he loved."

No one really knows who made the first cheese. It's very probable that Mother Nature and old Miss Sun had a hand in it. According to legend, some athletes put their supply of milk in a bag made from a sheep's stomach. When lunch time came, they opened the pouch and found delicious curds, a primitive form of cottage cheese. It was made, no doubt, by the action of the desert sun, the bobbing of the milk bag and the remnet that remained in the sheep's stomach.

The famous cheese called "Roquefort" is said to have been discovered by accident. It seems that way back before the year 1070, a shepherd boy left his lunch of bread and cheese in the famous limestone caves of Roquefort, near a monastery. When he returned weeks later, he found the bread had turned black and the cheese streaked and mottled with sea-green blue was quite delicious looking. He tasted the cheese and found that it actually was delicious. The boy told the monks about his discovery. Then they began to store their cheese in the Roquefort caves. That was nearly a thousand years ago. The only original Roquefort cheese you can buy today still comes from those same limestone caves.

Cheese, of course, is no less popular today than it has been over the centuries.

Many of America's favorite snacks and foods are prepared with cheese. Among these: cheeseburgers, macaroni with cheese, cheese crackers, cheese cake, potatoes with cheese, "gratin" and of course that famous combination apple pie and cheese. As you probably know, yogurt is nothing but cheese in its infant stage.

Why all this about cheese? Well, it's one of the most wholesome as well as the most appetizing of man's foods. It is rich in proteins, calcium, and phosphorus, besides a whole roster of vitamins. If you want to know how economical, consider this: a half-pound of cheddar cheese, also called American cheese, gives you as much protein as a full pound of meat and costs less than one-fourth the cost.

Remember, with cheese there is no waste in bones, fat or gristle.

"Cheese" is used to be an expression strictly for people up to mischief. Nowadays, the best hostesses are looking at menus and saying "cheese it."

Cheese is plentiful, and may I suggest that you use it in your salads. (Continued on page five)

Especialty for Homemakers

Have you noticed how common the summer sales are and the great bargains in clothing, in some large home appliances (refrigerators and washing machines), and in home furnishings like rugs, sheets and towels? W. M. Klipinger, editor of Changing Times, predicts that clothing will be cheaper, except for a few items, for every member of the family and that with the fall prices set, they will be generally lower than they were a year ago. Summer clothing, also, is being reduced in the sales and these sales will continue for the next two or three months. Yes, indeed, this is good news to the homemakers!

Furniture is a good buy now with prices down and a prediction that they will stay down through most of the summer and fall.

Many homeowners are fixing things up these days. It's probably a result of easier credit terms on loans for home repairs, and the generally lower prices of materials. If you're contemplating a renovation, this might be a good time to get on the repair bandwagon.

Paperhangars are having their headaches what with householders using those hang-it-yourself wallpaper kits which are riding a boom. Professional paperhangars are reaching for their weeping towels!

If you are a homemaker with a roadside selling hobby on the side, don't forget that city folks respond to straw hats, overalls, gingham or cotton dresses—that give that "rural flavor"—and be sure your clothes are neat and clean. A colorful, big apron with pockets for change is added attraction for the distaff side. Keep your roadside stand painted in bright colors with flowers and fruit basket displays for added interest. And above all, keep your prices below city prices, be sure your produce is fresh, well displayed and carefully packaged. (Continued on page five)

Anita Colby's Beauty Book (Prentice-Hall, Inc.) by the incomparable Anita Cole, whose twin nicknames are "The Brain" and "The Face," is the most complete handbook of beauty, charm, personality and personality I have read in years. It contains Anita's very own four-week beauty and charm course plus diets, exercises and hundreds of fashion and grooming secrets. She has illustrated it herself with just hundreds of drawings—practical helps and most amusing, some of them. It's a sort of lifetime dressing-table companion for every woman.

Her chapter "A World of Fashion and Your Place in It" was condensed for LOOK before the book was published, it's that good. There is a most important chapter "Anticipating With Pleasure" which will be welcomed by mothers-to-be in that it gives the lowdown on how to make your pregnancy a time when you can be lovelier than ever, with special advice on fashion, diet, exercise and figure-control.

Anita Colby was feminine director for David O. Selznick in Hollywood and worked with such stars as Jennifer Jones, Shirley Temple, Ingrid Bergman, Dorothy McGuire, Ann Todd, Rhonda Fleming and Valdim. She also tells tales about Paulette Goddard, Barbara Stanwyck, Monica Freeman, Diana Lynn and Joan (Continued on page five) not been damaged. Technically, practically all the beans are now over, but the word "string" still hangs on.

Trees that grow in cities have a tough time of it. They often can't get water they need because their roots are blocked off by hard - surfacing paving. Providence, R. I., is attempting a new solution. It is using a porous paving made of stone, sand and asphalt, rather than the standard type, for the surfaces over the tree roots. Water seeps through this asphalt mixture, instead of running off, and gets to the tiny root endings where it's needed. So far, the experiment shows the new type of asphalt mixture stands up against normal foot traffic and also allows 89 to 90 per cent of the rainfall to get through to the roots. Sort of "give a city tree a chance" plan.

HERE IS THE PATTON 48

This is the Army's newest Tank, the Patton 48, described as the most modern medium tank ever made for our troops. The new combat vehicle has just been unveiled at the Chrysler Delaware Tank Plant where it was built. Design of the tank was completed by Chrysler Corporation to specifications of Army Ordnance. Extreme maneuverability of the Patton 48—its low silhouette—one piece cast armor hull and improved fire-power all combine to make the Patton 48 a formidable fighting machine.

main dishes and desserts. Here is the recipe for a very tasty main dish:

Cottage Chasseur Loaf

3 eggs
1½ teaspoons salt
3 tablespoons melted butter
1½ cups milk dash pepper
2 cups cooked rice
1 lb. cottage cheese

Beat eggs slightly, add milk and seasoning, melted butter, cheese and rice. Pour into well buttered baking dish set in pan of hot water. Bake at 350 degrees oven for one hour or until set. Remove from hot water, let stand ten minutes, unmold on platter. For sauce use cream of chicken soup, ½ cup cream, 1 tea spoon Worcester sauce. Heat in double boiler until just below boiling point; add ½ cup sliced stuffed olives. Pour over loaf and garnish with parsley. When I made this it was a real surprise; it was so very, very good and all my TV boys just loved it. Hope you'll like it, too.

For a perfect salad to go with this main dish—tomatoes!

"Home-grown tomato salad." It's just grand to be able to get those ripe, red, juicy tomatoes once more. Keep them in the refrigerator so they'll be well chilled; slice them on a bed of shredded lettuce. Serve with your favorite dressing or mayonnaise. For these hot, hot days, it's the salad which will tempt the most jaded appetites.

And, my good friends and neighbors, my prediction is for a hot old summer, so please keep plenty of lettuce, tomatoes, cabbage, cucumbers, fresh fruits, canned fruits, canned vegetables, too, turn, lobster, salmon, coleslaw, chow and pickles in the refrigerator all the time. If you do you can toss a chilled salad together in a jiffy that will please the entire family. Oh, yes! Be sure to keep on the pantry shelf vinegar, salad oil, herbs, mayonnaise, and in that vegetable bin the faithful onion, potatoes, too. Potato salad is a favorite and very little trouble to make.

To make a perfect salad there should be a mixer for vinegar, a spreader for oil and a madcap to mix all the ingredients together." By now. See you next Thursday.

Deadline Set For Vets Vocational Training

Veterans of World War II with service-connected disabilities who may need four years to complete vocational rehabilitation training under Public Law 16 will have to start that training before July 25, 1952, Veterans Administration said.

The original law for vocational rehabilitation of veterans of World War II stipulates that no training may be given after July 25, 1956.

Veterans with service-connected disabilities of combat must begin training after July 25 of this year, VA said, but their courses would have to be completed before the 1956 deadline.

Such training is furnished at Government expense where a veteran has received a disability as a result of his active military service which requires special training to overcome his handicap and restore him to employability.

The deadline of July 25, 1956, does not apply to veterans of Korean service and those now on active duty anywhere. No deadline has been set as yet for this class of veterans. Under present law, their eligibility for vocational rehabilitation training will extend for nine years after the end of the present emergency, the date to be determined either by the President or by Congress.

188 Persons Receive Typhoid Inoculations

One hundred eighty-eight persons received inoculations at the typhoid immunization clinics sponsored recently by the Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach. The clinic was made under the direction of Dr. William W. Garrett, health director of Princess Anne County, and the inoculations were given by Dr. T. E. Royer. The clinic was held at the Community House at Chesapeake Beach and was part of the health and welfare program of the Woman's Club. Mrs. T. B. Petty was chairman of this department. Other members assisting in this project were Mrs. T. Kreftoon, Mrs. E. L. Beatty, Mrs. T. G. Lovell, and Miss Frances Petty.

New Film, 'Lovely to Look At,' Has Horns Tunes, Skelton Comedy

Something wonderful is in the spring air, a moment about which there is no question of appeal. All people will enjoy it.

It has the well beloved Jerome Kern songs. It has the new Skelton comedy. It has the well known New Orleans jazz. It has the stars appeal—by James Horner, Mervyn Leroy and Dorothy Kathryn Grayson. It has music—drama by this pair, and songs by others, and dynamic dance routines erected by Jerome Pan. It has dancing without peer—by the headliner pair, Marge and George Champion, and others. It has gayety and romance and universal appeal—from the musical comedy, "Roberta." It has magnificent and colorful sets and John Technicolor, skillfully used by the studio's masters of fashion, editing, direction and photography.

Mervyn Leroy is responsible for direction, and Jack Cummings for production. In reality, the smooth running masterpiece of musical comedy as it should be, freed of limitations of stage, and given the wonderful mobility of the motion picture camera—is a joint creation of studio technicians, excellent in all departments. George Wells and Harry Ruby wrote the screenplay.

The plot, a more device to serve between song and dance, concerns the efforts of three American airmen to obtain backing for a musical aviation, one of them, inherently, the new Auntie Mabel's Paris fashion house. This brings them to Paris and adventure, for Miss Grayson and Miss Champion are relatives of the house, and it is big but dying. They revive it with a bang.

In the doing of all this, Kent and Marge Grayson, and Marge and George Champion find love, and so does Skelton for American dancer Ann Miller, who also comes to Paris to help. In addition to Skelton's comedy as a headliner, his wife, professionally, is a skilled man, Kurt Kastner, gives a precious bit as a supporting European business man, whose hobby is having a good time and back-shoing shows.

Two superb Promenade coats, one in mottled green and one in French leather red floss, are two stars of the Carnegie Fall Collection. Both mid-calf in length with a velvet collar that hooks into one side of a slightly lowered neckline and giving the illusion of a Victorian gentleman's neck-cast. The Dams Back cast in grey floss (a finger tip length) with its shoulder warmer of mink bellies. A navy, silver floss lined throughout with rose quartz floss. A grey topcoat of Broadcloth floss lined with topaz mole.

As a forecast for the future there is the Paddington coat—with new narrowed shoulder line and longer in length look than the usual topcoat. This is lined with mink bellies.

Noteworthy are a group of day-time dresses for here the easy flow of fabric truly makes them the easy-to-wear dress. In soft as chiffon batiste wool, jersey, and crepes often have embroidered motifs that actually resemble jeweled pins.

Heart-shaped necklines, cabochon skirts, beautifully embroidered bodies, new looking brocades, combinations of velvet and chiffon, lace and satin done with true artistry, make Hattie Carnegie's dinner clothes—mostly short—collection of richness and elegance.

A long opera coat in brown velvet with elbow length cuffs of silver foil work over a column evening dress of white and gold lace is a prophecy, we believe, of full evening dress for formal occasions.

The full length evening dresses of fabulous embroidered laces—tulle—satins, brocades, velvets and lamee climax Miss Carnegie's story of fall fashions for 1952.

SCOUT NEWS

We are like the Scouts' mothers this week! We know all the things that are going on but we don't seem to be able to get many of the details. Bill Mitchell and Wade Aycock of Troop 61 went to Camp Darby Sunday but evidently have been too busy to say anything about what they have been doing.

We hear that Troop 61, sponsored by the Episcopal Church, is planning a trip over the Skyline Drive and through the Shenandoah Valley. However, we can't tell Dicky Stoen and Betty Wadsworth about the details. You may want to arrange for your troop to make the trip during this summer.

Our five boys from Princess Anne District who went to Camp Philmont, New Mexico, returned last Saturday afternoon. We are hoping to have them in our city early to tell you all about it. In the meantime keep plugging and working on your present summer job and maybe we can have two boy scouts to go from this area next summer.

Tommy Tolley of Troop 61 and Jack McLean of Troop 63 visited the Norfolk Rotary Club in the opening convocation of their meeting on Tuesday, July 1.

Scoutmaster Fred Cooks of Troop 65 (65 is the troop from Lynnhaven that has been giving Troop 62 of Oceanus such a fine safety) has really "cooked up" some real stuff for his troop for the week of July 12, which the troop will spend in the Seashore State Park. . . .

of Navy chaplains, has accepted an invitation to address the annual memorial service to be held at 11 a.m. on the final day of the convention.

Earlier, announcement had been made by Daniel that Senator Harry F. Byrd would deliver the opening address of the convention Friday morning, August 8, and that J. Edward Lawler, Richmond insurance executive and former FBI agent, would speak at the morning session the following day.

Approximately 2,000 delegates and visitors are expected to attend the convention.

Worthington what materials to use for insect and disease control in your home garden? Here are a few tips from Extension specialists at VPI:

A copper-rotentone dust is effective in controlling most of the leaf-spot diseases, and insects, in the home garden. You can also use the new simazine and methoxychlor mixture. It will control leaf spots and blights on vegetables and flowers, and most of the common garden insects such as the Mexican bean beetle, the cucumber beetle, potato beetles, cabbage worms, and the young stages of aphids on plant life.

A 20 per cent sabadilla dust, or a 10 per cent activated sabadilla dust is better than rotenone for the control of the Harlequin cabbage bug, squash bug, and green stinkbug. DDT-copper dusts and sprays are best for use on Irish potatoes.

Greyhound Breeding a Science Declares Long-time Sportsman

Greyhound breeding is an exact science, according to Dock Shockley, owner of a racing kennel now appearing at the Cavalier Kennel Club, across the Virginia line at Moyock, N. C. Dock should know, because he is a Texas boy who grew up in greyhound country and has devoted his adult life to the sport.

To produce a perfect greyhound specimen the breeder must carefully select his dam and mate her to a sire possessing individual qualities and blood lines that will blend with those of the dam, Shockley declared recently. It is also very important to give the dogs proper training when they have reached the age of one year and have completed their growth. A well-rounded diet, containing all of the necessary vitamins, calories and minerals to keep the animals in perfect physical condition likewise calls for expert knowledge and the delicate weighing and apportioning of a chemist.

Most important of all, however, is the vital period between whelping and the time when puppies have reached full growth. That first six months in the life of a greyhound usually will determine the future of well bred youngsters. If they have the right care, feed and training during this critical period, Shockley believes, they will eventually become healthy, energetic and successful performers when they reach the race track.

As proof of this contention Shockley cites the sensational success of his Cameron-Hubbub Dust type this season at Cavalier. Five members of this litter, whelped in April of 1951, have developed into first ranking stars since coming to Cavalier and one, Classic Night, promises to become a champion of national prominence. This litter, Shockley admits, was raised by Mrs. Thelma Shockey on their Georgia line, Texas, farm, and her careful training is given credit for the superior quality of the young pups. Particularly, she succeeds in raising the pups through their critical stage. Miss Shockey was given her choice of the litter, and selected the best of the lot—Classic Night.

Recently, Claude Wright defeated the track champion, Billy Gritch, and if anything ever happens to that popular favorite she seems ready to succeed the current queen of Cavalier canines.

SEN. BYRD SWEEPS CITY, COUNTY AND STATE

40 From Beach And County At Roanoke Party

NAMING VIRGINIA DELEGATES TO CHICAGO CONVENTION

More than forty persons from Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County are in Roanoke today attending the State Democratic Convention being held at that city.

Paul W. Akins, vice-chairman of the delegation, headed the group that left Wednesday afternoon by train.

Akins stated that the delegation had a total of 12 votes in the convention and that the group was attending uninstructed. However, he said that the group would vote as a unit.

It is felt that the local delegation favors the nomination of Senator Richard B. Russell, of Georgia, for the Democratic candidate for President. Akins said that the local delegation would favor the State delegation attending the national convention in Chicago.

Included in the delegation are several residents of Virginia Beach as well as City of Virginia Beach voters. The city voters are included since a city executive committee has not been named since Virginia Beach became a city of the second class.

Two New Kennels At Cavalier Track

Two new kennels arrived recently at the Cavalier Kennel Club, near Moyock, where racing greyhounds from all over the country have been in action some forty nights. Too late to obtain individual booking engagements, the two kennels have been among owners already on the grounds that sell their strings needed strength.

Both new arrivals came up from Havana, Cuba, where a 100-day meeting terminated two weeks ago. Sam Basden sent a number of rather well known stars, including South Bend and Slam Boogie, while the Indian Kennel, owned by Dick Jones, brought a useful string of medium class greyhounds which he turned over to an old friend, Bud Jones, and a few other owners.

Bud Jones, one of the most talented trainers of racing greyhounds the sport has known, has cleverly blended blood strains of Irish and Australian greyhounds with his native stock to make one of the most sought after lines of recent years. This field produced Wingover, War Hawk, Pre-flight, and other national record-breakers of a few years ago and is believed to be the nearest thing to an American strain still to come.

As a matter of fact, Jones himself is a true all-American by virtue of a strong flavoring of Indian blood. Born in California, Jones has entered (Continued on Page Three)

Jousting Revival Stirs Interest in State

The sport of jousting, and come August 15, jousters will gather in the shadow of the Old Dominion's Natural Chimneys, at Mt. Solon, raise their lances, urge their steeds and vie for honors in the 13th annual Jousting Tournament.

The tournament is older than the Kentucky Derby, and even out-ages baseball in this country.

Originally a game in which Jeath frequently claimed the loser, the Virginia tournament has lost none of its

A CLEAR-CUT VICTORY

The voters of the Commonwealth of Virginia, in a loud and clear voice, indicated the approval of Senator Harry F. Byrd's conduct of office and his legislative judgment in Tuesday's Democratic primary when they gave him a majority of approximately 90,000 votes over his opponent, Francis F. Miller.

The voting throughout the state was heavy and the overwhelming vote for Senator Byrd should dispell any thought that the venerable senator has "lost any ground" as his opponents tried in vain to prove.

Politically important Princess Anne County again showed its preference for Senator Byrd and handed him the largest majority of any county in the entire state, with the exception of two. His majority in Princess Anne County was almost three to one, another solid vote of confidence.

Apparently, the so-called "Byrd Machine" is a strong favorite with the citizens of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County. In the recent June co-councilmanic election in Virginia Beach, the "ants" labeled the city Democratic organization as being aligned with the "awful Byrd Machine." In that election, as in the senatorial contest on Tuesday, the voters gave the Democratic organization candidates large majorities over their opponents. It seems the great majority of voters don't agree with the "ants." It would indicate complete approval on the part of the electorate of the sound, progressive government to be found in Virginia Beach, Princess Anne County and the State.

The renomination of Senator Harry F. Byrd to the United States Senate is another example to the Nation that Virginians demand soundness, honesty and integrity in its representatives, and at the same time it was a repudiation of President Truman, who gave his blessing to Byrd's opponent in a futile effort to defeat the highly-respected Senator.

We congratulate Senator Byrd on his victory, but more than that we congratulate the citizens of Virginia for re-nominating a man who has exemplified every noble quality of a true statesman and a man who continually brings credit to his State and Nation.

VIRGINIA IS APPLAUSED

In the current issue of Look Magazine an article appears entitled "Look Applauds the State of Virginia."

The article points up to the nation the sound leadership found in Virginia's state government and the article we quote below:

"For those who have become convinced that the only way taxes can go is up, it is a great relief to learn that in Virginia, the state income tax was cut by 20 per cent for 1951 and 1952. Asked for an explanation of this phenomenon, state leaders say it's very simple—you just cut expenses. This revolutionary idea has kept the dogwood state in the black every year, except one, in the past quarter century. The fact that in 1952 most states took a record bite from incomes, and in 1950, 40 states spent more than they took in, makes the Old Dominion's achievement little less than extraordinary."

"Virginia statesmen responsible for this miracle insist that only nonessential expenses were eliminated and that citizens were not short-changed by cutting budgets for education and health. In 1950, percentage expenditures for schools were higher than in 40 other states and 2.5 per cent above the national average. In the same year, the state's per capita outlay for health services was also above the U. S. average."

Many Virginians have shared in the fight to keep expenses down, among them Gov. John S. Battle, who recently cut the 1952-54 legislative budget by nearly 3 per cent. Last year, 100 nonessential employees were dropped from the state payroll. And in 1946, Gov. William M. Tuck pared down 50 departments and agencies to 14 departments and 3 agencies, thereby saving an estimated $500,000 a year. State Senator Harry F. Byrd, Jr., son of the U. S. Senator, sponsored the automatic income-tax-cut law which was responsible for the recent 20 per cent reduction. Under this law, the tax is automatically reduced whenever revenues exceed the cost of running the government for that tax year—and the state is careful to be conservative when sizing up her expected receipts."

BUT DON'T FORGET HOUDINI

At this writing, President Harry S. Truman might well be described as "the man in the steel box" . . . a box he has carefully built and securely welded himself into.

For a quick run-down, his top-sided Wage Stabilization Board failed to provide a solution to the steel strike, former Defense Administrator C. E. Wilson quit when somebody crossed his signals during his efforts to solve the problem through price increases, the Presidential seizure of the industry came a cropper in the Supreme Court, Congress turned down a series of bills to legalize such executive authority, and instead "requested" the President to employ the Taft-Hartley Act . . . And now, President Murray, of the CIO steelworkers' union, reveals that he has Mr. Truman's promise not to use this legislation.

Whether or not this sounds like conspiracy against the American people, whose interests the President is sworn to defend, is academic at this time when the defense effort is seriously threatened, when industry is slowing down for lack of steel; when more than 25,000 iron miners have quit work, not in a strike, but a "cessation of labor," and at the time when they are normally building up the winter reserves, for shipment before the Great Lakes freeze over.

People say, "If Harry ran, he'd be elected." And if that happens, we'll deserve it!—U. S. Press Association.

Wood Preservation Steadily Increasing

The amount of wood treated with preservatives increases yearly in the United States.

J. W. O'Byrne, extension forester at VPI, says that reports from 277 commercial plants show that in 1951 more than 300,000,000 cubic feet of wood were treated. This represents the output of about 95 per cent of the commercial plants and shows an increase of 4 per cent over 1950. Railroad ties (both standard and switch ties) and poles and piling, were the leading items, with 120,000,000 cubic feet each. Lumber came next with 31,000,000 cubic feet, followed by fence posts with 8,500,000 cubic feet—enough for about 17,000,000 posts.

O'Byrne says to reliable figures available, the number of posts treated on farms or in cooperative and community plants, but it must be several times the 17,000,000 treated in commercial plants.

Cresote and other coal-tar products are the most frequently used preservatives in commercial plants.

Pentachlorophenol and zinc chloride lead among those used on farms. Eight other preservatives are listed among those used to the extent of 150,000 pounds or more.

O'Byrne says as open-range grazing gives way to improved pastures, and as scrub livestock is replaced by pure-bred, the amount of fencing increases. With more fencing comes more fence post treating, because we cannot afford to use posts that must be replaced every four or five years, when a suitable preservative will increase their life four or five times."

Instructions on treating fence posts are available from county agents or from the Agricultural Extension Service, VPI, Blacksburg. Ask for Forestry Leaflet No. 12, which gives instructions on treating with soil-soluble preservatives, or Forestry Leaflet No. 13, which gives instructions on treating with water-soluble preservatives.

Many of the girls of New York will be coming down here to visit the park, the playgrounds and the beach. In a recent interview of the young girls of New York, it was learned that they were most interested in the beach. They were asked what they liked best about the beach, and the answer was that they liked the beach because it was clean and the water was clear. They also said that they liked the beach because it was a good place to swim and play.

The young lady is 16-year-old Barbara Jean Weston, a young Norfolk girl, whose mother, Mrs. Josephine T. Weston, lives at 1000 South Main Street, in Norfolk.

Electric Lighting For Walls May Be Revised

The practice of using additional electric lights to stimulate a light production may sometimes be revised.

Dr. James Byrnes, poultry manager of VPI Agricultural Experiment Station, said a test in Switzerland was conducted to compare incandescent lighting to the best incandescent lighting in the best houses, as practiced in Virginia, with "Special lighting" with a 1,500 watt lamp for five months.

The two showed shock lighting increased egg production more than standard lighting for four hours with 40 watt lamps.

Dr. Byrnes said if further research supports these results, it may be that penlights can reduce chick mortality.

DEATHS

JOHN PAUL WOODHOUSE

John Paul Woodhouse, 77, Princess Anne County official for more than 50 years who served as Princess Anne County Commissioner of Accounts and Deputy Commissioner of Revenue, died Friday night, July 11, at 7:30 p.m. at his residence on the Old Court House Road after a short illness.

A lifelong resident of Princess Anne, he was the son of Major John Thomas Woodhouse and Mrs. Virginia Whittemore Woodhouse.

His first affiliation with the county was as Deputy Treasurer during the time of Mr. Compton. In 1906 he was appointed Commissioner of Assessments and later served as Deputy Commissioner of Revenue. He had the responsibility of keeping one of the best informed histories of the county about its history and personalities.

Unmarried, he is survived by one sister, Mrs. Grace Woodhouse Prince, and one niece, Mrs. Virginia Prince Shifnack, both of Richmond, and three grand-nieces.

The body was taken from the Maestas Funeral Home to the Eastern Shore Chapel Cemetery for funeral services Sunday at 2 p.m. The services were conducted by the Rev. Edmund Berkeley, rector of Galilee Episcopal Church, Virginia Beach.

Active pallbearers were W. Russell Hatchett, Woodrow W. White, Rodney Malbon Sr., S. Paul Brown, J. Tyor and T. L. Woodhouse.

CHARLIE H. SPENCE

Funeral services for Mr. Charlie H. Spence were conducted at the Oak Grove Baptist Church Tuesday at 2 p.m. by the Rev. W. A. Richardson. Pallbearers were Vernon H. Bates, W. C. Akiss, A. J. Akiss, Monroe Mayo, John M. Potter and Dr. E. L. Hancock. Burial was in the church cemetery.

joyed a life filled with such adventure and romance as is seldom found in fiction. A big fellow, six feet tall and with massive arms and legs, he looks 20 years younger than his age and seems in perfect physical shape. Like his grandfather, James comes of sturdy stock and graduated from the rough and tumble impromptu battles of the California oil fields to a heavyweight boxer of near top rank without a mark to mar his handsome features. His experiences as a western cowboy, oil driller, soldier of fortune under Villa, Hollywood movie actor and farmer would make an interesting book.

Last Monday we opened our new and larger business office to better serve our customers in the Virginia Beach area. We had simply outgrown the old office on Atlantic Avenue, which is now closed.

When we first opened that office in 1939, we had only 1,220 telephones. Now we are serving more than 8,000, which is an indication of the rapid growth of this area in the last thirteen years.

We invite you to visit us in our new home.

Teams all over the world are keenly interested in the Olympic Games at Helsinki, which begin this Saturday. No happenings within the ancient centuries have been put under closer scrutiny, or subjected to more research than the Olympic Games. They refer specifically to the contests which make up a festival program staged on Olympia, the sacred mountain of Greece, in the days of its glory.
The games originally are dated 776 B. C. so far as their origin is concerned. That appears to be correct according to all stolid historians, but these games were patterned after ceremonial contests which took place at specified intervals in Greece as far back as 1483 B. C.

The early Greeks had a belief that when anyone died the spirit of the departed remained in the neighborhood of earthly passing.

The chiefline of the numerous titles which honored Greece 3,000 years ago set aside a certain day to honor the dead—as we do on Decoration Day. These documents were of religious nature.
Whatever had originated the observed custom was retained. It might have been music, poetry, drama, or an athletic contest. There was always a preoccupation of young men, racing, jumping contests, throwing, wrestling, and so on.

Delphic, a name, is credited by some historians with the pageant, which eventually brought about the Games of Olympia.
Aware of the custom of ceremonies at a fixed date, and that each tribe took tremendous pride in the prowess of its champion, Delphic urged that all tribes and all cities should send their athletic monarchs into one mighty contest, where all could compete, and where the ultimate winner of each event was to be called the greatest among the Hellenes.

When the Olympic Games were revised in 1896 it was determined by the Greeks that as closely as possible all of the customs and rules of the ancient games would be perpetuated. And so, the Olympiad in Finland, in which the youth of America looks with pride and interest around fingers for the American young men and women who are competing so far away from home.

Methodists To Have New Building Soon

In preparation for the erection of a new and larger sanctuary, the present building of the Virginia Beach Methodist Church is being taken down, it has been announced.

Erected in 1913 under the ministry of Rev. D. G. C. Butts, the structure has been outgrown by the congregation. The membership at that time numbered about fifty persons. Today the congregation is beyond 600.

It is expected that the foundation for the new building will be laid the first part of August. The contract for the new building has been given to the Milligan Construction Company of Virginia Beach. Six months is the estimated time required for the completion of the project. The new church will have a seating capacity of 550.

The building committee is composed of V. J. Honeycutt, chairman, A. H. Holmes, Sr., Mrs. E. E.

Club Heads Drive for Funds For New Community Center

Great activity is in progress at the Chesapeake Beach Women's Club with preparations going ahead for a well-organized community fund-raising project—the new beach community center. A Summer Festival will be held on Saturday, July 19, commencing at 2 p.m. All members of the Women's Club, the Volunteer Fire Department, and the Men's Club are working hard and cooperating with each department in helping to make this festival a great success. All proceeds will go towards the completion of the new center.

Six candidates for the title of Festival Queen, who are members of the Junior American Citizens Club, are working hard to obtain votes. The lucky girl elected queen will receive numerous prizes including one pair of shoes, pearl necklace, blouse, hose, and other items of value. In addition, her attendants will also receive a gift each. A crown and scepter presented by a local florist will be given to the queen at 8 o'clock on the day of the festival, and gifts to each of her attendants.

Meetings of the Virginia Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs, and of the Agricultural Conference Board, have been scheduled for July 29 and 30, immediately preceding the 19th annual Institute of Rural Affairs at VPI.

The Conference Board this year is sponsoring a co-directors' conference. The directors will hear addresses by John S. Goddin, attorney-at-law, Richmond; J. K. Stern, Washington, D. C., president, American Institute of Cooperation; R. S. Graves, Syria; George Palmer, Green Bay; Dr. W. Myers, director of field crop research, USDA, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Harry Love, head of the department of agricultural economics, VPI; and George J. Wasz, senior agricultural economist, Farm Credit Administration.

An executive board meeting of the Federation is scheduled for Tuesday afternoon, July 29. Wednesday, Federation members will hear addresses by Dr. Walter S. Newman, president of VPI; Mrs. William Dickson, Farmington, president, Fredericksburg, and Dr. Charles Martin, president, Radford College. A panel discussion led by Maude E. Wallace, assistant director of the VPI Agricultural Extension Service, also is planned for Wednesday.

The Institute opens Wednesday evening, with a humorous address by Rev. Lawrence Hall, rector of the Episcopal Church, Portsmouth, Ohio. Members of the various departments and溢出 of the community who are assisting in the preparations and who will be in charge of the various gaily decorated booths are: R. E. Meyerhoff, L. L. Dillon and E. A. Hudson will have for sale hot dogs, steak sandwiches, potato salad, baked beans and soft drinks; D. J. Wilkins will supervise boat rides on Lake Joyce for the children; W. J. Slade will have a cider booth; C. Hall, a pop corn machine; W. B. Meekins and Mrs. L. L. Dillon will be in charge of the bingo; and J. Russell will work the lighting effects.

The ladies of the community who will have various items for sale in different booths are: Mrs. E. A. George and Mrs. R. E. Meyerhoff, the Country Store; Mrs. E. A. Hudson and Mrs. T. J. Austin, hand-work booth; Mrs. W. J. Slade and Mrs. D. J. Wilkins, White Elephant; Mrs. E. J. King, Books; Mrs. George W. T. Peay, dart game; Mrs. A. V. Reynolds, pitch-penny; Mrs. V. G. Allen will have homemade ice cream and cake for sale; Mrs. C. G. Fahey, grab bag; Mrs. R. Webbon, Richard's Almanack.

Those that fall in love with him—self will have no rivals.—Poor Richard's Almanack.

Wild Ponies Due To Make Annual Swim 30th & 31st

Those tiny wild ponies from the salt marshes of Assateague Island, their ancestry dating back three centuries, are due to make their annual swim to Chincoteague Island on Virginia's Eastern Shore this year on July 30 and 31. For on those days, Chincoteague Island's marine cowboys, the community's volunteer firemen, will herd approximately 200 ponies across the 200-foot-wide channel dividing Assateague from Chincoteague, and usher the small animals into pens for auction.

Following a custom which began in 1856, the wild horses are herded together once a year and brought to the neighboring island of Chincoteague from their home on the desolate peninsula and bordering on the Eastern Shore. Pony Penning, the affair is called, arises from the fact that the ponies are brought ashore and driven through a mile of the community's streets and placed in pens. Prospective buyers come from all over the United States and many horses, of course, are sold to the parents of wide-eyed children.

The actual penning and auctioning of the young colts, many of which are no larger than a Great Dane or St. Bernard, has been expanded to include a sea-side rodeo with wild pony rides, races and roping sets. And there are delicious meals served during the event, with the main feature being a sandwich of Chincoteague oysters.

The pony penning eliminates a two-week carnival of the Chincoteague Firemen, who sponsor the pony roundup and use the proceeds to defray the expenses of the fire department.

There are colorful legends concerning the origin of the shaggy little ponies. According to one legend, they were brought to the coast by a Spanish galleon that was shipwrecked off the Virginia Coast. Another relates they are survivors of the Lost Colony. Another maintains that pirates who periodically plundered coastwise shipping off the American coast placed their captured horses on the island to graze.

The ponies are a ragged lot. Having lived most of their lives near the surf, eating marsh grass. (Continued on page four)

NO DEARTH OF CANDIDATES TO CARRY PARTY BANNER IN NOVEMBER VOTING

"The shouting and the tumult dies . . . the captains and the kings depart . . ." — another group of political giants move upon the city of Chicago.

This time it is the Democratic Party, rallying its forces to nominate a candidate to vie at the November polls with the Republican presidential nominee, General Dwight Eisenhower and his running mate, Senator Nixon, of California.

Quite in contrast to the set-up facing the Republicans, the party of Thomas Jefferson is not faced with a prospective two-way battle. Whereas Taft and Eisenhower dominated the GOP spotlight, candidates galore aspire to the office from within the ranks of the incumbent power.

With a decided preponderance of pre-convention votes pledged to his candidacy is Senator Estes Kefauver, whose coon-skin cap was among the first to be tossed into the ring. Just what his chances are appears to be anyone's guess. Lauded by some of the party stalwarts, he is clashed by others fully as "dalmatian" as an opportunist who took advantage of his place in the national spotlight some months ago in connection with the Senate crime investigating committee and is reaching for a political plum not only beyond his grasp, but beyond his capacity.

The hopes of the South are based on the candidacy of Senator Russell of Georgia. Backers of this candidate claim that he will poll at least 300 votes on the first ballot and will go on to win—perhaps on the fourth or fifth ballot.

Russell has only one disadvantage to offset his obvious excellent capabilities—he is from the South . . . and there are those in other sections of the nation who label him a "sectional" candidate.

Just why this charge should be laid is not decisive. It had to justify . . . more than Kefauver, for example, or tional, according to their geographic residence.

NOMINEE?

Just what part President Truman may play in the selection of a candidate has been a lively subject of discussion. Since his obvious effort to bring Governor Stevenson of Illinois into the nomination (refused with courtesy, thanks by the Governor) has put him right behind Harry.

There are those who believe that Harry will again be the candidate for the Democrats, despite his statement that he does not seek the post. In the case of a deadlock, who knows? But the "big wigs" say no. Harry is out.

Vice-President Barkley is definitely "in," by his own statements. But unless a deadlock develops and no more promising candidate appears, it is not believed that a man of his age will get the nod.

Senator Kerr is another man in the nomination news. His chances? Who would predict, even at this stage of the game?

For our money, the race is definitely between Russell and Kefauver. And in the only direct contest be-between the two men, Russell came up with top honors.

Just what the Southern delegates will do if Harriman is chosen, or another candidate of the same Truman stripe, is hard to predict. Of one thing we are relatively certain—they will not walk out of the convention. What they would do come November and election day, is another matter. Many like Eisenhower—the man, not necessarily the Republican. Or perhaps that day will be a good day for fishing.

And what of the plenum? Governor Russell (and it may be that he speaks for all Southern delegates) is on record that he will not bolt even if a compulsory FEPC plank is adopted. So we assume that all other

STRAIGHT From the SHOULDERFashion, That Is!

With that second cup of coffee, listen to the "Women's World," 9-9:30 a.m. Mondays through Saturdays, WTAR, for Mrs. White's chatty about the latest fashions, homemaking tips, club and civic events and especially transcribed interviews with New York personalities.

The big news of the collection of Virginia's own designer, Jane Derby, is the coat and dress for both day and evening wear. The little news is suits, and dresses with jackets that are more like small coats.

In viewing Miss Derby's fall and winter collection in her Fifth Avenue salon, it was quite noticeable that she had cultivated a great quality of natural elegance and had avoided the stiff shapes and studied effects which were seen in other designers' creations. She has a definite talent for bringing out the easy, figure-following line and even though some of her fabrics were crisp-surfaced, they would fall gracefully sans any limp-clingy look against the body.

Jane Derby evidently spent some time in studying the great Gainesborough portraits of children, particularly the little boys in their short, light little jackets, soft collars and sashed waists—a la Little Lord Fauntleroy—for many of Jane's costumes, both for day and dinner hours, were fashioned after Gainesborough.

To quote Jane's own description of her collection: "Black predominates. All colors are murky Indonesian tones. I have made repeated use of brown with blue in the shades of the bark (the browns) and the fig (purpleish blues). Our new white with a pronounced mauve cast is called tuberose. I like it particularly with dark gingham red."

"To me there is an important change in 'after' clothes. They look best covered up and tailored for the cocktail hour and for din-

The 1952 Williamsburg Garden Symposium, a yearly outstanding winter event which every year attracts nationwide attention, will be held in two three-day sessions beginning March 9 and March 16, with noted experts in related fields participating in talks, discussion periods and daily walking tours made through some of the more than 60 acres of restored century gardens in Colonial Williamsburg. I have attended the '51 and '52 Symposia and have met, and interviewed, many interesting and fascinating garden people. I wouldn't think of missing next March's event. Hope to see you there!

Strictly for the birds: Birds are attracted by the seed of the plants and then only seed-eating birds will be interested in hanging about for sunflowers, poke, lily of the valley, wild species roses, partridge-berry, wild strawberry and wintergreen. Hummingbirds, for instance, prefer delphinium, phlox, penstemon and triploma. Vine producing seeds or berries will attract your feathered friends such as bitterroot, cranberry, gooseberry, holly, and the viburnums. They love White Ash trees, linden, beech, the birches, box elder, elm, the oaks, the maple, Mountain Ash and wild cherry. And I hope you love the birds!

One name that fascinates me—creeping Jenny! In case you didn't know, it is a name applied to a golden-flowered lychnis as well as to the white-flowered wild morning glory. Creeping Jenny is controlled by hand fork. (Continued on page five)

Virginia de Luce, Broadway's new glamour star of "New Faces of 1952," certainly held back on me about that motorcycle stunt when I interviewed her with my tape recorder for "The Woman's World." Now I find out that along with being a Powers model, Copacabana dancer, movie starlet and Spike Jones traveling press agent she has also been a truck driver on the West Coast in the Coast Guard, an abstract painter, a rodeo rider and a trick motorcycle rider. Some gal, that Virginia!

Discriminating women of fashion for thirty-three years have confidentially looked to FLORENCE WILSON for fashion-rightness as each season changes. FLORENCE WILSON'S smart fashions have been modeled in many charity benefit fashion shows presented by club women at the beach. She enjoys the patronage of many fashionably smart Princess Anne-Virginia Beach women. Although MISS WILSON is now a resident of Virginia Beach, her shop is still located at 300 West Freemason Street, Norfolk, where free parking space is available to her customers. You'll find daily arrivals of new summer cottons, sheers and silk shantung . . . stunning mid-summers hats with brims. (To wear one of FLORENCE WILSON'S hats is a true mark of fashion distinction!) You'll find wonderful gift suggestions for your summertime week-end hosts in Hobie jewelry and Henri Bendel cosmetics as well as divine lingerie and delicately lovely blouses, the ultimate in loveliness. Hours at this shop are 9:30 til 5 daily. Phone: 25226, Norfolk.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

By LUCILE CLARK

See "Let's Cook" every Monday through Friday at 1 P.M. on WTAR-TV

Here it is Thursday again and I have quite an interesting story to bring you—about ice cream. These hot summer days, what could be nicer to talk about than good old ice cream, yum, yum?

Ice cream has often been connected with history, adventure, travel and famous people. Long before Columbus set out to sail the ocean blue" people were eating ice cream. Stories have come down through generations and many of them read like a fascinating novel. Let's see, what some of them are . . .

The time was 62 A.D. and the place Rome. Great crowds gathered to witness the sensational gladiatorial combats being held in honor of their emperor, Nero. The crowd went wild with exultation when their favorite gladiator had downed his adversary.

Nero—beautifully attired in royal purple and seated on a specially constructed golden throne—enjoyed the spectacle and shouted wildly with the rest of the crowd. The excitement over, he commanded his servants to serve him a rare delicacy—a forerunner of modern ice cream. Fast runners had been previously dispatched to bring snow from the mountains. They had to run swiftly before their precious cargo melted. Exhausted and breathless, they placed their baskets of snow before the cooks, who flavored the snow with honey, juices and pulp of fruit. When it was ready, it was plated before the Emperor Nero with great pomp and ceremony.

"Ah," said the other. "That accounts for the unusual dessert she served us a fortnight ago—fruit ice, I believe she called it." And so the French tried something new. They added milk to a sweet liquid and froze it—the forerunner of ice cream as we know it today.

One day in the 17th century in England, a messenger from King Charles I was sent in secret to a certain Frenchman. Down cobbled streets he went to a humble cottage in a deserted section of London. The fox swirled about him as he knocked on the cottage door. "Ah, monsieur, come

Especially for Homemakers

Especially for Homemakers Chlorophyll is just about getting into full bloom! If you homemakers think you've heard an awful lot about it in assorted products, you'll hear lots more. The green that sprays the country when St. Patrick's Day rolls around will be lost in the emerald sea that will engulf chlorophyll products. Already, there are 11 tooth pastes and powders, 31 lotions and tablets as deodorants and breath sweeteners, nine chewing gums, eight dog foods, four mouth washes, three stick deodorants with chlorophyll being marketed. In addition, it has been applied or impregnated in mothballs, scented candles, toilet tissues, soap, skin ointment, shampoo, cleansing cream, cologne, shoe lining and insoles, not to mention veterinary ointments and solutions.

Advertising folks feel that to attain consumer acceptance it may require upward of $75,000 this year, especially since the ones with more popular daily usage will be swirling in a competitive rage. Two advertising executives got in on the ground floor of chlorophyll and gambled half a million dollars in research to confirm scientific findings of chlorophyll's value in medicine and dental treatments.

What their harvest has been and will be anybody's guess but taint peanuts! Other diversified uses for the green stuff seem to be popping up daily.

Those lovely centerpieces fashioned of silver and designed as a cluster of bowls and candle holders to accommodate fruit, flowers, candies, tapers—all at the same time—are known as epergnes. They have a most intriguing origin. When conditions, nuts, fruits and other Far Eastern luxuries were first imported

Marco Polo learned many new things in his travels through the Far East. He brought back diamonds, rubies, pearls and peacock feathers for frozen delicacy which included milk and was much like our sherberts of today. Then the sherberts became very popular with the Italian people. While the recipe remained in Italy for some time, it wasn't long before the knowledge of it spread to other countries.

One day in France, Catherine de Medicis—queen of France—had invited guests—and, knowing of her reputation for serving spectacular dinners—two of her guests were heard to say, "I wonder what it will be this time?" Her Excellency does serve a handsome dinner, doesn't she? And why not so she is? And why should she not—she brought back many Italian cooks when she came from Florence. It is no wonder she can serve unknown foods to us. She is the envy of all the noblewomen of France."

"That accounts for the unusual dessert

she served us a fortnight ago—fruit ice, I believe she called it."

And so the French tried something new. They added milk to a sweet liquid and froze it—the forerunner of ice cream as we know it today.

porated for tables of the wealthy French, those delicacies were exceedingly expensive. The thrifty French did not wish to waste the tiniest portion of such rare offerings and it was then that the silver épergne was created.

Fun to Cook

"The messenger looked to right and left of him, entered and spoke, 'You know my mission?'

"'Ah! Yes, monsieur.' Then swear to this oath: 'I, Jacques, do solemnly swear never to divulge the secret I possess.'

The Frenchman reported the oath.

"I hereby give you, in the name of King Charles II of England, £500 yearly, to keep secret the formula for making ice cream."

Charles I so valued this unusual food he patented his French chef into secrecy. He wanted to be sure that ice cream would be served only at the royal table.

From Nero's "throne of gold" in Rome to the court of Kubla Khan in China — back to Italy — from fashionable dinner parties in Paris to festive tables of Charles I in England — the knowledge of ice cream spread. For centuries the favored few guarded this secret, and centuries passed before it became the property of the people, you and me.

Well, by now you are asking just what I did. "What about dessert?" Well, like many other things, the recipe was brought across the Atlantic — by our colonial settlers. We sat on the Mayflower — but many years after Among some personal letters of Governor Bladen of Maryland, written about 1700, we find, "We had a dessert no less curious: among the varieties of the White House guests used to eat after attending the annual Inaugural Ball for George Washington — for his dessert was a special surprise in store for the guests."

Last night I was bid by our President to the White House and he, a most pleasant affair. Mrs. Roosevelt always entertains with grace and charm, but last night there was a sparkle in her eye that set astir an air of expectancy among the guests. When finally the brilliant assemblage — America's best — entered the dining room, she held a table set with French china, English silver, laden with good things to eat, and high in the center, on a silver platter, a large shining dome of ice cream.

Unwittingly, Dolly Madison began a custom which has continued to this very day. Once a year the White House plays host to the people of the press. Ice cream in its most popular flavors is served in huge quantities at these parties, which are pleasant affairs — the business of collecting and writing news being put aside for the afternoon.

Inventions have furthered the progress of ice cream. The white ice cream had won its place at an early date in the history of our country. It was very expensive to make — it was so difficult to do so successfully. When Dolly Madison's servants made ice cream they had to beat it by hand and strain it up and down in a pan of ice. This was called the "pot-freer" method.

The first improvement in the manufacture of ice cream was given to us by a woman, Nancy Johnson, who in 1846 invented the hand-cranked freezer. Poor Nancy didn't have the foresight to have her invention patented — and in 1848 a Mr. Young was granted a patent for a hand-cranked freezer. Their inventions led to the establishing of the ice cream industry. Records show that Jacob Frenell started the first ice cream shop at 12th and G streets, N.W., Washington, D.C., in 1851. About the same time James Woodward started the Horatio Ice Cream Company.

Ice cream is manufactured today in plants equipped with automatically controlled apparatus operating under the most sanitary conditions. The ingredients are carefully selected for food value and purity by a score of laboratory technicians. Thus, you and I are assured of a pure, healthful, delicious product. Yet, the modern factory has replaced the bucket freezer just as the modern locomotive has replaced the steamboat.

Did you know the ice cream cone has a history? It goes back to 1804. It was presented first at the St. Louis World's Fair. The cone has become the most popular individual serving of ice cream. It's a favorite. Two billion, five hundred million cones sold in a year.

Everyone eats ice cream, once a dish for only kings and monarchs through modern inventions become a popular food. Ice cream contains all of the substances found in milk, but in different proportions. High quality proteins, minerals and vitamins are in the food substances that make ice cream good for us.

Through the years, ice cream has become a popular food with everyone. From Nero, whose slaves brought snow from the mountains, to all Americans, who eat over a billion and a half quarts each year, ice cream is the su-

Award To Cdr. Toner

Cdr. Raymond J. Toner, USN, and Mrs. Virginia M. Toner of 231 West 75th Street, Chicago, Ill., and nephew of Mrs. Eva M. Toner of 51st Street, Virginia Beach, were awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service as the commanding officer of the destroyer USS Dash during operations off Korea from October 15, 1950 to April 19, 1951.

The citation reads: "Under the direction of the English furnished protection for our troops moving up from Hungnam, participated in the siege of Wonsan and served as flagship for Commander Destroyer Squadrons 16."

Although his ship was subjected to hostile fire in three occasions, he skillfully maintained it at a peak combat efficiency, assuring a high level of morale among his personnel despite hazardous weather conditions and periods of sustained and dangerous operations in enemy-mined waters."

Warning Given River Traffic At Yorktown

Lt. Cmdr. Lathrop Commands CG Cutter

The rifle range at Camp Peary, on the south bank of the York River about seven miles upstream from Yorktown, Va., was reactivated this week. Thirty-caliber rifles and carbines will be fired at intermittent periods.

Tower buoys have been constructed in such manner to practically eliminate danger to passing river traffic. A red flag will be displayed on shore at the upstream and downstream ends of the range and a lookout on the river will be maintained during the periods of firing. When red flags are flown, vessels are requested not to stop in the area offshore from them, except in case of emergency.

The above public notice has been issued by T. E. Dowd, Jr., Captain, Corps of Engineers, Executive Officer, Norfolk, Va.

Cdr. Toner is serving at the Armed Forces Staff College in Norfolk.

Lieutenant Commander James L. Lathrop, USCG, has assumed command of the Coast Guard Cutter Aleutian, based at U. S. Coast Guard Berkeley Moorings, now enroute to an ocean station in the North Atlantic. Lt.Cdr. Lathrop relieved Commander Richard F. Ross, USCG, who has received orders transferring him to the 5th Coast Guard District, Cleveland, Ohio, as director of Coast Guard Reserve.

Mrs. Lathrop was formerly executive officer of the Aleutian; he reported aboard the cutter in April, 1951.

Graduating from the Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn., in 1942, Lt.Cdr. Lathrop's duty immediately prior to reporting to the Aleutian was at Coast Guard Headquarters, Washington, D. C.

L.Cdr. and Mrs. Lathrop, daughter Ann, 4, son J. L., Jr., reside at 217 54th Street, Virginia Beach.

FT. STORY SAFETY PROGRAM

During the month of June, Fort Story's safety-conscious personnel played a total of 107,549 miles in military vehicles, with no accidents. The safety committee, which is an integral part of its defense program, and new research are being done in the post's efforts to keep costs down while improving operating efficiency.

THURSDAY NIGHT DANCE

The regular Thursday night dance, held in Post Story's Service Club, Number One, on July 16, was an overwhelming success due to heavy participation by girls living and visiting in Virginia Beach. Captain John J. Carroll, Jr., Special Services Officer for Fort Story, announced this week, the large crowd was provided music to dance by through the courtesy of Pfc. Ralph T. Vette and his musical trio. Ralph's combination has played for the weekly dances for over a year, and is well known to the people of Virginia Beach, where they have played several engagements. Reference was made to a recent article in the Post Story newspaper concerning the safety committee's efforts to make the community a better place to live. However, more parents are "killing two birds with one stone" and sending their children to Camp Doublett while they vacation this summer. Camp Doublett is the Council Club, conducted each summer on the Scout Reservation near Seabrook, Virginia.

The season of Camp Doublett has passed the mid-point of the bigger year in its history as of this date. Over one hundred and thirty Scouts are in camp for the week of July 13, bringing the total number of boys who have been attending Doublett this summer to well over five hundred.

The Scouts from Princess Anne District that have attended this summer so far are Troop 62 which is sponsored by the Ocean Methodist Church; Troop 66, sponsored by the Kempsville Marine Club; Troop 67, sponsored by the Little Creek Ambitious Scouts; Troops 69 of Chesapeake Beach, Troops 69 of the Presbyterian Men's Club of Virginia Beach and Troop 68 of East Ocean View Presbyterian Church are registered to attend later this season.

Camp Doublett is under the direction of Lloyd H. Carter again this year. A well rounded program is being offered with many improvements over last year. Besides the many sports badges being offered, archery, baseball and campfire songs and stories are being taken advantage of by the Scouts. The food is the best ever! Our new chef, Jesse, has really added the "house touch" to already special food. If your troop isn't already registered you can still get in Virginia taxpayers will eventually pay about $186,696,000 as their share of the $200,000,000 deficit resulting from the failure of the President and Congress to cut Federal spending for 1953 to the limit of expected Federal income. The Virginia State Chamber of Commerce this week released this estimate after adding the score on Congressional action on money bills.

Virginia Taxpayers Pay Share of Deficit

The Virginia Chamber figured that the Federal Government will spend a total of $81,000,000,000 next year which is $4,500,000,000 less than the President proposed to spend in the budget he submitted in January. With 1953 revenues expected in a recent Congressional estimate to run about $66 billion, the deficit anticipated would be over $12 billion.

Although Congress cut a total of $8,400,000,000 from the President's appropriation requests of $88,657,000,000 this action will have only a limited effect upon Federal expenditures in 1953 because some of the money would not have been paid out anyway until 1954 or later, the Virginia Chamber pointed out.

The Virginia Chamber pointed the return of the 85th Congress to approve a number of controversial and expensive measures which would bring about 1953 expenditure and continue the present trend of year over year increases in later years.

The Virginia Chamber said, "Although Congress made a valiant effort to cut down the size of the whistling deficit in the President's 1953 budget, the modern solution which it finally adopted was for those advocates of economy had hoped for."

"It has been demonstrated once again that it is an almost impossible task for Congress alone to make large reductions in the Federal budget and does little there stick, especially if the Chief Executive is up to the need for compromise and even makes a virtue a big spending."

Early New England settlers were built of thick planks instead of logs as is generally believed.

New Scale Can Weigh Proverbial Gnat's Eyebrow*"Equal to the weight of a gnat's eyebrow."*

That could be a true statement that is, if gnat had eyebrows. And the scientists at the Martin Research Laboratories in Menlo Park, California, can actually weigh anything as small as the proverbial gnat's eyebrow.

Imagine if you will, a scale, or balance as it is called in the laboratory, that is sensitive to one-thousandth of an ounce!

It is so delicate that the dust must be brushed from the scale before each weighing because a few tiny particles will cause an error.

Even the tiniest of the operators can create enough draft to defeat the operator. The scale must be enclosed in glass or protect it against these outside influences.

If you can imagine an instrument which incorporates the above features, you will have an idea of the type of scale the modern scientist has to facilitate his work.

If it were not for the extreme sensitivity of these scales, most chemical analysis could not be performed. It is the ability of the scientist to weigh the infinitesimal percentages of foreign matter in a supposedly pure compound that provides the safe foods and drugs, the strong steels and other metals, the different plastics, even military's nylon hose and all of the other things we accept as commonplace today.

Va. Extension Staff Members Attend Atlantic City Meet

Several Virginians attended the American Home Economics Association meeting in Atlantic City in June. Isaac Craig, Princess Anne County agent, was the leader of a panel on public relations.

Others who attended were: Miss Mary Sette, housing specialist; Miss Ruth Comstock, extension agent; and Miss Marion Lawrence Henry, home agent; Miss Robert Griffin, Brunswick home agent; Miss Emma Bratten, Northampton agent; Miss Elizabeth Farren, Culpeper agent; and Mrs. Ruth E. Huff, Albemarle agent.

Jameson was elected vice-president of the Extension department of the AHEA, and took office at the Atlantic City meeting. For the past two years she has been national chairman of the house furnishings specialists' group. She was succeeded by Miss Ruth Comstock, Correll University.

TINY PARTICLES OF DUST on the pen can be enough to affect the results of weighing on the sensitive balance shown above which is used in the Nutritive Research Laboratories in Menlo Park, California. Scientists using such balances can weigh accurately to within one sixty-millionths of an ounce. These instruments are so delicate that even the normal breathing of the operator will deflect the pointer, hence the glass case.

Greyhounds, Like Boxers, Lose Edge From Over-training, Expert Opines

Racing greyhounds are like boxers, golfers, tennis stars or baseball players. It requires weeks of training to bring them to the fine edge of peak form, and that form can be maintained for only a brief period.

All of the Todd greyhounds, Judge Boyd said, arrived at the track this spring in top condition and ready to win. That's just what they did, too, bringing Todd to the top of the purse earning roster quickly, and holding him there up to last week. It is unlikely, the judge added, that Todd, clever trainer that he is, can keep in the meantime, we are proud of the showing some of our horses are making at Camp during this year.

The Rebel Patrol, composed of Jim Loftin, patrol leader from Troop 68; Kilroy Hodges, Troop 68; Walter Wright and Jake Moran of Troop 68, won the gold tomahawks for being the out-and-out patrol at Camp during the past week. They amassed a total of 6,241 points out of a possible 8,500 to take the trophy.

All the boys earned the camping merit badge and Walter Wright got his swimming merit badge. Also attending Camp from Troop 68 were B. Fisher and R. Stills. C. Midrett and Woody Johnson of Troop 68 (who, we understand, have found something interesting in Courtland) passed eight of their second class requirements last Thursday.

MARIE RICHARDSON'S spacious new quarters for her ANTIQUES DECORATING SHOP on Ludlow Road is a clever example of what imaginative, distinctive and clever women could do to the old Wagon Wheel Building. You'd sure to make it easy visit to this unusually attractive shop where you find gifts of all types. Valentine Mugs, modern and traditional lamps, lamps, mirrors, etc. It's quite a place! MARIE RICHARDSON'S phenomenal success in five years amounts to her successful business woman's breast at the Beach. A Hobby, a decorating training course at Williams and Mary Extension School, a small, long sleep and now—Lucille Reed's smart new establishment. Summer visitors beat a path to MARIE RICHARDSON'S door, in appreciation of having found a big-time shop, outside you might say!

HARRELL'S PHARMACY has two locations which give "service for the sick" at the Beach. Visitors are most welcome. One is the HARRELL MAYFLOWER PHARMACY, in the new Mayflower Apartments (there is also a large, air-conditioned PHARMACY SHOP located in the Jefferson Hotel, corner Atlantic and 10th Street). WILLEY C. HARRELL, owner, is particularly proud of his pharmaceutical services with the original and old-fashioned idea that a drug store is a drug store for itself! He maintains registered pharmacists at all times to give aid to the sick folks—and even vacationers like to know where top prescription service is given. Of course, if you're not sick, you can buy cosmetics, perfume, magazines, gifts, souvenirs, cigarettes and candy, lunches or sandwiches, or whatever, at HARRELL'S... You'll find all the things you expect to find in an A-1 modern drugstore... at both HARRELL STORES.

As clever as the name—RAGGED ROBIN BOOKSHOP—you'll find this bookshop just as cleverly stocked with the best and newest in books, the most unusual gifts plus an up-to-the-minute rental library. Owner, Marcia A. Moore, has given the shop a personal touch and invites Summer Visitors to browse about the gift and books, to make use of her rental library. It's located at 316 31st Street. Good books are wonderful Summer pals and knowing the location of a tip-top rental library is a boon to "the stranger in town." Whether it's a new mystery, historical, biography, sign-of-the-times or "how do you" after, you can find it at the RAGGED ROBIN. And if you have more time and get a hankering for humor, hop down to the RAGGED ROBIN, or phone 2344, and gift nook! For yourself what fun you'll have in MARCIA's book and gift nook!

Mr. Neighbors — Conventions, conventions, conventions or no, we must eat—so let's see about some really good summer time recipes. Peaches are on the market now and surely your family will love plenty of fresh peaches. Make peach pie colder, or use them for shortcake. South Carolina, with an estimated crop of over four million bushels, will lead the country this year in the peach growing state of 1952!

Can you imagine 45 million gallons of frozen orange concentrate? Well, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reports that Florida, by June 14, had passed the 45 million gallon mark. Lots of orange juice, I'd say!

It's certainly a smart hostess these hot summer days who finds all the short cuts to flavorful and nutritious meals and uses them when company is coming for lunch or perhaps dinner. With a supply of canned tuns on the shelf, you can welcome all the guests — expected or otherwise — with a cheery smile. Here are two dishes that allow you to spend the maximum of hostess time with your guests and still be assured of a delicious meal:

If you are planning a luncheon, serve tuna Waldorf salad, which can be supplemented with a hot vegetable and fluffy rolls to round out the menu. To make four to six servings, take one 7 ounce can of solid pack tuna and drain.

Break tuna apart with a fork, mix in a mixing bowl chop two medium size apples (leave the peeling on), one-fourth cup finely chopped pecans, two tablespoons fresh lemon juice. Mix with about one-half cup mayonnaise. Now add the wine, dash of salt, and toss gently, but well. Let chill for several hours, and serve on crisp lettuce.

Now for an evening meal. Scaled Tuna Casserole—I'm sure it will please everyone. For four servings, slice three medium-size cooked potatoes into a well buttered casserole. Arrange one-half the potato. On top of these put one 7 ounce can of tuna that has been drained and broken apart. Over this put one very finely chopped onion, and a layer of sliced potatoes; over the potatoes one-fourth cup chopped onions.

Over all of this one can of cream of mushroom soup. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in covered casserole for 35 minutes at 375 degrees.

With this casserole you can serve a tempting fruit salad—that is if you've been keeping a variety of canned fruits in the refrigerator since I suggested. What could be nicer?

Have a nice weekend and I'll be seeing you next Thursday. —LUCILE

By A. E. W. "Successful Entertaining at Home" (Prentice-Hall, Inc.) by Carolyn Coggin is an invaluable tool for the bride to acquaint her with the art of hospitality and help her select, use and care for household equipment. It's priced under five dollars and is a large, encyclopedic volume gift the bride will use throughout her married life. It is also the all-season guide to the art of being a truly gracious hostess. A complete party book, food-and-drink book, and homemaker's manual rolled into one handy 400-page volume. Not only does it show you how to entertain graciously yet inexpensively and simply, it teach step of planning and preparation, but it also helps you learn how to relax and fully enjoy your own parties. It's more than a delightful reference book; it contains a whole philosophy of entertaining in carefree, relaxed fashion of today's modern young homemakers. Helpful ideas are to be found on entertaining graciously in a hotel room, living pleasantly although on the move when your husband is in the service, how to be a successful host and hostess at college, plans for entertaining teen-agers, ways to serve fireside suppers, how to make a meal a dramatic production, dinners for two suggestions (intimate but not too embarrassing so) and so on. You'll love its gaiety and fun, too!

"Game, / for Three Losers" (Charles Scribner's Sons) is a skillful and perceptive crime story by Edgar Lustgarten. It's a nasonic story of blackmail by the author of "One More Unfortunate." Very exciting, if you like crime stuff, and just published July 21.

"Solving the High Cost of Eating" (Parsons, Brinckerhoff and Young, Inc.) with 1,900 taste-tested recipes, is the inside story of glamour foods at budget cost for everyone, deftly and scientifically presented by Dr. Iris Bailey Allen, famous in the hotbed economics field for 25 years. Her King Features syndiated food column is followed by 32 million readers and her previous books have been sold to the tune of 14 million copies.

All Dr. Allen's knowledge and experience have gone into this, her latest cookbook, which is a definite contribution to today's living—and to showing how everyone can solve the high cost of eating. This is a new kind of cookbook, I find, containing the latest information on applied nutrition and popularly presented in book form for the first time; chapters on money-saving use of milk, eggs, breads, cereals and macaroni products; fresh, canned and frozen vegetables; fish, poultry, and meat, including variety and organ meats; casseroles, salads, desserts, pastries and fruits. Timely Hints for Gardeners

You can now weed killers for your garden room in experimental amounts. One of the weed killers, MCP, is a relative of the well known 2,4-D but is "water" on some grasses and crops. It has been widely used abroad with considerable success.

On the subject of weeds, one of the most interesting new chemicals is sodium propiconizinate. This seems to be deadly to all new weed seedlings but does not injure them when plant stems get a bit hard.

Piranet and desirable shade plants can be in hot weather, it can mean great dissatisfaction for the home gardener. If your plants are where sunbeams filter through, or where they get direct sun at least part of the day, your gardening problem is not too great. But if low hanging branches with too heavy foliage cast shade too dense grass, you may have gardening troubles. The home gardener who insists on growing his grass in deep shade should use a mixture with a high percentage of fescue grass, according to Better Homes and Gardens. Baltic ivy is a plant well adapted to the shade of a north exposure. Hall's Japanese ivy can also be used for good effects.

The best way to keep your lawn weed free is to grow grass as healthy as weeds are crowded out and this means you start with good soil and enough sun, giving your lawn plenty of water and plant food, and don't mow it too closely.

With thin casserole you can serve a tempting fruit salad—that is if you've been keeping a variety of canned fruits in the refrigerator since I suggested. What could be nicer?

The glove trick: A simple way to water plants without wetting the leaves and without waste is with a cotton glove. Tie the end of a hose. Perforate the fingers of the glove after tying wristband tightly around the end of a hose. Perforate the fingers of the glove after tying wristband tightly around the end of the hose. Then turn on water so that a steady trickle flows to the plant.

Peaches, the all-American fruit, are having a peachy time of it this week all over our nation—it's National Peach Week, July 21-27. More than 26 states actually produce peaches. With few exceptions, peaches are grown in varying extent in more states than any other fruit. Virginia is one of those states. South Carolina is the top fresh peach producer state in the United States, although Georgia claims the title of "Peach State."

It's relinquished the honor in recent years to South Carolina. In 1951 Georgia produced 4.7 million bushels of fresh peaches and South Carolina yielded 6.4 million. The 1952 estimate is 3.5 million bushels for South Carolina and two millions for Georgia! Did you know that there is one orchard in the Spartanburg area of South Carolina which bore fruit for 42 years?

Feed stinging well and give them plenty of water, if you would have plenty of bloom.

How about planting Nicotiana? Affinis if it is a pleasant evening scent you like?

All over the 99 square miles of land known as Martha's Vineyard, in these July days the catalpa trees are in full bloom. Some of the catalpas have more snowy blossoms than the horse chestnuts, but I doubt if this is true. Each blossom is large and white, fringed like an orchid, and marked inside with maroon and yellow. The fragrance is undeniably pleasant.

It's funny, but most of the year catalpas seem stunted and scratchy, their mess of twigs a frustration to humans who abhor untidiness; so, too, the catalpas are late in showing their leaves, and when they stand so dead and black in the late spring and early summer that passersby often give them up for dead. As we said before, the catalpa trees are now in full bloom on Martha's Vineyard.

GARDEN GAB

(Note: The Council of Garden Clubs wished to thank Miss Elizabeth Bain for the following article. Miss Bain is one of our most enthusiastic and takes many people out to see this lotus during its blooming season.)

Lotus Land: "A prophet without honor . . ." A winding river of pale gold, against a background of huge green ribbed lily pads and dark water, high-lighted by blue water-lilies and pink and white mandevilla.

I wonder how many of the permanent residents of our city and county—not to mention visitors—know that but a half-hour's drive away is a breathtakingly beautiful and absolutely unique sight—for free—which they would travel hundreds of miles and spend many dollars to see, if it weren't right under their noses?

The Princess Anne Lotus (Nelumbo lutea) is the ONLY NATIVE American lotus, and, as far as I have been able to ascertain, is found only on the way to Sand Bridge, right here in our very own country.

The fragrant yellow waterlily-like blossoms, many petals, which grow 4 to 10 inches across stand high above the water. There is nothing in their growth that is not exquisite—charming buds, blossoms in all stages, fascinating pods, and leaves which are great room drapes when fully opened but, entrancingly, rolled, in delicate shades of green, in earlier stages.

This magnificent lotus was practically wiped out in the hurricane of 1933, but it has staged a comeback and has been, for the past three or four years, blooming in its full glory for those who are appreciative and interested enough to take a trip of an hour or so.

Our only native American lotus was found in Princess Anne County about 100 years ago, has since died out in its original location, but later appeared in the stream near Sand Bridge. Salt water, as in 1933, is a threat to the continued existence of this lovely, unique wild flower, which are also monkeys which eat the seeds like chimpanzees.

This may be a good place to say that visitors, flower-lovers though they may be, do a great disservice to others when they take the trouble to gather flowers, buds and pods from the bridge or nearby. Remember that others coming after you will miss them. Our local Chamber of Commerce and State advertising

Gibbreath said that one Chicago physician, who is an authority on the subject of hay fever, had summed up medical findings on the subject with:

"Unfortunately there is little opportunity for complete escape from grass pollen except by staying in doors with the windows and doors closed."

"While this doctor was being interviewed, he was actually talking about his air conditioning system. He said that it does not need to be turned on because the equipment is to be used economy."

One-Fifth Of Nation Dreads Awful August

Hay fever sufferers—now estimated to constitute an "ill-named one-fifth of the nation"—have about given up expecting any relief through medical or weed-pulling projects at "Awful August" approaches once more.

But spokesmen for one of the nation's newest and fastest growing industries are sounding a confident note of hope. Air conditioning, they say, definitely is the answer.

According to John A. Gibbreath, head of the air conditioning division at Servel, all-year air conditioning will provide complete relief because the filtering system used with the equipment is guaranteed to remove 100 per cent of the pollen particles in a home.

Spot checks by engineers of homes equipped with all-year air conditioning have confirmed laboratory findings, they report, adding that the filters will remove dust particles even smaller than the pollen particles.

BILL Provides Funds For Vets

The Third Supplemental Appropriations Bill, signed by the President earlier this month, provided the Veterans Administration with more than $285,000,000 for paying veterans' benefits which included $15,000,000 for automobile for seriously disabled veterans and $2,300,000 for indemnity claims to the dependents of deceased veterans.

Funds to pay indemnity claims to dependents of servicemen and eligible veterans who died since the beginning of the Korean conflict had been exhausted since the latter part of April, 1952, when 7,559 claims had been approved for monthly payments. VA is now making retroactive payments to those dependents.

Under the Serviceman's Indemnity Act of 1951 (Public Law 22), servicemen on active duty on and after June 27, 1950, are automatically covered against death in active service in the amount of $10,000—less any National Service Life Insurance or U. S. Government Life Insurance in force at the time of death.

For those called to active duty for 31 days or more, this free indemnity continues in effect for 120 days after separation or release from service.

Because of the lack of funds, VA also had held up payments on 6,287 application (as of April 30, 1952), for automobiles or other conveyances for seriously disabled veterans under Public Law 187, 82nd Congress, which amended the original "Cars for Amputees" law.

More than 1,500 other applications were pending on April 30 and VA estimates that another 2,800 World War II and Korean veterans are eligible for the $100 grant towards the purchase

Antibiotic May Solve Low Egg Production

Science may be closer to solving the summer slack period in egg production. At Pearl Poultry Farm in Montvale, N. J., John and Frank Etcherberry have run tests which indicate that through the use of an antibiotic feed supplement low producing hens can be brought back to near-peak production. It started last fall when a pen of 18 birds were far behind the rest of the flock in egg production.

Second, add cheese to other ingredients, using very small pieces rather than one large piece. When broken up, it spreads more evenly and quickly among other foods, and allows the mixture to cook in a shorter time.

Third, blend cheese in a smooth sauce before adding to other ingredients, whenever possible, to prevent curdling. A white sauce with cheese melted in it may be poured over cooked vegetables for a scalloped dish; into beaten eggs for Welsh rabbit; or on cooked macaroni or rice before baking.

A note to grandmothers — in a recent study in Nebraska, granddaughters in late adolescent years were asked to describe the characteristics and behavior they liked and disliked in grandmothers. They want their grandmothers to make a good appearance, but not of a car.

VA said its regional offices will mail each veteran, whose application is approved, authorization to purchase his automobile.

To be eligible for automobiles and other conveyances, these veterans must be entitled to compensation for any of the following service-connected disabilities: loss or permanent loss of use of one or both feet; loss or permanent loss of use of one or both hands; complete loss of sight in both eyes or permanent impairment of vision of both eyes to the degree as to constitute virtual blindness.

You want a cool suggestion for a summer salad? Try "whole meal salad." You'll need:

2 tsp salt
2 cups English peas
1 cup celery

1 tbsp. onion, chopped
1-2 cucumber pickle
2-1 envelopes plain gelatin

Add water and salt to veal, cook until tender. Remove meat and cut in small pieces. Cool broth, remove fat, add water if necessary, to make 1 quart. Bring to a boil. Soak gelatin in one cup of meat broth. Heat remainder to boiling point. Add soaked gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Cool, add rest of the ingredients. Pour in well oiled mold. Chill until firm. Turn on bed of lettuce. Garnish with stuffed eggs and tomato quarters.

Peanut butter is always a favorite. Add it to crisp and crumbled bacon for a creamy, chopped raw apple or grated carrots.

Mix with deviled ham and catchup for a delicious spread.

Savory Beef, Purleyed Rice

(Serves 4)

3 large onions, sliced
3 tablespoons shortening
2 pounds beef chuck
3 tablespoons salt
1 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper
1-4 teaspoon thyme
2 cups boiling water
2 tablespoons catchup

Fry onions slowly in melted shortening until brown. Cut beef into serving sized pieces. Add to pan, increase heat and brown on both sides. Mix flour with seasoning and sprinkle over meat. Add water, vinegar and catchup. Cover and simmer until meat is tender, about 2 hours. Serve on a platter with a border of purleyed rice made by adding chopped parsley to boiled rice.

Like a hearty sandwich? Combine cold frankfurters, baked beans, catsup and mustard for the filling. This is delicious in toasted buns.

Like raw vegetable filling? Chopped cabbage and nuts with grated carrots and mayonnaise are delicious.

pounds of feed. The 78 apparent culs, which were being fed an inferior laying mash, rose from a production of 26 per cent to 57 per cent, equaling their best birds on a high-cost diet.

Another pen of hens producing less than the normal pens was given surcromycin supplement with a high-cost feed. Production jumped from 40 to 80 per cent. After six weeks, the supplement was discontinued for one week and production dropped to 50 per cent. Production of the supplement was reinstated in the diet, production again rose to 80 per cent.

The Etcherberrys had 100 hens in an inferior strain which had proved disappointing in production. They were placed on a low-cost mash containing the surcromycin supplement. Production rose from 37 per cent to 80 per cent within 30 days.

Lederle scientists became interested and have started controlled experiments to determine how much Aurofase is actually required to maintain this high production on a low cost feed. They also hope to learn just what effect this super dosage will have on high producing birds.

The amount of Aurofase used in these early tests will make the cost prohibitive for use throughout the flock. The amount used may be many times greater than necessary to increase egg production. Pellets super-charged with surcromycin supplement possibly will be the answer to overcoming the summer slack period in egg production since experiments show the summer molt is being delayed.

But, for the sake of entertainment, we're happy Jimmy has an odd constitution.

Our Tidbits' wonderful TV show, "Kukla, Fran and Ollie," will be seen only a half hour each week beginning this fall, a far cry from the half-hour five days a week they were seen previously.

But instead of complaining we are supposed to bow and scrape before NBC for not killing the show altogether. NBC only the other day announced that most of television's stars have been given a raise above the air.

We're trying to think of ways to make Jimmy's show more interesting without missing a single performance.

Oddly enough, if Durante had surrendered under the circumstances, he would have been a martyr to the show world.

much as we like the lovable comedian, we think the "show must go on" adage is often carried too far and is almost ridiculous at times.

COUNCIL TO OK BUDGET ON MONDAY

Adoption of the city's budget on second reading will highlight the council meeting of the City of Virginia Beach next Monday night, according to information released by the city manager's office this week.

The annual budget for the new year which begins on July 1 is $1,200,000 and is the first budget for the new City of Virginia Beach.

Included in the budget is the special tax fund which is designed to help defray the cost of the erosion control project, special garbage collection and advertising the community on a national scale.

Other routine matters will be brought before the city council on Monday night, but the most important item on the agenda is adoption of the budget.

The city has revised its book-keeping system and has changed its fiscal year from September 1 to July 1 in keeping with the State system and that of most communities in Virginia.

State auditors have been at city hall for the past three weeks making in setting up the new system which will promote more efficient bookkeeping.

Episcopal Women to Sponsor Food Sale

There will be a food sale at the Haven Parish House, 10th Street and Atlantic Avenue, Friday, July 25, from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. The sale is being sponsored by the ladies of the Episcopal Church and delicious home-baked pastries and other articles of food will be offered to the public for purchase.

Cruise Corporation Charters New $3 Maasden for January Voyage

The Virginia Cruise Corporation, a non-profit organization to promote the Hampton Roads Area as a passenger port, has chartered the Holland America Line's brand new, fully air-conditioned cruise ship the SS Maasden for its fourth South American and Caribbean cruise.

This luxury ocean liner will depart from Norfolk on January 7, 1953, for 14 days of cruising through romantic southern seas.

The Virginia Cruise Corporation is an outgrowth of a group of civic-minded business men who wanted to establish a cruise service originating and terminating at Hampton Roads. The first cruise was sponsored and promoted by the 21st Street Association, the Norfolk Port Authority, and the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce.

At a recent meeting of the corporation's board of directors M. E. Marlowe, Richmond, the company owner, was elected president for the coming year. Marlowe has been a passenger on two previous cruises from Norfolk and has shown great interest in the promotion of South American cruises.

The cruise next January will offer 450 passengers shipboard entertainment and deck sports, fine Dutch food, and sights of five fascinating (Continued on page four)

Governor Battle Asks Volunteers For Spotting Job

Reeves E. Johnson, civil defense coordinator and supervisor of the ground observation service for Virginia Beach, received the following statement Wednesday from Governor John S. Battle:

The Governor emphasized that the Ground Observers are bridging one major gap in the nation's defense by reporting low flying planes, which cannot be picked up by the radar system.

He also quoted this statement from representatives of the Department of Defense with reference to the need for a 24-hour operation: "For the past two years, other elements of the air defense system, that is the Ground Radar Stations, and the Fighter Interceptor Aircraft, have been operating on a continuous 24-hour basis. During this period, Army anti-aircraft artillery has been positioned around some of our major cities on the same alert basis. The final link in our defenses is the Ground Observer Corps. When this element is brought to full operational capacity, all the elements of our air defense system will be continuously operational. If the Ground Observer Corps had been well enough organized and trained two years ago, the Air Force would have requested that it be placed on full time duty at that time."

The threat of atomic attack against the major cities and industries of this country is a real one. Our military estimate is that the Russians have over 400 long-range atomic bombers of the TU-4 type, similar to our B-29's, which they can launch against this country at any time. These aircraft, loaded with atomic and conventional bombs, have the capacity of releasing these bombs into all of our major industrial cities. Flying time for this type of aircraft between the USSR bases and their targets in the United States in most cases is approximately 12 hours."

The Governor continued: "The Ground Observer Corps fills a specific deficiency in the air defense system by closing the gaps in our surveillance that radar cannot cover. Radar waves, like television waves, are projected on approximately straight lines and therefore are subject to obstructions, such as hills and mountains. The Ground Observer Corps and the Air Defense radar stations, working together, can produce adequate coverage by radars tracking the high altitude aircraft and ground observers tracking the low-flying planes."

The Governor continued: "The Ground Observer Corps fills a specific deficiency in the air defense system by closing the gaps in our surveillance that radar cannot cover. The Ground Observer Corps and the Air Defense radar stations, working together, can produce adequate coverage by radars tracking the high altitude aircraft and ground observers tracking the low-flying planes."

We can afford to take chances and the cooperation of many hundreds of our citizens is needed to bridge this gap in our defense. Here in Virginia, we have been unable to operate all of our ground observation posts and adequately man the Filter Center positions because of insufficient volunteers. Posts now throughout Eastern and Northern Virginia are included in the current 24-hour operation and volunteers are particularly needed in these areas, as well as in other sections of the State.

Included also will be scenes of Norfolk and its industrial activity.

No date has been set for the show, but it should be viewed shortly after the Democratic National Convention now in progress in Chicago.

"I feel confident that we can count upon the people of Virginia to render this necessary service; and I urge all those who possibly can do so to make them (Continued on Page Three)

POLICE LACK EVIDENCE ON TWO CRIMES

Two crimes that took place last week-end had led Wednesday stampeded investigation of the Virginia Beach Police Department with fragmentary "leads" being followed but to no avail.

The crimes, committed within one block, saw one man shot in the head in what is thought to have been an attempted robbery at the Cavalier Beach and Cabana Club. The victim was C. Edgar Koonz, young Norfolk business man, who was leaving the club about 3 a.m. Sunday morning.

The second crime found the Gay Manor Hotel robbed of approximately $1,700 early Monday morning. The night clerk, Reggie Dayton, was held up by two men about 4 a.m.

Police have confirmed their investigation of both crimes, but very little information has been learned. In the beach club shooting, Koonz and his companion, Miss Virginia Graves, were halted as they began to descend the stairway from the upper deck of the club.

Information from both Koonz and Miss Graves was to no effect that there was a man at the bottom of the steps and he told them to hold. Koonz reported that he thought it was a joke and when he made a move the assailant began shooting. Four shots were fired and one struck Koonz in the head, grazing the skull.

Police indicated Wednesday that the robbers of the hotel office had "thoroughly studied the premises, or that it could have been an inside job." At least, they felt the robbers had full knowledge of the hotel.

In questioning Dayton, the night clerk, it was learned that the two men, whom he described as being white, young and wearing T-shirts, knew something of the financial setup at the hotel. Dayton stated that he first gave the men $300 kept for change, but that they demanded "the rest of the money."

Dayton said he denied there was more money, whereupon one of the men said:

"Come on, give me that damn deposit."

Koonz was first taken to the Virginia Beach Hospital, but was later removed to DePaul in Norfolk. Wednesday his condition was reported as "good" and it is expected that he will recover.

Meanwhile, Police Chief Robert E. Johnson and Sergeant R. K. Husted will continue their investigation of the two crimes.

'Glory' Choir Will Sing Here Aug. 4

The Common Glory choir, performing every night, this summer, except Mondays, for the outdoor drama in Williamsburg, will come to the First Baptist Church of Virginia Beach, August 4. The public is invited.

The First Baptist Church is considering use of the educational building for a day nursery and kindergarten this fall and winter. In order to ascertain the possibility, a public meeting is being called August 1 at 8 p. m., to discuss the project with parents. Homes not represented by the membership are invited to attend.

Miss America In 'Common Glory'

Lovely Colleen Kay Hutchins, who won the title "Miss America" for her beauty and talent at the "Miss America" pageant in Atlantic City last September, will be a guest performer at Paul Green's symphonic drama, "The Lost Colony," at Waterside Theatre in Manteo, N. C., Tuesday night, July 29. She will be the first of several celebrities scheduled for guest roles in the drama during the remainder of the 12th season of the show.

In "The Lost Colony" Miss Hutchins will appear in the colorful and newly costumed Fish Scene. During recent years other outstanding personalities including Georgia Carroll and LuLu Ogburn "Miss North Carolina" have appeared as guest performers in this scene. During intermission "Miss America" will be introduced to the audience from the stage, and interviewed by the general manager, William Hardy.

ROYAL CHIMPS ENTERTAIN CROWDS AT SEASIDE PARK

The Royal Chimpanzees, the free outdoor act, came to Seaside Park, Virginia Beach, for an entire week. They began with their act Monday, July 21, and will remain there through Sunday, July 27.

Two free performances are given daily at 4 and 10 p.m. These chimps perform in a fast moving action of skating, wire walking, acrobatics and bicycle riding, and engage in all kinds of "monkey shines" and rough and ready horseplay, spontaneous and riotous comedy to keep the audience in continuous bursts of laughter.

The letter also notes that penalties are provided in the case of improper records and information which do not reflect the true operations of the individual or corporate taxpayer or licensee.

Officials urge prompt remittance of taxes to avoid penalty.

It is essential that the progressive program now underway that all special taxes be paid promptly and that records be kept in order since the levy is expected to raise approximately one-quarter million dollars.

Four specific programs benefit from these taxes, namely, beach erosion control, advertising, garbage collection and eventually a convention hall.

Since Virginia Beach became city and the commissioner of revenue's office established on March 1, 1952, those purchasing licenses of all types have found it very convenient to visit the city hall for these licenses. Previously, it was necessary to travel to Princess Anne to purchase these licenses.

Virginia Visitors Get Leaflets Telling Of New Traffic Regulations In State

Thousands of Virginia's visitors by motor car are receiving as they enter the state a leaflet outlining numerous changes in Virginia's traffic laws that became law on July 1. More than 700,000 will be distributed and thousands of posters will be placed calling attention to a vigorous campaign backed by legislative enactment, the purpose of which is to make driving on Virginia's magnificent highways safer, and more enjoyable and to protect the visitor from carelessness and reckless highway users.

Virginia, on July 1, raised its general passenger car speed limit to 85 miles an hour but also authorized the suspension of drivers' licenses for ten days in cases of first conviction for speeding more than five miles faster than the legal limit in areas where the legal limit is 45 miles per hour or more.

For second convictions within the year a strict six day suspension of driving license is mandatory. Driving license is mandatory. The limit for trucks has been reduced to 45 miles per hour.

Of more interest to the Virginia tourist is the rigid strengthening of the Division of Motor Vehicles' hearing program whereby accident and arrest-prone drivers, as well as those who are unfit physically can be summoned to show cause why their licenses should not be suspended or revoked although they have managed to stay without the mandatory grounds for such action. In addition, a driver involved in two accidents resulting in personal injury or property damage to the extent of $500.00, or convicted of two moving violations is "Please cooperate, don't violate within a year can be re-examined late."

STOCK CAR DRIVERS IN BENEFIT RACE

The array of stock car race drivers above will compete in special races at the Princess Anne Speedway, August 1, for the benefit of the London Bridge Fire Department. The Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Stock Car Association will be on hand in case of accidents. Front row, left to right, are E. H. Hill, B. Sperry, Joe Weatherly, G. Kirby, R. Flores and M. Williams. Back row, left to right, are Jimmie Hudgins, B. Chapman, R. Pott and M. Oldham.

NO BANDAID

The government has followed the practice of allowing companies engaged in defense work to depreciate plant expansions for military production in five years rather than the longer periods usually allowed. There are two reasons for this. The first is that some expansions might be useless if defense production should be curtailed. The second is to furnish an incentive for corporations to risk their capital in productive effort to meet an emergency.

Of course, the more rapid depreciation rate means temporarily lower taxes. However, in following such a practice the government is most certainly not dispensing "bandaids" to favored companies, as the head of the oil workers' union recently implied in the case of one of the larger oil companies which is spending some $120,000,000 of its own money to step up vitally needed petroleum product output. The situation is akin to the government going to a farmer and asking him to build wholly at his own cost an expensive dairy barn to step up milk production to help meet a national emergency. After the inflated demand of the emergency is past the farmer may be left with his capital tied up in a white elephant. It would seem eminently fair and reasonable in these days of new confiscatory taxation to let him depreciate his expanded plant over a shorter period of time—and that is what the government is allowing companies to do. It is a far cry from a "bandaid."

DON'T UNDERESTIMATE FREE ENTERPRISE

What New York Times reporter Thomas P. Swift described as "one of the most comprehensive undertakings in the history of the $23,000,000,000 electric industry" were recently announced.

Fifteen business-managed power companies have made commitments to the Atomic Energy Commission to provide more than 2,200,000 kilowatts of electricity for a new gaseous diffusion plant. The initial cost will be about $300,000,000. It is expected that the plant will be located in southern Ohio.

This should be of interest to those who have failed for the socialist line that private enterprise isn't capable of providing the nation with its electric power needs—and that the only way to do the job is to dig deep into the public till and build tax-subsidized, politically-managed socialized plants and systems. And it should also cause the punch-drunk American taxpayer to cast a cold eye on the proposals for putting the government into the power business in practically every region—to the destruction of taxable private property as well as state and local rights and responsibility.

The commitments made to AEC might seem relatively unimportant if they were unique or even unusual. But they aren't—not by a long shot. At the present moment, two other king-sized power developments are in the offing and the utilities are ready and eager to go ahead with them—without a nickel of tax money.

One is in New York, where a large amount of additional water is available for hydroelectric developments on the Niagara River, as a result of a change in the treaty between this country and Canada. This project will cost well over $300,000,000. One political group wants the Federal government to take it on—another wants it done by New York State. In either case, the taxpayers would foot the tremendous bill and little or no taxes would ever be paid by the socialized system. If, on the other hand, a group of New York utility are authorized to go ahead by Congress, private money will do it all, and new sources of tax revenue will be created.

A similar situation exists in Idaho, with another $300,000,000-plus project for developing power on the Snake. An Idaho utility is prepared to start construction if it can get the authorization. It is being blocked by those who want the government to build a dam—against the taxpayers' expense; and at the expense of Idaho's sovereignty as a state.

Remember these facts of record the next time you hear it argued that free enterprise isn't capable of doing the big jobs.

CANNIBAL TAXES

Regardless of the political promises we are hearing these days, it may soon be necessary for Uncle Sam to reduce taxes in order to increase the Federal income.

That's right! That law of diminishing returns is finally here . . . and it really works. The liquor industry is today's prime example, for, in the first five months after Congress added $1.50 more per gallon to the excise tax last November, the Government has collected, not more, but nearly 176 million dollars less!

"KING FOR A DAY"

FORT STORY NEWS

July 24, 1952, marks the 36th anniversary of the official designation of this installation as Fort Story. The Cape Henry site was named in honor of Major General John Patten Story, Chief of Artillery from January 1904 to June 1905. During its 36 years, Fort Story has been outstanding in its field functions, as a Coast Artillery training location. It grew to be the longest-continued installation on the east coast after World War I; during the war its convalescent hospital treated 13,472 combat veterans; it was once the foremost training site for the Army Nurse Corps; and today, it is the scene of the greater portion of the Army's Amphibious Truck training.

Today, under the command of Colonel Arthur W. Smith, Fort Story provides for its personnel all the facilities available at much larger camps, and has become an integral part of the community life of Virginia Beach.

The second of three groups of Reserve Officers' Training Corps men to train at Fort Story completed their schools on Wednesday, July 23. Representing over fifty universities throughout the nation, the men are sent to Fort Story by the Army's Transportation Center, to initiate their training. During one period of their training, part of the group is sent to Fort Story to round out their Transportation Corps instruction, with training in amphibious truck operation. The three days spent by each increment at Fort Story sees a tightly-scheduled training program consisting of sixteen hours of water operation and eight hours classroom lectures. During the water operations, the men are taught the techniques involved in entering and leaving an LST, how to moor by the side of a ship which is to be unloaded, and the actual unloading procedure. When cargo is removed from a ship, it is brought to shore and is then transported to inland supply dumps.

A few of the men, upon completion of their training, will be commissioned second lieutenants in the Army. Others will return to their studies. Meanwhile, they will have received a well-planned education in the general duties and abilities required of a Transportation Corps officer.

Members of the Organized Reserve Corps from the Boston, Massachusetts area have recently completed training at Fort Story. The training

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Me—Advising a Banker!

The Missus and I were invited to dinner over at Balesville the other night. I sat next to a banker from the White Capital.

"Mighty nice country you've got down there," he says. "Don't be surprised if I come to live there myself. It's a few years I plan to get away from everybody, buy a farm and just take it easy."

"Well," I told him, "I'd like to have you. But when business calls to buy a farm and 'take it easy' be off winds up working harder than ever. It takes work to run a farm right no matter how many

And from where I sit," I continued, "you won't 'get away' from people either. Neighbors are plenty important in a farming community—whether it's helping out another out of just friendly visiting over a sensible glass of beer." "Third work and neighbors dropping in all the time?" he asks, looking at me over his glasses. Then he smiled and says, "Sounds wonderful. You've just sold me on a farm."

is similar to that received by the ROTC groups, but emphasizes port operations in conjunction with other phases of amphibious supply tactics. The men were given a two-week summer training under the supervision of the 59th Transportation Port Company, a permanently stationed company.

The group is actually a combination of the 70th Army units, the 70th and 29th Transportation Port Companies, the command of Captain David W. Romney, Jr., and Captain James A. Wilson, respectively. Returning to Fort Eustis on Friday, the group will entrain for Boston Saturday morning.

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile came to Fort Story on Friday, July 18, and left with 103 pints of blood, donated by the military and civilian personnel stationed here. The Bloodmobile usually visits about once every three months, but it is planned that it will return again in early August to finish the collections of Fort Story personnel, interrupted by vital training.

The Army and Air Force Exchange Service takes time out this month to honor the anniversary of the establishment of the PX as an integral part of the Armed Forces.

It was on Feb. 25, 1895, that the first PX was established under General Order Number 46.

Prior to that date, the soldier had been forced to buy from roving merchants, called "surfers." These men had no obligation in cheating and overcharging troops who, at that time, were scattered throughout the west at places like Fort Laramie, Dodge City and Bent's Fort—the rougher of frontier towns.

To partially alleviate this condition, the men banded together to form their own customs. These were fair, efficient, but by each of the men putting a dollar or two into it, they found they could purchase small items of necessity and convenience for themselves. If, on occasion, they made a profit, it was put into a general reserve fund.

Word of this custom arrangement eventually reached the War Department, where ten military men were impressed. They found that the custom system provided badly needed services, satisfied the basic needs of the men and was a valuable improvement of morale. It was decided to make it an official operation.

TOP MAN

ADLAI E. STEVENSON

(Editor's Note: The nomination of Adlai E. Stevenson as standard bearer for the Democratic Party, while not unexpected, was not unexpected. As the convention went on, many voters from states other than Illinois and his neighbors wondering about the man—who he is—what are his qualifications, etc.)

Adlai Stevenson is well known among top-flight politicians and statesmen, but little known outside his own state by the rank and file of the Democratic Party. It is to correct this lack of knowledge that The Sun-News presents the following biographical sketch of the man.

His first candidacy for an elective office, that of the governorship of Illinois, Adlai E. Stevenson won the election from the incumbent Dwight H. Green by the largest margin in State history. Stevenson, a Democrat, entered upon his gubernatorial duties in January of 1949. Previously the lawyer had served in the National Government as an assistant to the Secretary of State of the Navy, had helped to found the United Nations Charter, and had acted as adviser to, and as member of, United States delegations to United Nations conferences.

The grandson and namesake of a Vice-President of the United States, Adlai Ewing Stevenson was born in Los Angeles, California, on February 5, 1900. Through his mother, Helen Louise (Davis) Stevenson, he is a fifth-generation Illinoisan, a grandson of Jesse Fell, who was the first to propose Lincoln for the Presidency. His paternal grandfather Adlai Stevenson (1884-1929), who earned the nickname "The Headsmen" because of his removal of some forty thousand Republican postmasters during Democratic President Grover Cleveland's first administration, was Vice-President in Cleveland's second term, and campaigned for re-election on the Bryan ticket in the year of his grandfather's birth. At the time of his grandfather's death, Stevenson was managing gold and copper mines in Arizona and New Mexico for Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst. Later he managed forty-nine farms in Illinois, Iowa, and Indiana, a total of 10,500 acres. Also prominent in Illinois Democratic politics, Lewis Stevenson was, for a time Secretary of State of Illinois, and in 1914-17 served as chairman of the State Board of Pardons.

Adlai Stevenson 2d attended the public schools of Bloomington, Illinois, 126 miles southwest of Chicago, then prepared for college at the Chautauqua School in Wallingford, Connecticut. His education was interrupted by service with the United States Naval Reserve in 1918, with the rank of apprentice seaman. Graduated from Princeton University in 1922, in 1924-25 young Stevenson was assistant managing editor of the Bloomington Daily Pantagraph, which his family had owned for several generations.

Having studied law at Northwestern University in Chicago, Stevenson was graduated with his J.D. degree and was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1926. In 1927 he made Chicago his permanent residence and became associated with the law firm of Cutting, Moore and Sidney. Six years later, in 1933-34, with the title of

CITY HIKES WATER RATES FOR BIG QUANTITY USERS

NEW AUDITING SYSTEM FOR SPECIAL TAX FUND

Heavy users of water in Virginia Beach will pay a higher rate in the future as a result of action taken by the City Council on Monday night.

The new rate will remain the same for those users of up to 25,000 gallons per month, but that amount will increase to 45 cents per thousand gallons.

Therefore, the city has charged a minimum on $8,000 of $2.50, 40 cents from $8,000 to 25,000 gallons, 40 cents from 25,000 to 100,000 gallons, and 30 cents for that portion above 100,000 gallons.

At the present time, the city purchased water from the City of Norfolk at the rate of 23.1 cents per thousand gallons. The city bears the expense of treating the water, maintaining the water mains, pays the cost of pumping and absorbs leakage. Last year the City of Virginia Beach used $26,800,000 gallons.

The Hotel and Cottage Association recommended a standby ordinance which would transfer responsibility for building permits from the building inspector to the Council for construction east of the Army Air Forces base.

The ordinance was adopted and will be in effect until December 1 to allow the zoning board and planning commission to set up restrictive ordinances for the area.

In other action, Council raised the salary of the city manager by $1,000 per year, bringing it to a total of $8,000 annually. A similar recommendation to raise the salary of the director of public works was defeated by a tie vote.

It was announced that M. L. Goodman, Norfolk accountant, had been engaged to set up a system of auditing the special tax fund. Mayor Murray said the move was largely "recommendatory."

The city manager was instructed to make a list of city properties which could be sold. The request came after council heard

property between 14th and 15th streets and portions of Lake Holley.

The Council will hold a special session on August 5 to take up a tax increase of $1 which already has been approved on first reading. All of the increase is to go to school operation.

SHORTEST OF PRINTERS

A report has just been received by

A. H. Hill, principal of the Danville Technical Institute, that there is a need of over a hundred printers in the state of Virginia by members of the Virginia Press Association and the Virginia Printers Association.

The report was sent to the Danville Technical Institute by Ed Meyer, who is the secretary for both the Virginia Press Association and the Virginia Printers Association. These two organizations are sponsoring the printing department of the Danville Technical Institute which they hope will train these needed printers.

Known Foreign Relations

Stevenson had long taken an interest in international affairs—he was and is a director of the Chinese Council of Foreign Relations, the Chinese Association, and the Woodrow Wilson Foundation.

In 1945 the Chicago lawyer became special assistant to Secretary of State Stettinius and then to Byrnes, a post in which the New York Times wrote editorially that he "sewed with the devil."

Over-Exposure to Sun May be Dangerous

It is better to exercise caution than to suffer the painful and sometimes dangerous effects of over-exposure to the sun," State Health Commissioner Mark J. Shanholtz warns in the midst of one of the worst heat waves on record.

"People likely to be affected seriously by too much heat include those suffering from any general disease, alcohol addicts, the very young, the very old, or the very fat," Dr. Shanholtz remarked. "Sun stroke and heat exhaustion are the two most common ailments from over-exposure. Although they result from the same causes, they differ greatly both in symptoms and methods of treatment," the health official said.

Dr. Shanholtz explained that in sun stroke, the symptoms include a very red face, dilated pupils, hot dry skin, no perspiration, labored breathing and sighing; a full and rapid pulse and very high temperature. Often there are spasms of the muscles.

"The patient should be moved into a cool place immediately and a doctor should be called. After removing the patient's clothes, the body should be cooled. Three methods of cooling are recommended by the American Red Cross: (1) Wrap the patient's body in a sheet and pour on cold water;

(2) A cool bath, up to 20 minutes, with brisk rubbing to stimulate circulation; (3) Cold, wet cloths or ice packs, with rubbing. The patient should lie with his head elevated, and no stimulants should be given," Dr. Shanholtz said.

"People who have not been in good health or who are immature are especially susceptible to heat exhaustion. Loss of salt from the body is the chief cause," Dr. Shanholtz continued. "Heat exhaustion usually begins with muscular weakness, dizziness, nausea, and an uncertain, staggering gait. The face is pale and perspiration is profuse. The pulse is weak and breathing is shallow. The patient may become cold, even though the air is warmer than body heat. Frustration or weakness may become extreme."

In treating heat exhaustion, move the patient to circulating air. Make him lie down and provide a moderate amount of covering. A half teaspoon of salt in about one-third glass of water may be given repeatedly until the patient's thirst ceases or until water or fruit juice may also be given. External heat may be used to relieve cramps. Call a doctor if exhaustion symptoms don't pass away readily."

In concluding, Dr. Shanholtz urged that those differences between sun stroke and heat exhaustion be recognized and remembered. "Treating a case of sun stroke or heat exhaustion or vice versa could lead to very unfortunate results," he said.

All students who plan to enter the eighth, ninth, tenth or eleventh grades of the Virginia Beach High School in September are requested to register at the Virginia Beach Community Building on Tuesday, August 12, at 10 a.m. Mr. James A. Johnson, the principal, Mrs. Margaret Jeter, assistant principal—guidance director, and Mrs. Julia Hudgings, guidance counselor for the eighth graders, will be on hand to welcome the students and help them to arrange their schedules for the coming school year.

DAY NURSERY TO BE DISCUSSED IN PUBLIC MEETING, BAPTIST CHURCH

A public meeting is called at

First Baptist Church for Friday,

August 2, of parents interested in sending their children to a day

Miss Gladys Davis Bride of A. E. Turner

The marriage of Miss Gladys Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Vernon Hickey, Fort Lee, N.J., to James Tredway Spratley, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Grey on Arctic Crescent, took place Sunday afternoon, July 6, at 3 o'clock at Lynnhaven Presbyterian Church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Raymond G. Fifteen, pastor of the church, with a double ring ceremony. The church was decorated with lilies of the valley, roses, white carnations and white lilies.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white lace and satin dress and a white veil over roses. Her bouquet was of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white carnations showered with negligee.

Miss Joyce Anne Neutze was maid of honor. Misses Carol and Elizabeth Gwathmey were bridesmaids. The bride's mother, Mrs. Catherine of Lynnhaven, and Catherine of Lynnhaven, were page girls. They wore gowns of blue pink satin, green satin net, orange taffeta and carried bouquets of carnation sashes with matching flowers in their hair.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Specialist was best man. The groomsmen were William A. Hales, brother of the bride, and Raymond Speight of Lynnhaven.

Mrs. Evelyn T. White was matron of honor. The bride's maid of honor, Misses Carol and Elizabeth Gwathmey, were page girls. They wore gowns of blue pink satin, green satin net, orange taffeta and carried bouquets of carnation sashes with matching flowers in their hair.

MARY RICHARDSON'S spacious new quarters for her ANTIQUE DECORATING SHOW on Lubkin Road is a clever example of what is interesting, distinctive and clever women could do to the old Wayne Woods building to turn it over as every visitor to the show will agree. Mary's first floor plan is filled with antique furniture, mirrors, lamps, chandeliers, and interesting decorations with original or copied and well-preserved. It's quite a place. HORACE DUNN'S phenomenal success in five years' time makes him for the successful Virginia woman's broker on the beach. A hobby, a developing training course of Wayne and Mary Dunn School, a small baby shop and more—Linda Dunn's new outfit. Summer visitors tend to go to MARY RICHARDSON'S store, in expectation of having found a big-time shop, outside you might say.

One is the HARRELL MAYFLOWER PHARMACY, in the Mayflower Apartments (there is also a large office there). The other is located in the Jefferson Hotel, corner Atlantic and 18th Street. WILEY C. HARRELL, owner, is particularly proud of his pharmaceutical services with the original and old-fashioned idea that a drug store is a drug store for all! He maintains registered pharmacists at all times to give aid to the sick folks—and even vacationers like to know where they can get service in their own city. If you're in town, or on the beach, come in—conveniences, cosmetics, gifts, novelties, cigarettes and candy, lunches or sandwich, they're at HARRELL'S. . . Fashion, That Is!

By Alice Brewer White
(Fashion and Women's Director, WTAR)

With that second cup of coffee, listen to the "Women's World," 9-9:30 a.m., Mondays through Saturdays, WTAR-TV. Alice Brewer's chatty column is the latest fall fashion, home-style tips, club and civic events and especially transcribed interviews with New York personalities.

Now is the time for the exodus of the American magazine editors to foreign shores for ultra fashion ideas. Carmel Snow, famous Harper's Bazaar editor-in-chief, is in the lead in attending the winter fashion shows in France and Rome Italy, then on to Paris. Anita Colby, who has just finished an exclusive article on "The New American Look" for LOVE magazine October 21 issue, is on her way at the moment to the Paris shows. Anita's gorgeous face will also appear on the November Cosmopolitan's cover.

Paris designers are turning out hats that drap or ripple like hair.

They call them "hatheaks," of all things! One writer claims they look like hats for the lady who has decided to depose her hair; they'll cover straggling ends of hair while a short haircut is growing in again.

Next to the good old black velvet, as the No. 1 preference, favorite materials seem to be fuzzy or satiny feels in a new color range of soft, luscious fruit, vegetable and metal tints.

Color runs riot in the new lines of French costume jewelry. Colored stones set in real cabochon styles, with matching earrings, will be the rage. Christian Dior's new length of neckline stops at the base of the throat. Jacques Fath prefers a longer line. Long strands which can be wound 'round and 'round will be popular. Most designers are getting away from the choker lengths in beads and pearls. Lots of chunky blob motifs mounted on rhinestone chains.

Bound to be popular soon over here will be the opulent camellia tape pins held by a double-headed emerald 800 pif. I understand that thousands of these pins have been sold to every country.

'Karen' (Prentice-Hall, Inc.) is a mother's true story of how she fought to give her little girl life, after birth, by Marie Killilea, who also writes informatively and sympathetically about the genetics and rapid growth of a great national organization, the United Cerebral Palsy Association. It's a heart-warming story told beautifully and simply by the mother of the afflicted Karen, a most extraordinary child. It's a fine family life book about the home and the people in it, its friction and its fun — lots of fun and gaiety — its common interest in baseball and its financial problems. It's about modern medicine, as a science and an art, and about individual doctors and nurses and therapists. You will find inspiration in the description of the development of self-reliance in an individual. You'll feel the richer for having read about Karen, her mother, father, sisters and brothers, friends and pets and the knowledge that people still have faith and courage to meet problems at hand. It isn't a sad story. It could have been. Instead, it is a story of success, information, fun to read and often may—an inspiring affirmation that our happiness or grief depends mainly upon ourselves. I liked this book. I liked meeting Karen's mother and interviewing her for my "Woman's World" program.

From Port Lee, Va., comes word that Rosalind Russel has the place agog with her charm and vivaciousness while she is making the film "Never Wear a Hat at a Wac." She recently completed an 18-week tour in John Druten's "Bell, Book and Candle," grossing $575,000. She is definitely planning on a Broadway stage debut this fall in a musical version of "My Sister Eileen," costing about $275,000 to produce.

Discriminating women of fashion for thirty-three years have confidently looked to FLORENCE WILSON for fashion-rightness as each season changes. FLORENCE WILSON'S smart fashions have been modeled in many charity benefit fashion shows presented by club women at the Beach. She enjoys the patronage of many fashionably smart Princess Anne-Virginia Beach women. Although MISS WILSON is now a resident of Virginia Beach, her shop is still located at 300 West Freemason Street, Norfolk, where free parking space is available to her customers. You'll find daily arrivals of new summer cottons, sheers and silk shantungs... stunning mid-summer hats with brims. (To wear one of FLORENCE WILSON'S hats is a true mark of fashion distinction!) You'll find wonderful gift suggestions for your summertime week-end hosts in Hobie jewelry and Henri Bendel cosmetics as well as divine lingerie and delicately lovely blouses, the ultimate in loveliness. Hours at this shop are 9:30 til 5 daily. Phone: 25226, Norfolk.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

By LUCILLE CLARK

See "Let's Cook" every Monday through Friday at 1 P.M. on WTAR-TV

Hi, Neighbor! Hello, and how are you? Summer time — good or summertime — hasn't it been a hot one — or I should say, Are we having a hot summer?" During this warm weather it's a good idea to take a second look and determine whether or not you're storing the food in your refrigerator as it should be. You're money-wise if you do, because I know you want to make use of every bit of the food that you buy. For instance, are you caring for meat properly? From the National Livestock and Meat Board come directions on how to store meat correctly, and I want to pass this information on to you. It is of greatest importance, and sometimes we hurriedly come in from market and put the food in the refrigerator without giving much thought as to HOW we are putting it away.

Uncooked meat, pork roast, lamb chops, beef, or ground meat should be unwrapped the minute you get it home from your market. When unwrapped, place meat in your refrigerator, meat kept to it with a sheet of waxed paper. This allows the air to circulate around the meat, slightly drying out the surface. When buying vacuum meats, liver, tongue, heart or kidneys, plan to use them within 48 hours. Ground meat should be used as soon as possible after purchase.

The meat left over from a roast after dinner has been served must be cared for in a different way. You don't want a dried-out piece of leftover meat, I'm sure, so wrap it tightly in a waxed paper or aluminum foil and store in your refrigerator. You may prefer to use a refrigerator dish, but be sure it has a tight cover on it. Cured meats, such as bacon and sausages, are cared for the same as cooked meats. Here's a hint for bacon. Remove only the strip you'll be cooking at a time. Do not take the whole package out and while cooking let it get warm and soft, and then put the part you didn't use back in the refrigerator. It's remarkable how much lessened if you do.

You'll probably be using more ready-to-serve meats these hot summer days, so please be sure to wrap them in waxed paper or aluminum foil before storing. Canned meats may be stored on your pantry shelf—with one exception, canned ham. A canned ham must be kept under refrigeration as indicated on the can.

Thanks, Mrs. B., for your recipe for Aristocratic Pickles. Here it is:

6 small onions, sliced
Salts as salted.

Let stand two hours, drain well and spread on tea towels to dry. Make syrup of 2 cups vinegar, 2 cups sugar, 1 tablespoon mustard seed, 2 tablespoons celery seed, 1-1/2 teaspoons powdered alum. Add cucumbers and onions to the syrup and let come to rolling boil. Pack in hot sterilized jars and seal.

Thank you, too, Mrs. B., for the sample. They're delicious.

Don't forget if you have a recipe and would like to share it with us, and would like to share it with us, send it to me, to me of The Sun-News. Bye now. See you next LUCILLE.

Those of you who drooled over reading "Moulin Rouge," the exciting story of Artist Toulouse-Lautrec may like to know that Academy Award Winner Jose Ferrer is going to go all the way for startling performance in the movie of the book when he not only plays the role of the artist, who was but four feet six inches tall, but that of an artist, six-foot four inches tall.

They say Jose is planning on

widely on his own, with a hidden coat-and-tie idea.

What reminds me of an art art I heard while visiting the Metropolitan Museum this past week. Henri Matisse is too ill to leave his bed at the Hotel Regina in Nice, France, for more than four hours a day. He is still painting though on a special easel set up, enabling him to paint in bed.

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor are living in a rented house, on the Rue de la Faubourg d'Orléans in Paris, at the moment.

The duke treasures the photographs on his table of his mother, Queen Mother Mary. He's much tanned, plays golf at the famous St. Cloud course with the visiting champions. He shoots in the low 80's and a friend of his told me the duke has never seen so happy and so warm-hearted toward his fellowmen as he does this summer.

GREAT MAN-GREAT VICTORY

Amid all the oratory of the Re-yoing and nominating speeches heard at the recent Democratic convention at Chicago, no words were more eloquently spoken, more nobly uttered, or had so much weight than those uttered by Governor John S. Battle of Virginia, in his short address setting forth the attitude of the Old Dominion amidst the loyalty pledge which the "leftists" had attempted to ram down the throats of the Southern delegation.

In it, Governor Battle, in simple, sincere words, not attempting to change the will of the majority, nor plead special privilege, yet not retreating one jot or one tittle from the stand his delegation had taken, stated his delegation's position. That it was well received by all delegates, from every state, is an acknowledgment. It was universally acclaimed. And despite those local "experts" who would take from Mr. Battle the credit which much sober minds accord him, and admitting the fact that powerful forces were working to seat the Southern delegates to prevent a split such as occurred four years ago, it cannot be said that Virginia, and later the South Carolina and Louisiana delegations, would have been seated had Mr. Battle not thus forcefully stated our case. Nothing can detract from the credit due our most able Governor in his hour of nobility.

Mr. Battle's appearance on the platform was one of the high points in the Old Dominion's political history. In his quietly eloquent way, our Governor defied the "leftist" forces of the Moody-Humphrey-F.D.R., Jr.-Devers crowd . . . and made it stick. Some have accused Southern Democrats of forsaking the national party, but the same-minded Democrat knows that long ago the national party left them—for the pique glitter of a socialist régénération. If it may well be that the few words spoken by John S. Battle at Chicago may be the apex upon which the Democratic party will swing back to its history-honored position of honor and progressive democracy.

Some editorialists have made much of the declaration that the so-called Moody pledge was not omnibus . . . that all could have signed it without dishonor. With that thesis we are in complete disagreement. Regardless of the words of the Moody document, there is no question but that it was proposed to discomfit the Southern delegates, to make them bow to the will of the Moody-Humphrey-F.D.R., Jr.-Devers gang. Defeating that element of the party, and the Pendleton faction represented by Honest Harry himself (who finally was forced to plead—sub rosa—for the seating of the delegations from below the Mason-Dixon line) was an achievement not to be discounted.

And, as he stated, Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Sparkman will be on the Democratic ballot in Virginia. Never have Virginia Democrats, as a party, bolted the national ticket. They will not do so this year. Returning delegates declare that the choice of Governor Stevenson represents the best choice possible to make. He was not the choice of Virginians—who never deserted the ranks of Senator Dick Russell of Georgia. On the other hand, no one in the Virginia delegation considered standing in the way of making his nomination by acclamation possible.

Miss Betty Brown, daughter of Mrs. John Tyree Brown and the late Mr. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Laurie Glisson of Palatka, Fla., took place at 2 o'clock Saturday, July 4, at the Virginia Beach Methodist Church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Granville S. Currie. Miss Joan Dickey, pastor of the church, and Rev. Robert P. Davis, pastor of the church, and Rev. Norman Etheridge, United Methodist, officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Edgar Brown. She wore a floor-length gown of white lace and nylon net, fastened with a scalloped neckline outlined with gathers of net, and small lace sleeves. The lace bodice extended into a peplum of lace, accented by the bouffant net skirt. Her fingerlike veil of imported illusion was arranged from a crown of illusion. She carried a white prayerbook covered with a white orchid.

Mr. and Mrs. John Tyree Brown, parents of the bride, were present, as well as Rev. and Mrs. Edward L. and Mrs. W. W. Woods of Norfolk, who had come to spend two weeks with Mrs. Woods' parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. McPherson, at Prince Edward Island, Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. James F. Burton have an engaged table awaiting Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Woods at their home in London Park, for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael D. Matheny and three children, who have been guests of Mrs. Glisson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Glisson, at their home in Atlantic, have left to make their home in Belmont, N. J.

Miss Anna Saunders of Norfolk is spending some time with Mrs. Glisson's father at her home on 5th street.

Mrs. Sherman Field Shantz of Columbia, S. C., is visiting her son-in-law, Mrs. Glisson, as a guest at the wedding of Miss Lila Glisson and James Spilley last Saturday evening at Calvary Episcopal Church.

Betty Eleethia Brown, J. B. Glisson United

The marriage of Miss Betty Eleethia Brown, daughter of Mrs. John Tyree Brown and the late Mr. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Laurie Glisson of Palatka, Fla., took place at 2 o'clock Saturday, July 4, at the Virginia Beach Methodist Church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Granville S. Currie. Miss Joan Dickey, pastor of the church, and Rev. Robert P. Davis, pastor of the church, and Rev. Norman Etheridge, United Methodist, officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Edgar Brown. The lace bodice extended into a peplum of lace, accented by the bouffant net skirt. Her fingerlike veil of imported illusion was arranged from a crown of illusion. She carried a white prayerbook covered with a white orchid.

Mr. Shepherd Drewry of Virginia Beach was matron of honor and Mrs. Pat Leon of the Beach was bridesmaid. They wore gowns of pale blue silk organza, made with bodices trimmed with small clusters of white flowers with rhinestone centers. On their heads they wore blue net caps. They carried cascade bouquets of mixed summer flowers.

Dr. Edna was best man for his wife. The ushers were Wesley Glisson, Leonard Wesley Glisson, M.L. Cunningham and Calder Womble of Winston Salem, N.C.; Dr. William Lambeth of Winston Salem, N.C. and Virginia Beach; and Dr. Sherwood Moore of Norfolk and Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The bride traveled in a white crepe dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

Stevenson

International Organization, which is in San Francisco in April 1945, Stevenson was press spokesman for the United States delegation, and is said to have presented the State Department to the members of the International Organization, "no comment." He was appointed Minister and representative to the Presidency Commission of the United Nations, which met in London from April to December. The chief American delegate in the administration of Stevenson, Stevenson was described by columnist Edgar A. Mowrer as having done "what most representatives of foreign countries can consider a magnificent job," and as having "won himself immense popularity . . . by his tact and his ability to understand the other fellow's viewpoint."

Advocate for UN

When the first U.N. General Assembly opened in London in January 1946, Adlai Stevenson was senior adviser to the American delegation, which included Byrnes, Stevenson, Eleanor Roosevelt, Sojourner Truth and Senator Tom Connally and Arthur Vandenberg—a delegation said at this time to have been seconded nearly to its advisers. Stevenson was mentioned in press accounts as representing his country in private negotiations with the other big Five nations. He resigned after the session ended in March, but in July President Truman appointed him alternate delegate to the second session that autumn, in which he and Representative Helen Gulligan Douglas served on the economic and financial committee. In November 1946, he presented his Government's view that a new organization need not be created to succeed UNRRA. Recommended for reentry 1947 sessions at Lake Success, New York, the Chicago lawyer worked under Warren Austin on the administrative and budgetary committee.

In February 1948 Stevenson opened his campaign for the Democratic nomination for the governorship of Illinois, in which he had the support of such national figures as Mrs. Roosevelt and Justice William O. Douglas. During the eight months before election day in November 1948, Stevenson traveled throughout the State of Illinois in a borrowed automobile, making as many as a dozen speeches a day in which he attacked in detail what he called "the scandalous and threifless administration, broken promises, and cynical sale of privilege" by the administration of Governor Green. After the first of these speeches, wrote Tim "Velvetine" Chicago newspaper, knew that

The State Police force under a merit system.

More than 1,300 unnecessary patrols leaped off the state's rolls.

A greatly improved state welfare program with better care and treatment in the state's mental institutions; more money in state aid to blind and old age pensioners and dependent children.

Greater law enforcement: use of the State Police in gambling raids, enforcement of the truck weight laws.

The state's biggest road reconstruction program, with an increase in gas tax and truck license fees to provide funds.

A start towards modernizing the state's 52-year-old Constitution.

Stevenson's faith is Unitarian. Besides his family, he has relatives who are members of the Chicago Committee on Displaced Persons, and was long-time director of the Immigrants Protective League. He is also a vice-president of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society, a director of Hull House and the University of Chicago International House, a member of three bar associations (American, Illinois and Chicago); five clubs, Commercial, Chicago, Attic (Chicago), Ontonagon (Lake Forest), Metropolitan (Washington).

The Chicago lawyer was honored in 1945 with the Navy's Distinguished Civilian Service Award.

AN ORDINANCE

The Board of Supervisors of Princess Anne County at the regular meeting held in the Clerk's office on July 28, 1952, adopted the following ordinance:

WHEREAS, the Board of Supervisors of the County of Princess Anne, Virginia, did on the 13th day of June, 1952, appoint a Planning Commission for said County, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 25 of the Code of Virginia, 1950;

WHEREAS, said Planning Commission will proceed diligently in the fulfillment of its duties as prescribed by law, and in the course thereof will prepare maps of said County, make extensive studies of existing land use, population distribution, trends of development and other factors relating to the physical characteristics and the desirable development of said County, including careful consideration of the characteristics of the various communities and neighborhoods within the County and the neighboring areas for various purposes, and will submit a zoning plan for said County, involving maps showing the proposed boundaries of various districts and the text of a proposed ordinance containing regulations to be observed in said districts. In the event of the preparation of the zoning plan, said Commission will consult with the State Division of Planning and Economic Development and with the planning officials of adjoining local subdivisions in order to aid said Commission in preparing said zoning plan to a comprehensive plan for the entire region of which said County is a part and

WHEREAS, said Planning Commission will hold the hearing on said zoning plan which is required by law before the Board of Supervisors.

WHEREAS, the Board of Supervisors have determined that, and hereby finds that, during the time that will be required for the completion of said zoning plan by said Planning Commission and for the consideration thereof by the Board of Supervisors, including the required public hearings thereon, with the required notice of such hearing, and prior to the effective date of an ordinance adopting said zoning plan, certain uses may be established in said County in locations in which they would not be permitted under the provisions of said zoning plan, thereby impairing the effectiveness and the comprehensiveness of said plan, and in which they would be detrimental to adjacent property and would thereby be injurious to the welfare of their respective neighborhoods and of the County as a whole; now, therefore, in order to prevent such undesirable conditions pending the adoption of said zoning plan by the Board of Supervisors and to protect the public health, safety, morals and general welfare,

Whereas,

AN ORDINANCE

Relating to Disorderly Houses
The Board of Supervisors of its neighbor meeting at 12 o'clock noon, on Monday, August 25, 1952, will hear persons who wish to speak for or against the following proposed ordinance.

BE IT ORDAINED by the Board of Supervisors of Princess Anne County as follows:

1. It shall be unlawful for any person in the County of Princess Anne to keep, maintain or operate for himself or as an officer or agent for any Corporation, Association, Club, Lodge or other organization any disorderly house or place where disorderly persons may meet or may meet for the purpose of illegally dispensing or indulging in intoxicating liquors, gaming or boisterous or other disorderly conduct.

2. It shall be unlawful for any person to frequent or visit any such place for the purpose of illegally dispensing or indulging in intoxicating liquors, gaming or boisterous or other disorderly conduct. Each days keeping of such place constitutes a separate offense and in any prosecution for this offense, the general reputation of such place may be proved.

3. It shall be unlawful for any person in the County of Princess Anne to operate and such place deserted or unoccupied one with barred or locked doors or to refuse admittance of any orderly person attempting to gain the same.

4. Any person violating paragraphs one or two hereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than five hundred dollars or by confinement jail not exceeding six months or both; any person violating paragraph three hereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars.

This ordinance shall become effective from its passage.

Signed: JOHN V. FENTRESS,

Clerk.

NOTICE

The regular meeting of the Board of Supervisors of Princess Anne County will be held in the Clerk's Office on August 25, 1952, at 10:00 P.M., at which time persons will be heard for or against the following amendment to the general zoning ordinance section 2, regulation for residence districts—to be amended as follows:

In any residence district no dwelling or group of dwellings shall hereafter be erected or altered to provide less than 15,000 square feet of lot area and not less than 75 feet of lot width at its front for each dwelling, provided, however, that this shall not apply where the ownership of any lot makes it impractical to have an area and width as provided above and which lot shall have been platted and recorded as a plat or deed prior to the passage of the ordinance.

And provided further, that in any community section, subdivision, lot, piece or parcel of land where a public or community water supply is available to it and used in connection with a lot, piece or parcel of land no building shall be erected on a lot having a square foot area of less than 7,500 feet and a width of less than 60 feet at its front, provided however, this restricted width shall not apply where the ownership of

DUKE Unit Quits Story, At Last

The third and final increment of "Duke Officers' Training Corps" left Fort Story on Wednesday, July 30, to return to Fort Davis, where they will wind up their summer training.

While at Fort Story, each of the three groups has undergone training in amphibious operations, including lectures and actual operations. The training centered on the maintenance and operation of the DUKW, the Army's two and one-half ton amphibious truck. Lectures covered safety, general operations, towing, cargo handling, shipside mooring, and preventive maintenance. Operations, totaling 16 hours, were in Chesapeake Bay off Fort Story, where the men learned to enter and leave an LST, and to remove cargo from supply ships to be delivered into inland supply areas.

While at Fort Story, the training cycle of three days duration was made pleasanter by the liberal pass policy which allowed the cadets to visit Virginia Beach.

Lt. Frank W. Cox, Jr. In Motor Transport

The Infantry Motor Transportation 10-week course trains officers in motor transport and motor maintenance duties in infantry units.

It is one of two courses at the Infantry School open to officers and enlisted men of the Regular Army, Organized Reserve, and National Guard. Courses range from training recruits to parachutists to training regimental commanders and divisional general staffs.

Frank W. Cox, Jr., second lieutenant, student of the current organization and class of the 3rd Company, 1st Student Reg. officer of the Motor Transportation Infantry, has been in the service 10 months. This course, which Cox is taking, is being given at Fort Benning, Georgia.

Lt. Cox is a native of Ocean City and a graduate of Ocean City High School. He was graduated on June 12, 1951, from the Virginia Military Institute, Lexington.

Before entering the military service, young Cox was a honored civil engineer.

Army Chaplaincy Has Anniversary

The Army Chaplaincy celebrated its 177th anniversary on July 30. From time immemorial soldiers have had their spiritual advisors. The Egyptians, six centuries before Christ, Christians came into battle accompanied by priests.

The Hebrews, under Joshua, marched around the walls of Jericho, led by seven priests. No declaration of war could be made by ancient Rome without first consulting the priests of the College of Augurs. Christianity provided for Army Chaplains in its ecclesiastical law at the Council of Nicaea on April 21, A.D. 325.

In our own country, the history of the chaplaincy is as old as the nation itself. Men who fought in the French and Indian wars had their chaplains with them. When Gen. George Washington appealed to pastors of Colonial congregations to provide religious ministrations for his Continental Army, they put on their hats, locked up their churches, shouldered their pikes, and were off to the war.

Chaplains have served with distinction in every war in which this country has engaged. Their long, proud history of service reached its peak in World War II when more than 6,700 ministers, priests, and rabbis answered the call to duty and served their country as Army chaplains. Today the chaplains are again recording a great history with their faithful service and heroic deeds in Korea and their ministrations to American troops all over the world. We wish all the chaplains a very Happy Birthday on their 177th anniversary.

Highway Dept. Has 21 Caskets For Sale

Twenty-one caskets, one with glass windows, and a velvet-trimmed chief mourner's hat are among the State Highway Department's items now received and required by the State Highway Department in a right-of-way compensation. And the department would like to sell them.

The lot came with the purchase of an abandoned general store that flourished in the earlier 1900s. Boarded up for nearly a quarter of a century, the store and its merchandise were purchased by the State Highway Department to clear the way for a new road being built in Southwest Virginia.

The Highway Department must frequently buy the contents of a building in making right of way settlements, the road agency people explained.

Many miscellaneous items of value in the recent purchase, including dozens of old-fashioned corsets, have been destroyed, and any useable metal or lumber salvaged, for future use. But just what to do with the 21 caskets and a velvet-trimmed chief mourner's hat is still bothering the road people.

REGIONAL SUPERVISOR

Dr. C. W. Watson, regional supervisor of federal aid to wildlife restoration, from Atlanta, Ga., visited Virginia last week to review the commission's federal aid projects, especially the Hog Island waterfowl refuge, which he described as "one of the finest and best developed of any of the best artificial havens for waterfowl Atlantic Flyway."
